MARRIAGE ENDS WITH LITTLE ADO

Girl's Two-Year Union Terminated as Father Says She Lacked His Consent

It took Dorothy Cox just two minutes and forty-five seconds yesterday to clear herself of the situation she got into when she ran away to Santa Ana in 1925 and married Raymond Cox. Judge Falk, in one of the briefest proceedings on record, annulled the marriage.

Mrs. Cox did not even have to take the stand. Her attorney, Jack Greenberg, simply called upon her father, S. C. Campbell, to testify.

"Was your daughter 18 years of age when she married?" Greenberg asked.

"No."

"Did she have the consent of her parents?"

"No."

And that was all there was to it. a complete legal case having been established.

"You can bet dad will know about it the next time I get married, however," Mrs. Cox declared, as she left the courtroom.

Dixie Apple Pie to be Cooking Class Feature

Orange bread and banana nut with an old-fashioned Dixie apple pie will feature the demonstrations by Mrs. Mabille E. Wyman, food expert, at her free cooking class this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the patio garden of the Southern California Manufacturers' Exhibit, 130 South Broadway.

In addition, Mrs. Wyman will make a snow-whip pudding in response to numerous requests, and a Waldorf salad, which she says is something of a novelty. Each week Mrs. Wyman includes in her demonstrations recipes that have been requested by students and she is glad to have inquiries for the novel and the unusual, as well as for dishes for the modest table.

AIR SIGNAL DEVICE WILL BE TESTED

PLANES TO BE DIRECTED FROM ROOF OF PLAYHOUSE IN HOLLYWOOD

Using a new signaling device for the first time, an attempt at conveying messages to a group of airplanes from the ground is to be made from the roof of the Hollywood Playhouse Monday afternoon. Six ships of the Four Hundred and Forty-second Pursuit Squadron will create a battle formation over Hollywood and receive flying orders by means of the device.

Ten cadets, former students of Hollywood High School, will be in the planes. A celebration in their honor is to take place at the theater Monday night.

WIFE SUES CONVICT

Believes College Husband Was Off Attending Wife Jails

During their courtship, Mrs. Harrison told Elizabeth Harrison a lot about the schools and colleges she had attended, she relates in a suit for annulment she filed yesterday.

So she thought she was marrying an educated husband, until his arrest on a check charge caused her to investigate his academic career, Mrs. Harrison says. She then learned, according to her complaint, that he must have been talking about jails. At present, the complaint says, Mr. Harrison is engaged in a post-graduate course at Folsom.

GIRL EXPECTED TO DIE FROM POISON POTION

Suffering from the effects of apparently self-administered poison, according to police, Marjorie Smith, an employee of a sanitarium at 1700 East Boulevard, Venice, is in the General Hospital there. Her condition is said to be serious and she is not expected to recover. Ann Wilson, manager of the sanitarium, is said to have informed police that the girl was on parole and reported regularly to Mrs. Catherine Powell, State Parole Officer.

CHURCHES ALARMED

Loss in Members Half-Million

Survey Report Reveals Startling Decline by Protestant Groups

Modernism Blamed to Moral Lax Following War and Pastors' Lethargy

PHILADELPHIA, July 29. (AP)—An "alarming" falling off in church membership in Protestant communions at the rate of 500,000 a year, is noted in the report of the continuation committee to the fourteenth conference of such groups here today by the moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America. The conference was held here April 19, 20 and 21.

In spirit of Dr. H. K. Carroll, [illegible], the committee secretary, [illegible] issued in anticipation of a movement in which all the churches affected by the losses are expected to join in an effort to relieve the situation.

BORDER FIRE LOSS HIGH

Tia Juana Toll Half-Million

Ten Buildings in Heart of City Swept by Blaze in Early Morning

Red Mill and Coronado Hotel With Numerous Bars on Casualty List

SAN DIEGO, July 29. (Exclusive) Breaking out at 2:30 o'clock this morning, a fire at Tia Juana destroyed ten buildings, occupying two city blocks, and caused losses estimated at $500,000 before being brought under control at 5 o'clock.

The buildings destroyed were the Coronado Hotel, the Red Mill, the Honeydew Bar, the San Diego Cafe and Bar and the Anchor Bar on Main street; the Cuevas Building, a confectionery and fruit store, the Detroit Hotel, the Oasis Bar and the retail branch of Cather's distillery on Second street.

The fire started in a rubbish heap in the rear of the San Diego Cafe and had attacked and obtained a good start on the rear of the Coronado Hotel before being discovered. No wind was blowing and the fire burned slowly, but inadequate water supply made saving the buildings impossible.

An adobe building was the means of checking the fire on Main street, while an alley aided the Chula Vista fire department, which rushed to the border city to lend assistance, to check the fire on the Second street side.

All structures which were consumed were of wood. The Palais Royal, the only adobe structure in the entire block, proved nearly fireproof and when reached by the flames enabled fighters to gain control of the fire.

TRANSOCEAN PLANE MISSES ENGLISH MEET

PARIS, July 29. (AP)—The transAtlantic plane Columbia, owned by Charles A. Levine, which was scheduled to take off for Nottingham, Eng., today to take part in an aviation meet there, failed to hop off. Instead, Maurice Drouhin, engaged by Levine to pilot the plane on a projected return flight to the United States, contented himself with a series of speed tests over a measured course with John Carisi, the Bellanca expert, and "Doc" Kinkade, the Wright motor expert, as passengers.

DU PONT TO FACE QUIZ

Inquiry Ordered by Trade Body

Relation of General Motors, United States Steel and De Nemours Studied

Commission Declares Fusion of Industrial Giants to be Ticklish Issue

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP)—A sweeping inquiry into the relationships between the E. I. Dupont De Nemours Company, the General Motors Corporation and the United States Steel Corporation was ordered today by the Federal Trade Commission.

The investigation will be conducted by the chief economist and will go directly to the question of the probable economic consequences of a community of interest among the three largest industrial corporations in the United States. On the report of the economist will depend future action by the commission.

The move of the commission, which came wholly unexpectedly, was on motion of Commissioner Myers, the newest member of the trade regulatory body. In its resolution directing the inquiry, the commission called attention that the published financial reports of the Dupont Company show that it has a large investment in the stock of the General Motors Corporation.

REPORTS CITED

The resolution also recited that it has been currently reported in the press that the Dupont concern recently has acquired a large holding in the capital stock of the steel corporation with the expectation of having a number of directors in that organization as it now has in General Motors.

The establishment of a community of interest among these three corporations was declared to be "a matter of public concern." The commission then called attention to its authority of law to inquire into the organization, business, conduct, practices and management of corporations generally.

This inquiry promises to be the most extensive the commission has conducted since it investigated the "big five" meat packers several years ago by direction of President Wilson. As a result of that inquiry the packers finally entered into a consent decree with the government whereby they agreed to divest themselves of unrelated lines of business which they had acquired or built up over a series of years.

RESOLUTION GIVEN

The resolution adopted by the commission follows:

"Whereas it appears from published financial reports of the E. I. Du Pont De Nemours Company that it has a large investment in the stock of the General Motors Corporation, and

"Whereas it is currently reported in the press that the said Du Pont company has recently acquired in the capital stock of the United States Steel Corporation, that it expects to have a number of directors representing its interests elected to the board of the latter company, and in other ways to develop a close corporate connection among them, and

"Whereas, the establishment of a community of interests among these three corporations, which are reputed to be among the largest industrial corporations in this country, is a matter of public concern, and

"Whereas, the act creating this commission authorizing it to inquire into the organization, business, conduct, practices and management of the said corporations; now therefore be it,

"Resolved, that the chief economist of this commission be directed to cause an inquiry to be made into the relationships, direct or indirect, among the United States Steel Corporation, the General Motors Company and the E. I. Du Pont De Nemours Company, tending to bring them or any other important industrial corporation under a common ownership, control of management, with information as to the economic consequences of such community of intrcest and to report the facts to this commission."

Mrs. Pulitzer, Editor's Widow, Dies in France

NEW YORK, July 29. (AP) — Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, widow of the founder of the New York World, died today at Deauville, France, after an illness of less than a week.

The youngest of her seven children, Herbert, with his wife, was with her when she died.

The body will be brought to New York where burial will be made in the family plot in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Mrs. Pulitzer married Joseph Pulitzer June 19, 1878.

VESUVIUS RESUMES UNUSUAL ACTIVITY

NAPLES, July 29. (AP)—Mount Vesuvius has again resumed unusually strong activity and has been presenting a remarkable night-time spectacle which many tourists have been visiting. The gradual increase in the height of the internal cone of the famous volcano has made its flame from the crater visible from a distance. All night a lofty column of smoke issues from the crater, accompanied by explosions.

SUIT CHARGES FILM TRUST

Companies Owning 5000 Theaters Named Defendants; Design to Control Business Asserted

CHICAGO, July 29. (Exclusive)—Suit to enjoin the organization of a motion-picture trust which it is charged is planning to control an annual business of between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000 was filed in the Superior Court today by Leroy Myron Fulton, stockholder in E. E. Fulton Company, manufacturer and distributor of theater machinery, equipment and supplies.

Leading theater owners of America, interested in approximately 5000 cinema houses, are among the defendants.

They are: Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation; Universal Film Manufacturing Company; Loew's, Inc.; Publix Theaters, Inc.; Orpheum Circuit; Balaban and Katz; Universal Film Exchange, Inc.; B. F. Keith's, Inc.; Stanley Company of America; Saenger Amusement Company; West Coast Theaters, Inc.; Kunsky Enterprises, and Marcus Loew's Western Booking Agency.

The principal defendants in the case, those against whom most of the litigation is directed, are Carl H. Fulton, president of the E. E. Fulton Company and brother of the plaintiff, and Albert G. Jarmin, vice-president of the company and father-in-law of the president. They are charged with trying to "freeze" the complainant out of the company before carrying out their asserted conspiracy with the other defendants to create a monopoly on the business of furnishing and supplying picture houses.

The suit, filed by the law firm of Jacobson, Herrick & Latter, asks the following relief:

1. That Carl H. Fulton and Albert G. Jarmin submit to an accounting of their company and be ordered to deliver any money shown to be due the plaintiff or other stockholders.

2. That officers of E. E. Fulton Company be restrained from transferring any stock to the defendants in the case.

3. That an injunction be issued restraining anything which will have the purpose and effect of lessening competition.

4. That the defendants be enjoined from any conspiracy or understanding regarding the control or direction of moving pictures.

The bill refers to the ruling of the Federal Trade Commission of July 9, saying that the commission found that a motion picture trust exists "and was continuing, and will continue unless restrained by some process not now in force."

LONE SAILOR PLANS SOUTH SEAS VOYAGE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (AP)—Charles Woods, owner of the twenty-nine-foot sloop Albatross, today applied at the customs house here for clearance papers, announcing plans for a trip alone to the South Seas. Wood said he once sailed alone from Australia to Shanghai.

New York Fight Against Liquor to be Pushed

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP)—Regardless of handicaps, the Federal authorities will not relax their efforts in any way "for full and complete enforcement" of the prohibition law in New York, declared Assistant Secretary Lowman today.

Recognizing that rigid enforcement is impossible because of the fact New York has no State prohibition law, limited Federal court facilities and an enforcement unit small in comparison with the area to which it is assigned, Lowman asserted that these factors will not hinder efforts of enforcement.

Both Lowman and Commissioner Doran declared conditions are improving in New York despite the enforcement difficulties. They pointed out that since June 20, thirty-seven distilleries and wildcat breweries had been suppressed in Buffalo.

Alabama Grand Jury Will Quiz Klan Officials

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) July 29. (AP) The head of the Ku Klux Klan in Alabama and several other Klan officials have been summoned to appear before a special Jefferson county grand jury August 9, to "lay bare membership records" and "explain threats against Solicitor Davis by two alleged members of the Klan," in connection with recent investigations of whippings by masked and robed men.

Solicitor Davis yesterday announced the call included James Esdale, Grand Dragon of the Alabama realm, and officers of Birmingham units of the organization, and will be the first attempt in this State to reveal Klan membership lists.

Hundred Thousand Lose Homes as Chinese River Overflows in Fukien

SHANGHAI, July 29. (AP)—The Chinese newspaper Shih Pao reports that more than 10,000 persons have been drowned and 100,000 rendered homeless by flooding of the Kiulung River in Fukien Province.

The mountain floods were particularly destructive in the region of Changchowfu, west of Amoy, the damage being estimated at more than $2,000,000.

A Shanghai dispatch the 14th inst. reported a flood disaster in Anhwei Province, which is far northward from Fukien Province. More than 1000 deaths were reported in the Anhwei flood, which was caused by the overflowing of the Yangtze River.

LINDBERGH WELCOMED IN BUFFALO

Largest Throng in City's History Greets Air Hero; Flyer to Take Quiet Rest

BUFFALO, July 29. (AP)—Completing the first full week of his national air tour, Col. Lindbergh was welcomed here today by the greatest throng which has turned out for any event in the city's history. The crowd lined five miles of city streets and packed a vast open space in Delaware Park.

The first real rest which the colonel has enjoyed since he started from New York the 20th inst. began tonight after a formal dinner at the Hotel Statler and will last until Monday morning when he takes off for Erie, Pa., and Cleveland. The week-end will be spent at an unannounced spot several miles from Buffalo where the flyer will be free to do as he wishes.

Ritchie Refuses to Debate With Wayne Wheeler

DETROIT, July 29. (AP)—Charges that Wayne B. Wheeler of the Anti-Saloon League is a paid protagonist of a cause that is "becoming a menace to this country" are contained in a letter by Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, given out here today, in which the executive declines to debate with the dry leader before the University of Michigan open forum.

"I can see no possible reason for debating with him unless it be to give publicity to him," the Governor said.

Recess Taken by Parliament

LONDON, July 29.—The British Parliament adjourned today for the summer recess until November 6 after a dull, featureless session, not characterized by any important legislation except the passage of the trades-union bill. This bill was passed over violent Labor opposition and is designed to put the brakes on general strikes and curb picketing activities.

The session has, however, been marked by violent scenes over industrial questions and has devoted many hours to bitter bickering over soviet propaganda, having gone on record as indorsing the breaking off of relations with Russia.

COOLIDGE, HITTING BRITISH PLAN, INSISTS ON NAVY CUT

President Won't Agree to Increase; Hopeful London's Proposals May Still be Modified

RAPID CITY (S. D.) July 29. (AP)—Proposals of great Britain at the troubled Geneva naval armaments conference call for a larger navy than President Coolidge will sanction. That is the main obstacle in the conference, in the opinion of the President, who will not agree to the program calling for construction of a greater navy when he had hoped the conference would bring about an understanding for reduction of armaments.

Still hopeful that further discussions may bring about modifications in the British proposal, Mr. Coolidge is plainly determined not to accept the terms now presented by that country.

It was recalled today at the executive office that the President invited Great Britain and Japan into conference for the purpose of eventually bringing about a reduction in the size of the navies of the nations involved and a consequent saving in expense.

More important, he thought, would be the development of peace, and will and better understanding among the nations which in turn naturally would aid in the reduction of armaments and in the burden of taxes.

HAS NO FUTURE PLANS

But so far, Mr. Coolidge interprets the expressed desires of Great Britain as calling for construction of a larger navy than this nation is willing to build. If no agreement is reached at the parley, which reports indicate are on its dying legs, the President has no plans for the future. He regards the situation as unchanged.

Disagreements in the abstruse about tonnage of cruisers and caliber of guns are considered by Mr. Coolidge as only collateral to the main issue about the size of a navy which England would require this country to build, under its proposals.

This is the first time that anything but expressions of optimism has come from the summer White House since the naval parley opened more than a month ago. It seems as the conference appears to be heading toward a break-up, with Great Britain and this country deadlocked.

WASHINGTON FLATLY OPPOSES BRITISH PLAN

WASHINGTON, July 29. (Exclusive) First rejection of the latest British proposal for limitation of naval armament was decided on by Washington officials today.

Following an all-day conference attended by Secretary of State Kellogg, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and high State and Navy Department officials, it was stated that the British proposal has been found even more objectionable from the American viewpoint than previous proposals submitted by that government.

It was also stated by administration officials that the work of outlining the American objections to the provisions of the British proposal was begun at today's conference and will be continued during the next few days. Several dispatches containing Ambassador Hugh Gibson's recommendations for answering the various points in the proposal have already been received from Geneva. The conclusions reached by Washington officials and the Geneva delegation will be made public in a speech to be delivered by Ambassador Gibson at the next and probably final plenary session.

HIGH TONNAGE PROVIDED

Officials contend that the latest British proposal not only refuses to allow the United States to build and arm its cruisers for the best interests of national defense but also permits a total tonnage for auxiliary craft amounting actually to 737,500 tons for the United States and Great Britain. It is pointed out that Great Britain, if she desired, could devote 647,500 tons of her total to the construction of cruisers.

"Of this 147,500 tons would be in the so-called obsolete class to be built up as modern ships reached certain age limits," a naval expert pointed out. "The effect would be that this proposal would be worthless to the United States because we have no obsolete cruisers to put in this class and will have none until 1930. Great Britain, on the other hand, would be able to transfer to this special class at once her cruisers completed in 1911 under the sixteen-year age limit for this class of ship, and at once lay down a replacement program.

"The cost in the necessary cruiser construction for the United States to get in equality with Great Britain is enormous."

GIRL ENTRY FOR BEAUTY RACE KILLED

Gilroy Contestant Meets Death in Bay City Hotel Elevator Accident

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (AP)—Miss Florence Salustro of Gilroy, here as "Miss Gilroy" in a beauty contest being conducted by a local newspaper, was killed tonight in an elevator accident in the Mark Hopkins Hotel, where the contestants were staying.

Five of the contestants were in the elevator when the accident happened. All became hysterical.

Witnesses said Miss Salustro was caught between the elevator and the door as she stepped into the cage. She was killed instantly. Firemen were called to extricate the body, which had been wedged in the door so that the girls inside were unable to leave the elevator cage.

NEW YORK'S SWELTERING HEAT STAYS

New Death Raises Toll to Four for Two-Day Spell; Relief Promised

NEW YORK, July 29. (AP)—New York staggered under a second consecutive day of blasting heat today.

Yesterday's late afternoon maximum of 97 deg. was equaled shortly after 1 o'clock. There had been one death from prostration in addition to the three yesterday. By 4 o'clock the temperature had receded 2 deg., however, and the Weather Bureau promised cooling thunderstorms within the next few hours.

Until midafternoon the temperatures exceeded those of yesterday. The humidity, while it dropped from 70 at 8 o'clock to 35 at 4 o'clock, averaged somewhat higher today. New York's average temperature for July 29 is 75 deg.

Fires in Forest Beyond Control

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (AP)—Twenty-three fires caused by lightning were burning uncontrolled today in the Klamath National Forest, officials of the local district office of the United States Forest Service were advised.

Sixteen fires were reported raging in the Orleans district of the Klamath forest and the others were in the Salmon River district. No men were reported fighting the conflagrations.

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, July 29.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Lindbergh is doing great work. He is visiting one town each day trying to interest people in aviation. When he gets through it wouldn't be bad to have him visit Washington for at least a week and try and interest them.

Don't get the idea because three of our planes flew to Europe and made it that we are ahead in aviation. It's not how far can three men fly, but what have you got for the other 110,000,000 to fly in, and where are they to land when they come down.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

P.S.—August 2, which is Tuesday, don't forget the national anniversary celebration of Walter Johnson at Washington, D. C. He is the other Swede that Lindbergh copied in showing the world how to be great and still be modest. Do something to help round out a great sportsman's career. STATE JOBS AWARDED

Council Members Appointed

Two Los Angeles Women on List Selected to Help Governor Rule

Colorado River Commission and Education Board Also Completed

SACRAMENTO, July 29. (AP)—Gov. Young today completed the organization of his council, appointing the directors of the departments of agriculture, industrial relations and public welfare, named a new member of the Board of Prison Directors, announced the membership of the new ten-member Board of Education and officially commissioned the members of the Colorado River Commission.

Those appointed were:

G. H. Hecke, incumbent, director of the Department of Agriculture.

John A. McGilvray, San Francisco, chairman of the Industrial Accident Commission, director of the Department of Industrial Relations.

Mrs. Anna L. Saylor, Berkeley, director of the Department of Public Welfare.

Henry Ehlhoff, San Francisco, member of the Board of Prison Directors.

Charles Albert Adams, San Francisco; Mrs. Minnie B. Bradford, Sacramento; Arthur J. Brown, San Bernardino; Gordon Gray, San Diego; Mrs. Irene Heinsman, Los Angeles; C. L. McLane, Fresno; R. D. Mark, Burlingame; Mrs. Dora A. Stearns, Los Angeles; Mrs. Amy S. Steinhart, San Francisco, and Dante L. Short, Oakland, members of the Board of Education.

COLORADO RIVER BOARD

John L. Bacon, San Diego, Earl C. Pound, Brawley, W. R. Mathews, Los Angeles, members of the Colorado River Commission.

The directors of agriculture and industrial relations will receive salaries of $6000 annually and public welfare $4000. The other offices carry per diem compensation and expenses only.

The other members of the council are A. R. Heron, director of finance; William John Cooper, director of education; E. R. Mosk, director of public works; Dr. Walter T. Dickie, director of public health; Earl E. Jensen, director of institutions, and Fred Stevenot, director of natural resources.

Hecke's department will be the same as in the past except that by a co-operative agreement with the government a division of marketing has been added and by legislative action the old Land Settlement Bureau was abolished and a new division created in the agricultural department to take care of this work.

DEPARTMENTS COMBINED

McGilvray, as director of the Department of Industrial Relations, will have under him divisions of industrial accidents and safety, industrial welfare, housing and sanitation, employment agencies and labor statistics and law enforcements. There now are two commissions handling these duties.

McGilvray's appointment to the council comes by virtue of his being selected as chairman of the Industrial Accident Commission, which carries with it the ex-officio post of director of the Industrial Welfare Department. The law requires that the director shall be a member of the prison commission, but it is intimated in well-informed circles of State government that Will J. French of San Francisco, a former member of the Industrial Accident Commission, will assume the directorship at the earliest opportunity.

Ehlhoff, a San Francisco attorney, as prison board member succeeds E. R. Mosk of Oroville, who recently was elevated to the post of director of the Department of Public Works. Ehlhoff served on the prison board from 1913 to 1920.

MEMBERS RETAINED

Gov. Young in picking the Board of Education retained in office, for short terms, three members of the old board, who were named by former Gov. Richardson. These were Mrs. Stearns, Brown and Merk.

Adams, one of the new appointees, is chairman of the education section of the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco. Mrs. Bradford is past State president of the Parent-Teacher Association, and a vice-president of the National Parent-Teacher group. Gray, an attorney, is San Diego's first representation on the board for several years and won his place because of his interest in school matters for which he has worked tirelessly.

WOMAN VOTERS' LEADER

Mrs. Heineman is one of the leaders in the League of Women Voters. McLane is recognized in educational circles for his ability and for years was head of the Fresno Teachers' College, from which post he resigned only a few weeks ago and retired. Mrs. Steinhart has long been an interested worker in education reform work and Mrs. Short for five years was a member of the Oakland city Board of Education.

Three of the terms of the new board will expire March 1, next. The following year two others will end their terms; the second year three more and the third year the final two. The posts have been so arranged that after this board goes out of office no one Governor can control it.

The commissions of Ralph W. Bull, Eureka; J. P. Baumgartner, Santa Ana, and Senator M. B. Harris, Fresno, as members of the Highway Commission also were renewed by Gov. Young today. The executive still has two members to appoint under the reorganization measure creating a five-member board to serve without salary. In the past the post carried a salary of $3600 per year.

RESIGNATION OF PRISON DIRECTOR EXPECTED

SACRAMENTO, July 29. (Exclusive)—From administration circles it was learned today that Gov. Young is planning to accept the resignation of Will P. Morrish, Berkeley banker, as a member of the State Board of Prison Directors and appoint Albert E. Boynton, San Francisco, to the vacancy. Morrish's resignation has been in the hands of Gov. Young for some time. He is an appointee of former Gov. Richardson and desired to resign soon after Richardson went out of office.

Boynton was a member of the prison board from January, 1920, to April, 1924, having resigned with Director B. B. Meek when Richardson failed to reappoint Charles L. Neumiller and C. E. McLaughlin as directors. Meek, Neumiller and McLaughlin were returned to the board by Gov. Young.

There are also well-founded reports that Julian Alco of San Francisco, another Richardson prison board appointee, is going to resign.

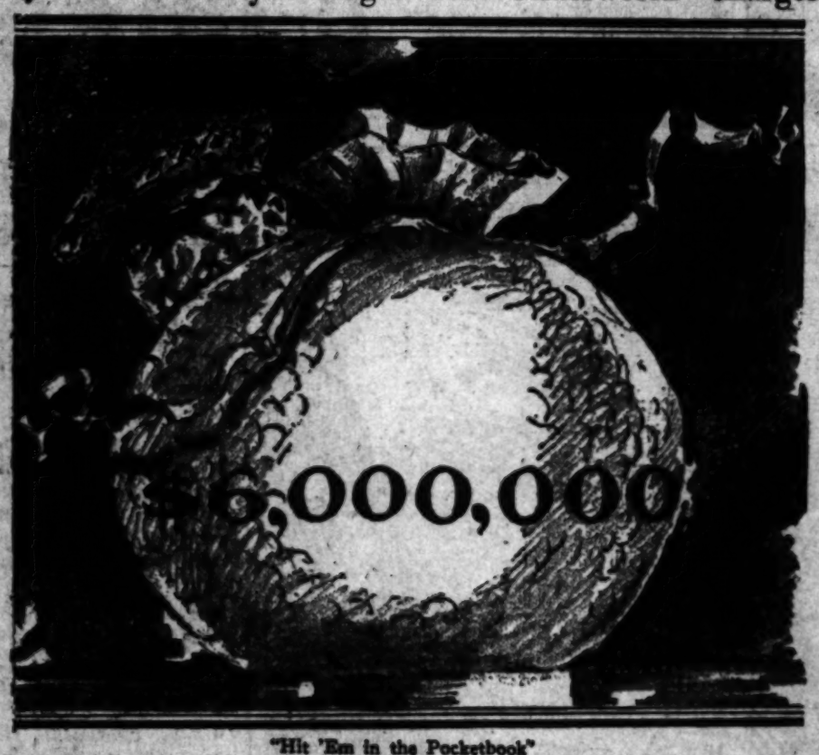
LOS ANGELES WOMEN ON BOARD OF EDUCATION

Mrs. Irene Taylor Heineman, appointed by Gov. Young to the State Board of Education, is a graduate of the University of California and was a teacher in Los Angeles High School from 1903 to 1906. Since that time she has been active in the furtherance of many educational projects. She is a member of the Women's University Club, and the Friday Morning Club, and past president of the League of Women Voters in Southern California. Mrs. Heineman lives at 1886 North Kenmore avenue, Hollywood.

Mrs. Dora C. Stearns, who was reappointed to the board, has served on the City Planning Commission and the Mayor's Fair Prices Committee. She is past president of the Women's City Club, the Public School Protective League, and the Los Angeles Chapter of the Drama League of America. She has been a resident of this city for twenty-five years. Her home is at 2682 Monmouth Boulevard.

BRIBERY RIFE IN BOOTLEGGING GAME

Dry Chief Always Target for Underworld Charges



"Hit 'Em in the Pocketbook"

"I believe my seven months in office cost the bootleggers of New Jersey $6,000,000," said Col. Ira L. Reeves.

(Col. Reeves resigned May 31, last, as New Jersey Prohibition Administrator, his department, the difficulties of enforcement, why he quit, he is disclosing in a series of articles he is writing for the North American Newspaper Alliance. This is the fifth article.)

BY INA L. REEVES

[Copyright, 1927, in all countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

If a prohibition enforcement agent or official serves more than a week without being accused of accepting bribes he is lucky.

If a bootlegger is in business more than a week without being "shaken down" for bribe money he is luckier.

The Federal employee is almost powerless to defend himself against the charge of receiving bribes. The blackmailer finds the bootlegger is most helpless prey.

During my term of office I directed my efforts as far as possible against the major violators of the prohibition law, such as operators of large commercial stills, cutting plants, the larger roadhouses and the more flagrant saloon offenders. I decided upon a policy best and briefly described by my motto, "Hit 'em in the pocketbook."

ONLY FOR PROFITS

No one is in the bootlegging business for fun or his health. The profits alone make the business alluring, and anything the prohibition-enforcement unit can do to lessen the profits naturally will decrease violations. Every action I took, every raid and seizure I made, was with the one idea of making it cost the bootlegger money.

I flatter myself on having been fairly successful. I personally know that we bankrupted many of the still operators and a number of the principal bootleggers. I believe my seven months in office cost the bootleggers of New Jersey $6,000,000.

I also believe that $500,000 should be added to the $6,000,000 found of decreased profits to which I referred. For I am convinced that at least another $500,000 was collected from bootleggers on the representation that it would be paid to me. I hope it is needless for me to say I never accepted a penny of it.

AIDES LOYAL

The prohibition agents directly under my control were absolutely loyal to me, I think, and could not be bribed while I was their leader. I was the first New Jersey administrator to test my agents before making any changes in personnel, and the men I dismissed were let go because they did not produce results while serving under me, and not because of reports of their conduct before I took charge.

Cases of attempted bribery are almost impossible to prove. The bootlegger never offers a bribe to an agent or a higher official unless the latter is alone. The bootlegger generally has a friend with him who will perjure himself to testify that the bribe was not offered, and that the accusing agent is merely trying to besmirch the character of an honest man.

On one occasion a Newark (N. J.) lawyer called upon me at my home, and after some desultory conversation remarked that he had seen the account of my life as published in "Who's Who in America" and would very much like to have a sketch of himself in that publication. He desired it so much, in fact, that he offered me $125,000 to have it done.

BRIBERY EFFORT

This, of course, was a barefaced attempt at bribery. However, I could never have had the man convicted in a court of law, or even have had him disbarred. He still represents clients in big bootlegging cases, but if his name ever does appear in "Who's Who," I am certainly going to find out who put it there.

A man who worked for a short time in my legal department and who had previously represented clients accused as bootleggers told me once that one of his clients had instructed him to offer me $25,000 to grant a permit. The legal aide never made the offer nor did he continue in the department after his temporary appointment for sixty days had expired, despite the efforts of certain gentlemen to make me reappoint him.

The blackmailers who preyed on bootleggers had a number of clever schemes to obtain the innocent assistance of the prohibition department. One of them was to write to the department requesting an appointment as an agent. The applicant would receive a reply written on Treasury Department stationery, and frequently signed by the administrator himself.

The blackmailer would then take the letter to a saloon-keeper, and displaying only the letterhead, his own name, and the signature, would try to extort money on the ground that he (the blackmailer) was a prohibition informer and would have the place raided, unless he was bribed. This method produced particularly good results for the shake-down artist when practiced on illiterate foreigners who formed the greatest number of saloon keepers.

Municipal government is unknown in even the largest cities in China and the only laws are those connected with the collection of taxes and the suppression of crime.

CHURCH REPORT SHOWS DECLINE

the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, the oldest of the Presbyterian churches, told of a loss of 500,000 members in the last six years, or an average of 80,000 annually.

NET GAIN REDUCED

The net gains of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, having an aggregate of more than 2,500,000 members, were reduced in 1926 to 4100, the smallest figure in years, according to Curtis B. Haley, its statistician.

The losses of the Disciples of Christ, denomination of Baptist principles and policy, "were beyond all expectation," according to Rev. Jesse M. Bader, secretary of evangelism, who reported that 1926 "had been marked by unusual evangelistic activity. But when the returns were counted it was found that instead of a net gain there was a net loss of nearly 5000."

The Protestant Episcopal Church, according to Frederick C. Morehouse, editor of the Living Church and of the Living Church Annual, lost 22,000 communicants, which he says is the minimum figure.

An annual average loss of 11,000 members of the Reformed Church in the United States, and 3416 by dismissal for the Reformed Church in America were reported by its respective representatives.

GIBSON SUBMITS LAST SPEECH TO WASHINGTON

[Copyright, 1927, by Chicago Tribune.]

GENEVA, July 29. (Exclusive)—Ambassador Hugh Gibson, first American delegate to the naval disarmament conference, today drafted the lyrics of the swan song he will deliver at Monday's plenary session, which is expected to mark the demise of the tri-power conference. The text was coded and cabled to Washington for the State Department to approve, as after the last public meeting Secretary of State Kellogg told the chief delegate he should have called a spade a spade, and Mr. Gibson wants to be certain that the forthcoming speech is couched strongly enough to state the position of the United States unequivocally and prove that the blame for the failure of the conference is not with America.

It was learned today that Mr. Gibson told William C. Bridgeman, first British delegate and First Lord of the British Admiralty, and Viscount Robert Cecil yesterday that their plan was "totally unacceptable" after they submitted the government's revised proposals.

"Then let us have the plenary meeting tomorrow," suggested Mr. Bridgeman.

"No, we will wait until Monday," replied Mr. Gibson, mindful of the eight long days he waited here while his British colleagues were in London conferring at Whitehall.

Mr. Gibson explained to the British that he could not consider any plan which prevented the United States from utilising whatever portion of the cruiser tonnage was agreed on for eight-inch gun cruisers.

The United States Navy Department experts here insist that they require an adequate number of large cruisers as a guarantee for the neutrality of the Panama Canal in any future war.

RESPONSIBLE FOR CANAL

"The United States alone constructed and paid for the Panama Canal and alone pledged itself to maintain free and unhampered traffic through it," said a naval expert.

"If America accepts the British proposals, it tacitly consents to British sea supremacy, thereby taking a place of inferiority in naval strength and automatically abandoning the pledge of responsibility for the safe traversing of the canal by neutrals in time of war. It amounts to giving England a half-interest in the canal. The United States can claim just as great requirements for the protection of the approaches to the Panama Canal as the British claim for the empire route which hinges on the Suez, with the Gibraltar and Singapore approaches."

The Japanese delegation denied a report circulated abroad that Japan will mediate between Great Britain and the United States. A spokesman for Admiral Saito said that the Japanese deemed the issue between the British and American delegations of too delicate a nature to justify intervention, because the issue was one of principle and not of technicalities.

CABINET COUNCIL CONSIDERS SITUATION

LONDON, July 29. (AP)—The situation at the tripartite naval conference in Geneva, as outlined in messages from W. C. Bridgeman and Viscount Cecil, the British delegates, was considered at a Cabinet council today.

The Cabinet is said to have made no fresh decisions. It is understood that the ministers had before them nothing in the shape of an official reply from Washington to the proposals which the British have submitted to the naval conference.

Another Cabinet council was expected to be called on Monday to receive any further communications from Mr. Bridgeman and Viscount Cecil arising from the plenary sitting of the conference of that day. It was said that the council might be of a more critical nature than that of today.

The hurried calling of today's Cabinet council was explained as being due to the fact that, through an oversight, the ministers had not been warned overnight of a meeting, as is customary.

LAKE WRECK INQUIRIES OPEN

Four Investigations Fail to Disclose Negligence; Death Total Placed at Twenty-seven

CHICAGO, July 29. (AP)—A four-ply investigation of yesterday's excursion boat disaster in which twenty-seven persons, mostly women and children, lost their lives today revealed no evidence of negligence or carelessness on the part of crew or owner.

None now is reported missing and authorities believe that all of the other forty-nine on the Favorite were saved.

According to the best check-up obtainable today there were seventy-one passengers and five of the crew aboard the ship when it foundered.

Instead of culpability, inquiries indicated that the boat had been pronounced seaworthy as late as the 11th inst., and that the skipper tried valiantly to save his boat when the sudden offshore squall struck it.

Fred J. Meno, district steamboat inspector from Detroit, asserted the Favorite carried twice as many life preservers as would have been required for yesterday's passenger list. Had there been any question of the little boat's stability, Federal headquarters of steamboat inspection would have ordered a stability test, Meno said.

CORONER'S STATEMENTS

On the other hand, Coroner Oscar Wolff said he found that straps on a few preservers were rotten and that many of them were inaccessible. Preservers designated for children were in some instances too high to reach, he believed. The Coroner's observations, however, were made informally, and were not made a part of his inquest.

The disaster was "an act of God," asserted William A. Rittenhouse, Assistant State's Attorney, who was directing the investigation for that office.

The fourth inquiry was started by Michael Hughes, Chief of Police, who ordered five members of the crew held. Meno has asked that survivors testify at his investigation which was given added impetus by word from Dicker on Hoover, chief of the Federal steamboat inspection, that Meno go thoroughly into the disaster.

Although there is no official list of missing, divers and coast guardsmen searched the lake in the vicinity of the disaster for bodies. High waves finally forced them to abandon their work.

MILLIONAIRE HERO

In bold relief against a background of gallant actions stands the rescue efforts of William A. Hofnauer, millionaire yachtsman, and four companions, who, first to reach the floundering "Favorite," saved more than a score. Chief of Police Hughes has recommended that they be awarded Carnegie hero medals.

"Those men undoubtedly prevented the loss of life from being twice as large as it was," Hughes asserted.

Hofnauer, before the State's Attorney's investigators, defended Capt. Olsen, who, he said should be "praised for his heroism instead of censured."

A new version of the foundering of the Favorite was presented today by Hofnauer and Leo Sobota, master of another excursion boat, who was aboard the ill-fated craft. Both contended the boat did not capsize, but sank from the weight of water raised by the force of the wind to a high wave that engulfed the vessel.

Prime Minister Center of Dominion's Interest

First Visit to Canada of Acting Premier

QUEBEC, (Que.) July 29. (Exclusive)—The ancient and historic city of Quebec is set for a royal welcome to Prince Minister Stanley Baldwin and the Prince of Wales and his brother, George, when they arrive on the King's Wheat tomorrow morning.

From the Plains of Abraham to the spot on the waterfront where Champlain landed in 1608 to found Quebec, the city is a blaze of color, bunting, standards, pennants and the ostrich plumes of the Chief interest centers in the visit of Baldwin. This is the first time that a British Prime Minister has visited the Dominion while in office. The heir apparent has been here before. Although the precedence goes to the royal party and it is here considered a breach of etiquette to welcome the name of the Prime Minister over the Prince's, still that is the way the public interest shows up. No mention has been made in the Canadian papers in the last week of Baldwin's pipe, which is as much as Vice-President Dawes's tophat and frock coat. Even in haberdashery the Prince is setting the visit of the Prince and Prime Minister is to commemorate the diamond jubilee, sixty years of confederation, which was celebrated throughout the Dominion last month. Crowded hotels in Quebec, the visitors; every town along the route of travel has been clamoring for opportunity to see the Prince and the Premier.

SUFFERING IN PEACH WAR

Idleness Forced on 30,000

Many Large Canneries Close and 10,000 Pickers Await End of Price Battle

Many Families in Gridley Appeal to City for Aid; Crop Loss Enormous

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (Exclusive)—A situation hourly growing more serious confronted the 1927 California peach harvest tonight as the deadlock between growers and canners continued and reports were submitted that nearly 30,000 canning and packing employes are out of work as 40 major canneries of the state ceased operations.

Leon McKinney, vice-president of the Farmers' League of California, which is fighting for that organization, asserted that no change has occurred in the situation so far as the canneries are concerned. They remain firm in their refusal to pay the $30 a ton price the growers ask for fruit and stick out for "pat" in their stand on a tremendous carryover from last year, which justifies not more than $25 for firsts and $10 per ton for seconds.

LOSS TO BE HIGH

Figures on these declared out recently were given by Frank B. Gurney, secretary of the California Peach Growers' Association, representing the growers.

"The only thing about this whole peach situation," asserted, "is the fact that 25,000 to 30,000 workers will be thrown out of employment this month. Crowded homes in the city, the visitors; every town along the route of travel has been clamoring for opportunity to see the Prince and the Premier.

WASHINGTON POLICE CHALLENGE EDWARDS

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP)—Battle pennant over charges of bribery and graft is flying today as Senator Edwards of New Jersey and Washington police officers are engaged in bootlegging, the Policemen's Association of the city has demanded that the Senator at once appear before the District of Columbia Commissioners supporting his charges.

CITY APPEALED TO

"We hope to get good news soon from the canners' league, but we cannot pay less than $30 per ton. We have offered us a sliding scale, but that will mean about $15 per ton, which is not enough."

Reports were received today that seventy families have moved into the community from Yuba, many of them destitute and they have appealed to city officials for aid. No sabotage is reported there, it was declared, but a spirit of dissatisfaction and unrest is rife.

Those in getting Tuscans in the city of which Yuba City is the center have now reached the estimated figure of $1,400,000, according to reports from that city.

Twenty-three Agents Give Bail at Hearing

NEW YORK, July 29. (AP)—Twenty-three theater ticket brokers indicted as a result of the recent investigation of asserted frauds in income tax returns pleaded guilty today in Federal Court.

Besides bail of $1000 the brokers were required to deposit with the court the sum of $42,500 to apply on fines which may be subsequently levied, and to deposit in escrow in a bank designated by the court sums totaling 50 per cent of the excess charge made on tickets since last June 1.

In the investigation, U. S. Atty. Tuttle explained, discloses that such excess charges were not reported in income-tax returns. The total due the government was given as $637,000, and some of this is said to be taxes over a period of fourteen months.

It was alleged, in the trial of the Alexander Ticket Agency, first to be indicted in the investigation, that the agencies bought tickets at the box offices and added a commission to the price. The brokers who pleaded guilty today were charged with similar practice. The legality of this was not challenged, but the government contended that the commission was not shown in profits reported in tax returns. The Alexander agency was found guilty and fined, and Oscar Alexander and his brother, Edward, owners, were sentenced to serve six months.

TWO SLAIN IN FIGHT

Another Dying in Kentucky Due to Row Over Fence Line

PIKEVILLE (Ky.) July 29. (AP)—John Mutter, 50 years of age, and T. M. Hunt, 55, were dead and Landon Mutter, son of John Mutter, was in a dying condition today as a result of a gun fight yesterday on Island Creek, twenty-seven miles from here.

The shooting occurred following an argument between the Mutters and Hunt over the construction of a line fence on Hunt's property.

Landon Mutter and Hunt both drew guns and Hunt wounded Landon in the arm. When the elder Mutter took up his son's pistol Hunt is asserted to have shot him through the heart, and to have fired three more bullets into Landon. Ernest Mutter, another son of John, authorities said, then shot Hunt several times.

GUNMEN PICK ON WRONG 'VICTIM'

CHICAGO, July 29. (AP)—A doctor beat two gunmen at their own game last night, killing them both when they attempted to rob him.

The robbers, who have not been identified, posed as patients on entering the doctor's offices but the physician, Frank L. Nathanson, recently had been robbed and was suspicious. He stood by his desk and when they drew their guns he pulled open a drawer, whipped out a pistol and fired before they could level their weapons.

One fell dead but the other staggered out and fell down the stairway into the arms of a policeman who had heard the shooting. He died in a hospital.

SUICIDE USES ETHER AND GAS

NEW YORK, July 29. (Exclusive) Helen Oatman, Spence School graduate and Philadelphia debutante, put a face pillow in the oven of the gas stove at her home, on the upper West Side, today. She smeared the floor near by with ether, donned her filmiest pink negligee and then lay down with her head on the pillow and gas flowing from two jets of the range.

When neighbors traced the odor of gas to the apartment she was dead.

The ether fumes, detectives said, had rendered her mercifully unconscious and she died without a struggle, asphyxiated by the gas that was flooding the room.

The only explanation that could be unearthed was found in the statement of her brother, Fred Oatman, a Harvard graduate, that she had followed closely the accounts of suicides in the newspapers. Police pointed to the collection of books on religion and philosophy that filled the shelves of her room and wrote her down, in the absence of another clew, as a victim of the unsettling reading she had accomplished.

Twenty-two years of age, Miss Oatman lived in the apartment with her mother and brother. She was continuing here the studies of dramatics and art she had begun in Spence School, and was a member of the New York School of Applied and Fine Arts. She also was a student of the piano.

PENNSYLVANIA VOTE CASE APPEAL TAKEN

PHILADELPHIA, July 29. (AP)—Judge J. Whitaker Thompson of the Federal District Court today allowed an appeal from his decision to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the matter of turning over to the Reed Senate investigating committee the ballots cast at the last Senatorial election in Pennsylvania. Judge Thompson issued an order restraining the Delaware county authorities from disposing of the ballots cast at that election, pending a final decision by the Appellate Court.

BUSINESS WITH RUSSIA GROWS

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP)—American exports to soviet Russia during the first six months of the year amounted to $37,327,826, an increase of 44 per cent over last year, it was shown in figures published by the soviet union information bureau.

The statement gave the following export figures based on reports from American-soviet trading organizations:

Cotton, $24,515,382; metals, $3,502,354; tractors and parts, $2,415,006; other agricultural machinery, $1,450,653; industrial machinery about $2,500,000. The figures include $606,123 of oil-well machinery and $338,675 of electrical machinery.

LEADING CHEMIST DIES

CLEVELAND, July 29. (AP)—Caesar Augustin Grasselli, 77 years of age, chairman of the board of the Grasselli Chemical Company, died late last night at a hospital following an operation and an illness of less than two months.

How to get an Artistic Awning Effect

NO TWO HOMES are alike in their awning requirements. What may be artistic for one, may not do at all for another. It pays to get expert advice on your awning selection in order to insure a final effect that is perfectly harmonious.

Swanfeldt Awning men are trained to help you visualize the final installation—so that you can make a choice that is in every way correct. These men are not ordinary estimators and workmen. They are skilled exterior decorators, whose knowledge of awning effects is drawn from our forty years' study of awning designing for all types of architecture.

The services of a Swanfeldt exterior decorator are at your disposal without charge or obligation. It doesn't cost you a cent to have him call, and it will certainly protect your awning investment. He can show you many exclusive new patterns, both of stripes and the nationally advertised Swanfeldt scroll design. Telephone TRinity 0851—today!

BORDER SURVEY PARTY ON COAST

Study of Alien Entries Being Made

Group Comprises Davis Aide and Congressmen

Conditions on Canada Line Found Excellent

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (Exclusive)—Marking the first time in history that both the legislative and executive departments of the government have combined for a survey of immigration conditions along all the borders of the country, Assistant Secretary of Labor Robe Carl White and Congressman W. B. Oliver of Alabama, member of an appropriations subcommittee of the House, arrived here today. The complete committee includes also Congressman Milton W. Shreve of Pennsylvania, chairman of the subcommittee; Congressman Anthony G. Griffin of New York; Maj. Melvin Jones, assistant to the Director of the Budget, and Paul Malone, clerk of the Committee on Appropriations. Shreve and Jones remained in Portland to attend the funeral of Congressman Crumpacker, and the others reach San Francisco Saturday or Sunday.

The party is making a survey to gather data connected with government service along the borders, and it is expected that an increase in appropriations for the stopping of illegal entry of aliens into the United States may result. The tour, started in New York early in July, has brought the committee along the entire Canadian border as well as the North Pacific.

CO-ORDINATION NEEDED

The result thus far has convinced all the members that various activities, such as the border patrol and customs patrol, immigration offices and customs offices, might be co-ordinated to bring about a smoother and more economical working system.

"We found conditions on the Canadian border to be in splendid shape," said White. "Organization, personnel and classification procedure, all are very satisfactory. There is no unusual smuggling of aliens.

"The Immigration Service, however, is a growing service, and from time to time it becomes advisable to change methods and to increase appropriations. Some changes have, in fact, already been suggested and undoubtedly will come up in the next session of Congress. The proposal that a quota be placed upon western hemisphere immigration was recommended two years ago by the Secretary of Labor."

SOUTHERN BORDER

The itinerary will take the members along the Mexican border upon their departure from San Francisco. White, however, who toured that region only six months ago, drew a picture of conditions as he found them there.

"There is much confusion and misunderstanding in regard to the influx of Mexicans to California," he explained. "There's really no unusual amount of smuggling going on. The ropes, in fact, are tighter than ever, and undesirable immigration has been reduced at least 75 per cent. Mexicans are coming to California, however, from those parts of the United States that were formerly Mexican. Laborers who have been in New Mexico and Texas for years are being induced to come over. This migration is even more serious than border jumping."

Congressman Oliver reiterated White's suggestion that border activities should be co-ordinated. He said such an arrangement would most likely tend to strengthen and facilitate the service.

Irish Jews in East Organize Fraternal Body

NEW YORK, July 29. (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—Irish Jews, in an effort to convince the world that they exist, have organized a fraternal society, which will develop, they hope, into a national order with branches in all the leading cities.

The organization was named the Irish Jews of America at the first meeting conducted tonight at the home of Alexander Freeman, formerly of Belfast. Jack S. Levine was elected chairman and Leon Huhner, attorney and author of "A History of the Jews in Ireland," honorary chairman.

This is the first time that the Irish Jews have attempted to get together. One of their chief aims is the establishment of an Irish orthodox synagogue similar to those in the Free State.

ANGELENO ELECTED BY ROYAL ARCANUM

SEATTLE, July 29. (AP)—For the first time in the history of the Royal Arcanum Lodge, a Supreme Regent today was re-elected at the Supreme Council meeting, when Harold C. Knoeppel of New York was renamed as head of the organization. The election climaxed a golden jubilee meeting in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the order's existence. Arthur W. Kennedy of Los Angeles was elected to serve his 1st term as Supreme Warden.

FIFTEEN-MINUTE DIVORCES NEXT

Mexican Congress Will Get Bill Making it Easier to Sever Knot

MEXICO CITY, July 29. (Exclusive)—It soon may be possible to obtain divorces in Mexico in fifteen minutes. A bill is to be presented to Congress here at its next session providing that when both parties agree to disagree they need only appear before a notary public who would be empowered to sever their marital relations forthwith.

Some States in the Republic already permit twenty-four-hour divorce decrees, but this proposed law cuts the time down to minutes. The bill is said to have the approval of the Mexican bar.

SAN DIEGAN FILES ENTRY FOR FLIGHT

Lieut. Goddard Sixth on Official Roster for Dole Prize Hop to Honolulu

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (Exclusive)—Lieut. Norman A. Goddard of San Diego, who announced there some time ago that he would be an entrant in the forthcoming Dole prize flights to Honolulu, today filed his formal entry blank with Frank A. Flynn, secretary of the National Aeronautic Association. The blank was accompanied by the necessary $100 entry fee.

Goddard's entry brings the total of official starters to six, and more are anticipated. Entries must be filed not later than noon of next Tuesday.

Goddard, according to word from San Diego, will pilot a monoplane of his own design. He will have a navigator, but the identity of the latter was not disclosed on the entry blank.

All doubt about United States Army co-operation to the extent of radio aid on the flight was removed today when press dispatches from Washington were received announcing that the Army would make the radio beacons of the Presidio and on the island of Kauai available to the flyers. These are the same radio beacons used to guide Lieuts. Maitland and Hegenberger in the first Hawaiian flight, and subsequently for Smith and Bronte on the civilian flight.

Loan Forced by Mexico's Loss in Oil Revenues

MEXICO CITY, July 29. (Exclusive)—Decreased revenues from petroleum taxation has forced the government to borrow 4,000,000 pesos to meet foreign obligations, according to a statement issued by the Ministry of Finance here today.

Frank admission of the reason requiring the loan was in direct conflict with prior official statements of the Department of Industry, Commerce and Labor, which has been contending that oil production in Mexico has not been decreasing, and a controversy between the two branches of government is anticipated.

The statement announces that the loan, which was made with the approval of President Calles, is to be repaid in twelve monthly installments.

New Theft Law Arrest Made

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (Exclusive)—Detectives who followed the marks of tireless automobile rims over pavements to a private garage today said they obtained a confession from James O'Sullivan, 26 years of age, that he and Albert Moore, 27, have been stripping automobiles of all available accessories, including tires.

Both men are carpenters and both are under indictment in connection with violence in the carpenters' strike last fall. O'Sullivan is charged with assault and Moore with murder.

In the present instance, O'Sullivan was booked for "grand theft" and is the first prisoners booked under the new State law which provides a prison term of from one to ten years for the offense. Moore was booked for vagrancy.

Bay City Greets Hawaii Flyers

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (Exclusive)—San Francisco today paid its respects to Ernest L. Smith and Emory Bronte who returned yesterday after their nonstop flight to the Hawaiian Islands.

They were brought across the bay from Oakland as the center of a hero-worshipping throng, paraded up Market street to the cheers of thousands and were formally received at the City Hall by Mayor Rolph.

ANGELENO SELECTED FOR FISHERIES POST

SAN PEDRO RESIDENT WILL DIRECT ENFORCEMENT FOR DEPARTMENT

MONTEREY, July 29. (AP)—N. B. Schofield, director of the department of commercial fisheries of the California State Fish and Game Commission, today announced the appointment of H. B. Nidever, San Pedro, to head the enforcement section of the department throughout the State.

Nidever has been with the commission in various capacities since 1908, and is considered well qualified for the work of enforcing the law relative to the commercial catching and packing of fish and game products.

The appointment, Schofield said, is in line with the commission's policy of centralizing enforcement responsibility. Schofield was here today for a routine conference with local Fish and Game Commission men.

VALLEY TOPIC OF LONGWORTH

Flood-Control Problem Held of National Import

Consideration Declared to be Duty of Congress

Bay City's Bridge Project Also Gets Attention

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (Exclusive)—Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House of Representatives, told an audience at the Commonwealth Club here today that whether California's problems be the watering of arid lands or the bridging of navigable streams, they have lifted themselves now out of the status of purely local problems and have become pressing national obligations worthy of the careful consideration of Congress.

"If it becomes the duty of Congress to supply the remedy and prevent recurrence of floods that have devastated four Mississippi Valley States," he pointed out, "it likewise becomes the duty of Congress to give due consideration to the water problems of this section of the country."

In this he referred to the Imperial Valley, and the necessity of providing adequate and imperative means of flood prevention from the overflow of the Colorado River.

He alluded also to San Francisco's attempt to bridge the bay from Hunter's Point to the Alameda Mole, the site chosen by a committee of disinterested engineers as the most feasible to satisfy traffic demands, but the same site which has aroused the antagonism of the Navy Department.

The Speaker said he was certain Congress would welcome a solution of the problem. Unless the Navy Department withdraws its objection, steps already have been taken here to submit the matter to Congress with an appeal that the Navy be overruled.

RIFT DENIED IN CRUMPACKER DEATH

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (AP)—Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the House of Representatives, today emphatically denied that any semblance of a rift had occurred between him and Representative Crumpacker, that might have caused the derangement and subsequent suicide of the Oregonian.

Inferences which reached Longworth's ear, hinting that a political break between him and Crumpacker was responsible for the latter's fatal leap into San Francisco Bay last Sunday, occasioned the following statement by the speaker upon his arrival here from Los Angeles:

"Crumpacker and I parted the very best friends. He was in the best of health when I last saw him. Absolutely no unpleasantries passed between us from the time we left Portland, where I had been his guest, and when I last saw him here. When he left me the last time he patted me on the back and said: 'I'll see you a little later.' The next I heard he was in the hospital. Attendants informed me that he would be well taken care of and that there was no cause for worry. The following day I heard the sad news. There is not one iota of credibility to reports that trouble between us might have influenced his action."

GUATEMALA ENVOY SHOT IN ACCIDENT

Wound Inflicted by Own Pistol But Wife Denies Suicide Attempt

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP)—Francisco Sanchez Latour, Guatemalan Minister, was in Emergency Hospital tonight with a wound over the heart, inflicted by the Minister's own pistol, but his physician said he had a chance for recovery. The shooting was described by his wife and brother as accidental.

Senora Sanches Latour said her husband had been arranging some old papers in a file in his study just after midnight when he came across an old-fashioned automatic revolver.

"This fell to his desk and discharged," she said, "and then fell to the floor where it broke into pieces. It is foolish to assume that my husband attempted suicide. He had no financial, political or domestic worries."

The recent suicide in San Francisco of Representative M. E. Crumpacker of Oregon, who was a friend of Minister Sanches Latour, was believed by some friends to have depressed the Minister. Senora Sanches Latour said the suicide had grieved her husband, "but I cannot believe it suggested suicide to him." On the contrary, she said, "He could not understand how Mr. Crumpacker could commit suicide, leaving behind a wife and children."

Secretary Kellogg sent this note:

"I was very much grieved this morning to hear of the accident which befell you last night, but I am now more than pleased to learn that it was not serious and that your condition indicates a speedy recovery."

GRAND-DAUGHTER OF VETERAN SOUGHT HERE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (Exclusive)—James Wardell Newton, who served in the Civil and Spanish American wars and at the age of 80 is living alone here, is seeking a granddaughter whose exact name has escaped him but who he believes is living in Los Angeles. He does not want aid, Newton said today. On the contrary, he has a small estate that he wishes to settle upon the granddaughter. He believes the grandchild's first name is Dora or Doris, he said, and his recollection of her last name is either Wilmer or Willard. He has asked the Red Cross to aid him in his search.

STATE TAX POSITION GIVEN OAKLAND MAN

SACRAMENTO, July 29. (AP)—W. H. H. Gentry of Oakland today was named by State Controller Riley as chief attorney of the State inheritance tax department to succeed W. E. Marten of Sacramento, who resigned. Gentry has been connected with the inheritance tax department for ten years.

Justice Waste Calls Special Meeting

State Act to Come Up for Discussion

Given Automatically in Association Now

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30. (Exclusive)—As the result of the enactment of the State Bar Act, whereby all persons entitled to practice law in California automatically becomes members of the State Bar Association, Justice Waste, chairman, will call the first formal meeting of the association tomorrow afternoon in his chambers at the Hall of Justice. Informal conferences, at which the details of organization of the State Bar Association were discussed, have been held heretofore.

FIRST MEETING

Tomorrow will be presented the handing out of more than 150,000 registration cards and letters to persons who have applied to practice law in California.

Provisions of the new act are required to register with the organization fee on or before the date of the first meeting in San Francisco, which has been set for September 15, next, at San Francisco.

Applications filed on or before that date by a member of the board of governors must be voted for in the governors district in which the applicant first in the county of his residence and the city and county of San Francisco, each of which constitutes two governmental districts, shall be entitled to vote for two members of the board of governors.

HOW TO VOTE

Members who have completed their applications and paid their fees on or before October 15 shall be entitled to vote for members of the board of governors. Two governors are required to be elected from the district of their residence, and that in which they have their offices.

Members of the State Bar Association: Justice Waste of the State Supreme court, chairman; Charles A. Beardsley, of Oakland, vice-president of the State Bar Association; Kenneth K. Mackay, president of the Los Angeles Bar Association; Thomas C. Chapman, of Los Angeles, president of the San Francisco Bar Association; Joseph Scott, of Los Angeles; Andrew Y. Sproul, of Sacramento, junior editor of the Reports of Decisions, secretary.

TIME EXTENDED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30. (Exclusive)—An extension of time until July 15, 1928, has been granted by the Railroad Commission to Southern Pacific Company in which to construct spur track at grade across a portion of Alhambra avenue and across Griffin avenue in the city of Los Angeles.

WOMEN HAVE RIGHT OF WAY

DENVER, July 30. (AP)—Women drivers always have the right of way. That's the latest addition to the courtesy code in Denver where violators of the city's road laws recently were told by police magistrate to pray instead of pay. R. F. Whershey, manager of safety, explained his latest move to prevent accidents with the statement that "if men would stop and let women drivers have the right of way, whether they are entitled to it or not, there would be fewer accidents."

ARMED MEN BEATEN OFF NEAR DUBLIN

Military Camp Attacked in Dark Morning Hours but Soldiers Triumph

DUBLIN, July 29. (AP)—Armed men made an attack on the guard at the Tallaght military camp, near Dublin, this morning, but were driven off by the soldiers' fire. None of the guard was injured.

Between fifty and sixty shots were exchanged. The morning was dark and the military authorities were unable to say whether any of the attackers who retreated across a field were wounded.

Heavy Damage Done Colorado Amid Storms

DENVER, July 29. (AP)—Heavy rainstorms descended on sections of the Rocky Mountain region yesterday afternoon and last night but no serious damage was reported.

Starting at Casper, Wyo., with a light shower the storm grew as it traveled southward. Greeley, Boulder, Fort Collins and other Northern Colorado towns received the heaviest fall of rain experienced this year. The sugar beet crop was in need of moisture.

Several thousand dollars damage was suffered by Denver merchants in the business district because of flooded basement store rooms. Two lakes overflowed and flooded a large part of the City Park. Water covered the streets in streams ranging from one to three feet in width.

Pueblo reported the most rain in any one storm this year. The cantaloupe crop of the Arkansas Valley is reported to have been damaged badly.

Leadville was drenched. Grain crops are not believed to have been damaged.

START PLANT ERECTION

STOCKTON, July 30. (Exclusive)—Construction of a $50,000 dehydrating plant for Harry Arakelian & Son, has just begun in Turlock. The Arakelians are also contemplating building a dehydrating and raisin steamming plant in Livingston.

PAIR'S FATE TO BE FIXED WEDNESDAY

Gov. Fuller Says He Will Decide Then if Sacco and Vanzetti Will Hang

BOSTON, July 29. (AP)—Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, awaiting execution for murder, will know their fate probably next Wednesday, Gov. Fuller said tonight. The men, originally sentenced to die in the electric chair during the week of the 10th inst., were granted a respite until August 10 to enable the Governor to investigate their case.

As Gov. Fuller left his office at the State House late today for his summer home at Rye Beach, N. H., he informed newspaper men that he thought his decision in the Sacco-Vanzetti case would be ready "sometime Wednesday night." He added that he had several more witnesses to interview on Monday.

The Governor's council, which considers, with the executive, petitions for clemency in such cases, is to meet next Wednesday. It apparently was the Governor's belief that the fate of the two condemned men would be decided finally at the council meeting.

Except for the witnesses to which Gov. Fuller referred, the review of the Sacco-Vanzetti case undertaken by the executive in response to an appeal for clemency now is complete.

Four Disappear in Bay Region

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (AP)—San Francisco Bay District police were investigating today the reported disappearance of four persons and the abandonment of a baby boy.

The four missing are Florence Gill, 7 years of age, of Dixon; June Padrow, 14, San Francisco; Miss Isabel Ambrose, 40, of San Francisco, and Fred Hauschildt, San Leandro.

The baby was found in a basket left on the doorstep of the home of Mrs. Margaret W. Manning of Hayward.

Francis Hyde, president of the American Bible Society, recently completed his eighty-third Atlantic trip.

PRESS CITED AS PEACE FACTOR

Pape Addresses Institute of Pacific Relations

Power of Informed Public Opinion Set Forth

Aim of Great News Gathering Association Told

HONOLULU, July 29. (AP)—The immense importance of news distributing associations and of daily newspapers as molders of public opinion—an opinion that may lead to war or to peace—was emphasized last night by W. J. Pape of Waterbury, Ct., vice-president of the Associated Press, in a speech before the Institute of Pacific Relations.

"When the people are well informed," said Mr. Pape, "be sure that they will have something to say about wars. Wars grow out of misunderstandings. It is on record that some of the great wars of the past have arisen out of misunderstandings created by deliberate lying to the people. In most wars not one man in a thousand has really understood what he was fighting for. The rifle was thrust into his hands and it became his duty to shoot.

FOREIGN NEWS DEMAND

"But now that public opinion is daily better and better informed in so many countries, and in recent years there has been a world-wide demand for foreign news to show that the process is proceeding apace, public opinion is appearing in court. The governments must convince the people first. This takes time and time can be used for peace proposals and for possible settlements. Soon public opinion will be the real ruler of the world, with governments as its executives. Then, if ever, will come the time when nation shall not rise against nation.

ASSOCIATION'S AIM

"This is the reason why the far-stretched and powerful organization which I have the honor to represent before you as the representative of the public opinion of the countries bordering on the Pacific, thought it well to be represented by one of its officers today. The Associated Press is working for the fullest and freest transmission of unbiased news across the Pacific. When we attain this there will be peace and understanding among the nations of the Pacific."

Indicating the scope of the Associated Press, Mr. Pape said it had as members more than 1200 daily newspapers "of all shades of political and economic opinion, for whom it gathers the news and between whom there is a constant daily exchange of news through the Associated Press. Through them its dispatches reach 60,000,000 readers in the United States. Through its exchange of news with the strong press associations of other countries, its news reaches daily probably more than a majority of the reading population of the world."

PENNY THIEVES COME TO GRIEF

Plunder 36 Heavy That Five Policemen Run Down Puffing Bandits

NEW YORK, July 29. (AP)—Three young men so hard up for funds that they broke into a penny arcade came to disaster because the 18,350 pennies they stole were so heavy that they could not escape the five policemen who pursued them.

It took the policemen five hours to establish that there were 18,350 pennies, not 18,351.

More Reassuring News Received on India Flood

BOMBAY (British India) July 29. (AP)—Communication still is disorganized in the region of Baroda where heavy rains have flooded a large area during the past few days. Reports of heavy casualties remain unconfirmed.

Advices from Gujerat, in the affected area, were more reassuring today. The rain is reported to have stopped at Gujerat and also at Ahmedabad where high winds are said to have destroyed 2000 buildings but with only six deaths.

Passengers marooned at Itola, where a mail train was isolated by breaks in the line, have been taken off and removed to Delhi.

The town of Kaira, south of Ahmedabad, still is isolated and no reports have been received on conditions there.

SCORES DIE IN CHINA AMMUNITION BLAZE

HANKOW (China) July 30. (AP)—More than 100 soldiers and civilians were killed and hundreds injured as a consequence of an unexplained fire at an army ammunition base at Wuchang, across the Yangtse from Hankow, yesterday. Most of the deaths were caused by the explosion of gunpowder and bullets. The entire district surrounding the base was reduced to ruins. American missionary properties in the explosion zone were wrecked.

PRISON GOODS BUYERS CLASSED AS JOBBERS

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP)—Concerns that buy and sell the output of prison factories are to be classed as jobbers and not as manufacturers, the Federal Trade Commission has ruled in ordering the Commonwealth Manufacturing Company of Chicago to desist from dealing in the product of prison factories under a trade or corporate name including the word "manufacturing."

NEW BUILDING ESTIMATE MADE

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP)—With building operations under way in thirty cities and technical surveys completed in twelve others, Assistant Secretary Schunemann announced at the Treasury today that a new estimate of funds needed for the first year of the Treasury five-year $100,000,000 building program was being prepared for submission to the Budget Bureau probably by September 15, next.

An appropriation of $19,578,700 for this work was carried in the second deficiency bill that became sidetracked in the Senate filibuster.

While the amount will not be materially changed, some slight revisions are expected. Between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 available last winter has been expended.

GRANTED EXTENSION

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30. (Exclusive)—A further extension of time until July 15, 1928, has been granted by the Railroad Commission to Southern Pacific Company in which to construct spur track at grade across a portion of Alhambra avenue and across Griffin avenue in the city of Los Angeles.

Joshua Little ON FREE LOVE

I LIKE to be read by the highly moral, so today I've chosen a subject to intrigue 'em—unless they're all in such a rush to buy the latest book the Public Library has barred that they fail to notice it.

Free love is a theory advanced youths warmly advocate—except for their own sisters. It was invented by a man named Godwin, to cover a slip of his own. Godwin practiced and preached it with fervor. But when his own daughter ran away with poet Shelley to follow suit Godwin almost went into spasms.

All free love disciples since then have been equally sincere. I know a Tino—that is, a Young Intellectual—whose favorite theme is "Marriage is Bondage." But that Tino always has wanted something for nothing.

Everything worth while is bondage. All high ambitions are. All the truly great in history have been more in bondage to their jobs than any slave driver could have made them. Without the bondage of devotion there wouldn't be a great thinker, builder, statesman or artworker alive. Full acceptance of any responsibility is bondage—and who can be a man without accepting his proper responsibilities? Bondage to conscience is all that makes any of us fit to live. So why shrink from bondage? It is simply fair play—and fair pay.

Yes, Palomino, the folks who hold this world together are those who pay their way, not those who are always after something free.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

ROSE PARADE TO GO NEW ROUTE

Change Announced by Directors of Tournament Body

Shorter Distance to Relieve Traffic Congestion

Bowl to be Enlarged to Seat 20,000 More Persons

PASADENA, July 29.—The route of the Tournament of Roses parade here next New Year's Day will be changed from the course it has always run, and from now on the floats will proceed from a point on East Colorado street straight west on the city's main thoroughfare to the Rose Bowl in the Arroyo Seco, where the annual New Year's Day intersectional football game is held.

This change was announced today by directors of the Tournament of Roses Association, who stated that its advantages will include decreasing congestion along the line of march, shortening the distance, which had become too long for those in the parade who have had to walk the entire route, and decreasing last-minute congestion at the Rose Bowl before the football game. Heretofore the famous midwinter pageant has followed a winding course which included Colorado street and Lake and East Orange Grove avenues.

The Tourriament association also announced that a public entertainment in the stadium will be held this fall to raise funds for the beautification of the bowl, and that officials of the association will make a trip to Stanford University and the University of California shortly to get ideas for the local stadium from those of the northern institutions.

Ground was broken today for the 20,000-seat addition which will be built this summer and fall at the Rose Bowl, making it one of the largest stadiums in the West. In turning the first spadeful of earth, City Director Shupe slipped and cut a big gash in his foot with the shovel. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital for treatment.

Joshua Trees to be Hazards of New Links

VICTORVILLE, July 29.—On the rolling hills of the Mojave desert, with Joshua trees as the hazards, a golf course of picturesque natural beauty will be constructed by the Victor Valley Country Club, it was announced today. Articles of incorporation were filed in the Superior Court, showing $5000 subscribed of a $15,000 capital stock.

The club will construct a golf course, parks and grounds, a lake for fishing and baseball and football grounds, according to the announced program.

The incorporators are R. P. Turner, E. J. Goodrich, G. A. Marsh, C. H. Godshall, Carlin M. Bobbist, E. C. Thompson, J. H. Smith and T. J. Pitcher of Victorville; E. H. Richards and W. L. Chapin of Adelanto, and S. C. Lester of Oro Grande.

EVERYBODY BLEW

Gypsies Show Huntington Park Merchant New Vanishing Trick

HUNTINGTON PARK, July 29.—A pair of gypsy women, who were just about as bright as the flashy gowns they wore, called on a number of business men here a day of two ago, with the request that they be permitted to show a trick, which they claimed was a new one. A manager of a local store permitted them to show him how he would have good luck by just blowing on a quarter draped in his handkerchief. The man blew on the coin, and so did the gypsies. Then there were a few words in some unknown language and the pair blew out of the store. Later the manager discovered that he had been "touched" for $32. Police were notified, but the pair had left the city.

OFICERS ELECTED FOR IMPERIAL FAIR

BRAWLEY, July 29. — F. G. Trude, local attorney, was elected president of the Imperial Valley Midwinter Fair Association at a meeting of the directors held here last night. Other officers named were Ralph Stillgenbauer, vice-president; Walter Haverkorst, treasurer, and Harry E. Niven, secretary. These officers with J. P. Warner, Tom Adgar and E. C. Schelling will serve as the executive committee. Imperial Valley's next midwinter exposition is to be held early in December, the exact dates not yet having been fixed. Preliminary plans indicate that the fair will be more elaborate this year than any previous season.

NOVEL METHOD USED IN OBTAINING CAR

GLENDALE, July 29.—Walking on the used car lot of the Glendale Motor Car Company, 425 South Brand, and seating themselves in an automobile offered for sale, a man and an elderly lady drove off with the car, a roadster, last night, and had not been located today, Lyman Clark, president of the firm, says the description of the pair obtained by a salesman who was on duty, but who was unable to apprehend the couple, agrees with that of two Burbank persons who purchased the car two months ago and were forced to return it when unable to make payments.

ROAD OBSTRUCTED

HUNTINGTON PARK, July 29.—While Grant Perry of 123 Lexington avenue, Los Angeles, was driving his motorcycle along Santa Fe avenue, near Clarendon street, he crashed into the rear end of the car driven by Arthur L. Hiatt, of 1924 Arlington avenue, yesterday. Perry was thrown from his machine, suffering a broken leg and cuts and bruises. He was treated at the Huntington Park Hospital, where he will be confined for several days.

Mother Asks Penitentiary for Daughter

FRESNO, July 29.—Faced with a mother's plea that her daughter be sent to the State penitentiary if necessary, because of a bigamous marriage she contracted, City Justice Earle J. Church today held the interrupted nuptials of Winifred Johnson, 17 years of age, and Alexander Maha of Auburn, under advisement. The mother, Mrs. May Shiman of Auburn, preferred the charges when Maha and her daughter married in the face of knowledge that the girl's first husband had not yet secured permanent separation from her, Mrs. Shiman testified. Maha is charged with being a party to a marriage known to be bigamous. The case hinges upon whether the first marriage was legal, as the girl was fifteen and did not have parental consent. If the marriage was illegal, the second marriage cannot be bigamous, attorneys for the young couple argue.

New Telephone Service Plans for Monrovia

MONROVIA, July 29.—Business men of Monrovia and Arcadia, housewives and other users of the telephone, will encounter no difficulty in getting service between the two cities Monday morning when they take down the receivers, for promptly at 12:01 Monday morning the present free toll line will be cut and the toll system connected, it was announced today by J. M. Baldwin, manager of the Monrovia Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The wires are installed and everything is ready for the cut, which is the culmination of activity on the part of Monrovia and Arcadia chambers of commerce and the two city councils for improved telephone service between the two cities, which was culminated in a decision of the State Railroad Commission that the Monrovia Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company discontinue the free line and install a toll rate. Eight lines are installed for present use, Mr. Baldwin stated, and additional lines will be available as the demand warrants. The new rate will be 5 cents for a five-minute period, and 5 cents for each additional five minutes.

Long Beach Man Has Close Call

RIVERSIDE, July 29.—E. A. Pusey of Long Beach can thank his friends today that he is not in the charge of Sheriff Sweeters at the County Jail. Pusey was brought before the Superior Court from the court of Justice L. D. Childers of Banning, on charges of driving while intoxicated and sentenced to six months in the County Jail.

However, when several testimonials from close friends, one even from the Chief of Detectives in Long Beach, were introduced into the evidence to show that Pusey has never been known to get drunk, the sentence was suspended. He must abstain from all liquor and must not be in court on any charge connected with liquor, Superior Judge Ellis ruled.

Testimony presented in the case revealed that a charge of carrying a concealed weapon had been dismissed when Chief of Detectives Worly of Long Beach explained in a communication that Pusey is a jeweler and has been given permission in his home city to carry a revolver as protection for valuables often on his person.

MOYSE AGAIN HEADS GLENDALE SCHOOLS

GLENDALE, July 29.—George U. Moyse was re-elected principal of Glendale Union High School and appointed to fill the same capacity at Glendale Junior College at a meeting of the School Board of Trustees here last night.

Mr. Moyse will receive an annual salary of $5508. Mrs. George U. Moyse and A. L. Ferguson, vice-principals and Irving H. Oliver, business manager, were also re-elected. At the meeting the board appropriated a budget of $72,500 for junior college purposes. Construction is expected to start soon as possible as the district will be automatically closed unless instruction is given by November 1, next.

BANDIT COMMAND TO HALT IGNORED

FRESNO, July 29.—Menacing them with a revolver, a bandit attempted to hold up Virgil and Edgar Harter, 335 Pacific avenue, early today as they drove past the entrance of Roeding Park, they reported to the police. Instead of halting the auto at the bandit's command, the driver speeded past and the man did not fire, they said. Description of the man was secured from the youths and footprints believed to be those of the highwayman were discovered and traced.

Fruit Picker Attacked as He Sleeps in Tent

HANFORD, July 29.—Local officers are mystified at what appears to have been an attempt to murder Serapio Martinez, an itinerant Mexican fruit picker from the Imperial Valley, by some person who crept upon him at an early hour this morning while he was asleep in a tent in a camp in the southern part of the city and dealt him a blow on the head.

The mysterious assailant escaped in the darkness and left no trace behind. Martinez was taken by his friends to the County Hospital, where it was ascertained that his injuries consisted of a laceration of the scalp, but the skull was not crushed, and the wound is not serious.

Martinez could give no intimation as to his assailant. He said that he had not had any trouble with anyone, and there was not attempt at robbery.

City Marshal Sam Brown and Constable W. B. Dalby, who investigated the case, have been so far unable to find any clew to the assailant.

NEIGHBORS IN SUIT

ARMONA, July 29. — John August has been arrested on complaint of Joe P. Silva, a neighbor, on a charge of embezzlement, for the alleged sale of a team of horses on which there was a chattel mortgage. The defendant was released on $2000 bond.

FARMER ASKS DAMAGES

CORCORAN, July 29.—J. A. Dartenay, Tulare Lake Basin farmer, has sued the Pomona Manufacturing Company for $12,000 damage alleged to have been sustained to crops of corn and wheat, due to delay in installation and defect in wiring by its sales agent of a turbine pump for irrigation purposes.

VALENCIA POOL PAYING

Orange County Growers Receiving Approximately $85,000 as First Payment From Association

ORANGE, July 29.—Checks aggregating approximately $85,322 were being received today by growers affiliated with the McPherson Heights Citrus Association as net returns for the first Valencia pool paid by the organization. The checks were forwarded to all growers who shipped fruit in the opening pool which extended from May 1 to June 9.

According to C. W. Post, plant manager, the second pool, which started June 10, will be closed within the next few days, but the returns will not be available for some time. As to customers, the first pool, Post said, was comparatively short, there being between seventy-five and eighty cars shipped during that period.

Although the average was considered good, no high prices were received because the fruit represented early shipments before the high market developed.

Less than 20 per cent of the association's crop was included in the opening pool, so that the bulk of the fruit remains to be shipped.

Higher prices are now being anticipated, owing to the favorable trend of the market during the past several weeks.

Officials are looking forward to one of the greatest years in Valencia history, the excellent market now prevailing, combined with the bumper crop, lending encouragement for a record season. The Orange county walnut crop is also exceedingly heavy.

OIL-LAND TRIAL NONSUIT ARGUED

Plaintiffs Present Argument for Continuing Case

Gosnell Incompetent, Burden of Counsel's Plea

Opinions Advanced by Lay Witnesses Defended

VENTURA, July 29.—Following the conclusion of arguments presented in the Superior Court before Judge Edward Henderson by James E. Degnan, head of counsel for the Gosnell-Lloyd oil rights, that the suit be nonsuited, Robert M. Clark, head counsel for the plaintiffs, today presented arguments as to why the trial should go on.

The burden of Clark's argument was that Truman B. Gosnell, 79-year-old Los Angeles man and property owner in the Ventura-avenue oil field, was mentally incompetent to transact business and sell his one-twenty-fourth interest in the oil rights of the Gosnell lease here to Ralph B. Lloyd for $72,000.

Clark cited the testimony of Drs. Bowers, Parkin and Brush, psychiatrists who testified concerning Gosnell's mental and physical condition, and he pointed out to the court that each of these men declared himself sure that Gosnell was incompetent June 17, 1925, to handle such a transaction and comprehend all details of it.

Defending the testimony of the plaintiff's lay witnesses concerning their opinions of Gosnell's mental condition in years past and refuting the argument presented by Attorney Degnan that such testimony should not be considered, inasmuch as such witnesses are not qualified to testify concerning any one's mental condition, Clark cited a decision in a similar case which ruled that testimony of lay witnesses in this matter should be considered by the court, inasmuch as they are able to testify as to things said and done by the person in question.

Degnan presented two main points. The first was that it has been established that the attack upon the contract entered into by T. B. Gosnell and Ralph B. Lloyd for the sale of the oil rights is now being made by T. B. Gosnell as assignee, through his guardians, under an assignment from Ethel Gosnell, his divorced wife, who, if she were suing in her own name, would be denied relief and subject to whose disqualifications. T. B. Gosnell must sue.

The second point brought out by Degnan was that testimony has shown that the action is not brought by or on behalf of the person for whose benefit the law in question was enacted, but that others, not comprehended by a Supreme Court decision on a similar matter, have brought the action to consummate an agreement between themselves for personal gain.

The agreement referred to was the contract made by Ira Gosnell and Lena Bowyer, son and daughter, and guardians of T. B. Gosnell and Ethel Gosnell, in which it was provided that Ethel Gosnell would receive $1000 a month for twenty-one months and 20 per cent of all moneys recovered in this suit, if she would testify for the plaintiffs in the case.

By the agreement, Ira Gosnell and Lena Bowyer were each to receive 25 per cent of all moneys recovered, and the attorneys the remaining 30 per cent.

Fruit Picker Attacked as He Sleeps in Tent

HANFORD, July 29.—Local officers are mystified at what appears to have been an attempt to murder Serapio Martinez, an itinerant Mexican fruit picker from the Imperial Valley, by some person who crept upon him at an early hour this morning while he was asleep in a tent in a camp in the southern part of the city and dealt him a blow on the head.

The mysterious assailant escaped in the darkness and left no trace behind. Martinez was taken by his friends to the County Hospital, where it was ascertained that his injuries consisted of a laceration of the scalp, but the skull was not crushed, and the wound is not serious.

Martinez could give no intimation as to his assailant. He said that he had not had any trouble with anyone, and there was not attempt at robbery.

City Marshal Sam Brown and Constable W. B. Dalby, who investigated the case, have been so far unable to find any clew to the assailant.

NEIGHBORS IN SUIT

ARMONA, July 29. — John August has been arrested on complaint of Joe P. Silva, a neighbor, on a charge of embezzlement, for the alleged sale of a team of horses on which there was a chattel mortgage. The defendant was released on $2000 bond.

FARMER ASKS DAMAGES

CORCORAN, July 29.—J. A. Dartenay, Tulare Lake Basin farmer, has sued the Pomona Manufacturing Company for $12,000 damage alleged to have been sustained to crops of corn and wheat, due to delay in installation and defect in wiring by its sales agent of a turbine pump for irrigation purposes.

MEXICANS AT POMONA COLLEGE LEAVE FOR HOME

Visiting Teachers and Students Finish Summer Studies

Entertain Before Departure

Second exchange group sent from southern republic to Claremont.

CLAREMONT, July 29.—With the close of the Pomona College summer session here today, more than 250 summer students returned to their homes, and the group of Mexican teachers and students sent to Pomona College by the State governments of Mexico and the National University of Mexico City left for Los Angeles and other points previous to their return to Mexico. This is the second year that Mexican teachers and students have been sent to Pomona to exchange with American teachers and students the culture of the two neighboring republics.

Miss Guadalupe Zuniga and Miss Guadalupe Posados of the National University of Mexico will leave here tomorrow for Los Angeles where they are to spend ten days. Miss Zuniga, who is a judge of the Juvenile Court in Mexico City, will spend the time securing information on the operation of the Los Angeles Juvenile Court and probation work. Arrangements for her inspection and study were made through the courtesy of Judge Harry R. Archbald, judge of the Juvenile Court. Miss Davilla of the Los Angeles probationary offices will assist Miss Zuniga in her study. Following the ten days in Los Angeles Miss Zuniga and Miss Posados will visit San Francisco, later returning to Mexico City.

Prof. Francisco Manriquez, Federal director of education for the State of Sinaloa, completed his study today of the Mexico work offered at Pomona College and has returned to San Diego. Before leaving he announced that the State of Sinaloa will send a large body of their teachers to the 1928 summer session at Pomona College. A letter received from Senor Munoz, director of education for the State of Sonora, by Joseph H. Batten, director of the Friends of the Mexicans conference, also states that a large group of teachers will be sent by Sonora for the 1928 session.

Among those who have been in close contact with the visiting Mexicans this summer are William S. Ament, director of the summer session; James Hoffman Batten; Miss Margaret Husson and Prof. Henry A. Holmes of the Pomona College faculty and Miss Drusilla Mackay of Fullerton, who has been very successful in general charge of the work. Much of the development of the exchange of cultural relations which has been made possible is attributed to the interest of Mr. Alfonso Pesqueira, Consul for Mexico in Los Angeles.

Savage Leaving Pomona College

CLAREMONT, July 29.—With the departure of George W. Savage, Pomona College publicity director for the past two years, from Claremont tomorrow afternoon, the work of the publicity office will be placed in charge of James M. Judy of the college administration. Mr. Savage resigned some time ago to join the staff of the Scripps-Howard newspaper, the San Diego Sun.

Mr. and Mrs. Savage are leaving Claremont tomorrow afternoon, accompanied by Mr. Savage's mother, Mrs. L. D. Savage of Pomona, for a three week's camping and fishing trip which will take them to Mammoth lakes and over the Tioga Pass road into Yosemite Valley. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Savage will move to San Diego, where Mr. Savage will begin his new work on the Sun on September 1.

Mr. Judy will continue handling the contacts which have been so cordial between the newspapers of Southern California and the college.

NEW STAGE TERMINAL

EXETER, July 29.—Exeter is now the terminus for stages of the Sequoia and General Grant National Parks Company. Formerly they ran into Visalia for passengers. The stages remain overnight in Exeter and meet the north and southbound trains in the morning, coming from the parks in the afternoon to connect with trains on the Southern Pacific bound either direction.

PASTOR RESIGNS

SEPULVEDA, July 29.—Dr. Fred Essig has resigned as pastor of the Sepulveda Community Church and will depart soon to accept a professorship in Ashbury College at Wilmore, Ky. Dr. Essig will take the chair of psychology. He holds degrees from the University of California at Berkeley and taught for several years in the University of Southern California.

WELCOME AT INGLEWOOD

Preparations Completed to Care for Thousands When Ford-Stout Plane Arrives There

INGLEWOOD, July 29.—Free parking space for the thousands of cars expected to bring a throng of 30,000 people here on Saturday afternoon to witness the arrival of the Ford-Stout all-mental plane from San Diego, has been provided through the aeronautical committee of the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce, according to Frank D. Parent, chairman. The huge 480-acre field at the junction of Belieview avenue, Pine street and the Inglewood-Redondo Boulevard, will also be amply policed, it is promised, so that opportunity will be afforded for inspection of the twelve-passenger aircraft from Detroit.

The huge plane, which has a wing-spread equal to the width of two city lots, is scheduled to land on the local field at 2 p.m. and will remain all afternoon and possibly over Sunday in order that it may be inspected by thousands more who are eager to see the first passenger plane that ever sailed along the walls of the Grand Canyon.

William B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford plant, J. L. Maddux of Los Angeles, owner of the plane, and its other passengers, who have made the trip from Detroit, will be welcomed by representatives of all the Chambers of Commerce in the Centinela Valley and the south bay cities, at the invitation of John L. Steinberger, president of the Inglewood Chamber, and Mayor Hugh B. Lawrence will extend the official greeting of the municipality of Inglewood.

Following the arrival, it is planned for the committee to be given a short trip in the giant plane, over the cities which they represent, according to Mr. Parent.

Paintings of Old Missions Resurrected

COVINA, July 29.—Studies of twenty-two of the California missions by Miss M. E. Fountain, a member of the early artist colony of San Francisco, have been sold this week by A. O. Hayes of Charter Oak to Cle Hanson and will be kept perpetually for Californians and those interested in western history at San Clemente.

The historic value of the paintings, which are in oil and which faithfully portray the mission buildings as they were in the early '30's, was recognized by O. P. Hayes, grand uncle of A. O. Hayes, who purchased the collection many years ago. At that time the missions were not valued as they now are and efforts to dispose of them were unavailing and for twenty years the paintings have been stored as a financial skeleton in the A. O. Hayes home.

They were recently discovered by L. J. Rodman, local representative of the San Clemente Company, who recognized in them an asset for the Spanish Village.

The only other studies of all the missions made at this early date were by Henry Chapman Ford of Santa Barbara and are now on display at Mission Inn, Riverside.

KERN PIONEER MUST FACE KILLING CHARGE

BAKERSFIELD, July 29.—James Wingfield, pioneer Kern county rancher, must stand trial in Superior Court on a charge of murdering Anton Marius, also a rancher in the Green Horn Mountain district. Wingfield was bound over to Superior Court at the conclusion of his preliminary examination in Justice T. A. Baker's Sixth Township Court. The murder is said to have climaxed a quarrel over Marius's dog, which Wingfield had shot.

VISITS FATHERLAND

VISALIA, July 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Joe D. Finni and children, accompanied by Louis Meri have returned to Visalia from a six-month visit to their former home in Northern Italy. Mr. Finni is a well-known rancher of Visalia district. The tour took the family to Spain, Algiers and Gibraltar, then on to Naples and Genoa. This was Finni's third trip to his former home in Italy since 1900.

Three Orange Water Firms Plan Combine

ORANGE, July 29.—Three companies organized to supply water to ranchers in the Orange Heights, Villa Park and El Modena districts, are proposing to combine in one large organization, serving 1480 acres, it was learned today.

The Serro Villa Water Company will hold a special meeting of its stockholders in El Modena August 4 to consider the proposition.

The Grey Tract Well Company has called a meeting for its stockholders for August 15 in the office of the company on the F. H. Collins ranch, near Villa Park.

The Santiago Well Company is scheduled to meet on August 16 to either ratify or refuse to join the other two companies.

It is pointed out that the three companies as now organized have overhead expenses which, when combined, will be materially reduced through elimination of duplication. This will result in a lower cost for water to stockholders. Should the three companies ratify the move a joint meeting some time soon will probably be called for organization and election of officers.

TWO PLEAD GUILTY TO CHANGED CHARGE

PIXLEY, July 29.—H. S. Cogley and D. J. Chavers, arrested on the Cogley ranch east of Earlimart several days ago and charged with conspiracy, manufacture and possession of intoxicating liquor, have been taken to the Tulare County Jail in Visalia. They changed their pleas to guilty on the charge of possession and the charges of conspiracy and manufacture were dropped. Cogley was ordered to pay a fine of $150 and Chavers $200, in lieu of which they have started a jail sentence. They were brought before Judge Swanson of Pixley for preliminary.

IGNACE PADEREWSKI VISITS CROWN CITY

PASADENA, July 29.—Ignace Paderewski, the famous pianist and Polish patriot, paid a visit to Pasadena today but kept his mission to himself. He was seen entering a taxicab on Colorado street, but did not register at any of the local hotels. He usually comes here once a year for a vacation at one of the hotels. The pianist recently returned to his Paso Robles ranch after a successful Australian tour.

COUPLE HALTED BY NEW MARRIAGE LAW

HANFORD, July 29.—Luz Tujo and Consuelo Sanches of Bakersfield were the first couple to unwittingly run up against the three-days' notice required by a new law, when they applied for a marriage license in Hanford today. They were much disappointed when informed that the nuptials would have to be delayed three days.

BURGLARS LIKE MUSIC

HANFORD, July 29.—Effecting an entrance through a rear window last night burglars stole six portable phonographs from the Hanford Furniture Store at Sixth and Harris streets.

San Clemente Will Have New Enterprise Soon

SAN CLEMENTE, July 29.—San Clemente Tile Company, Inc., is the name of a new enterprise for the Spanish village. The papers of incorporation are in the hands of the State Corporation Commissioner in Sacramento and as soon as the permit is granted the firm will be a going concern for the majority of the stock has been sold, it was said.

The company is incorporated for $30,000 and the incorporators are Thomas Murphens, Sr., Bruce Sebilis and Paul Roeltinger, with Roettinger named as general manager.

The company has purchased four acres in the industrial district near the furniture factory and as soon as authority is received will commence the erection of buildings. There will be an office building and living quarters for employees.

The output of the plant at first will be devoted solely to the needs of San Clemente but it is the intention of the sponsors to send their products to all parts of Orange, Los Angeles and San Diego counties later.

New Wage Scale for Fruit Work

FRESNO, July 29.—A new wage scale to govern vineyard and orchard work in San Jaquin Valley was made public today by F. J. Palomares, manager of the Agricultural Labor Bureau of the San Joaquin Valley, an organization formed to assist farmers in securing adequate supplies of farm help.

The grape agreement is practically the same as that in operation last year.

The new labor schedule follows:

Day labor without board, per hour, 35 cents. Day labor, with board, per day, $2.00. Tractor operators, with board, per day, $2.50. Tractor operators, without board, per day, $3.50. Married ranch hands quarters furnished, $75 to $90. Picking seedless trays to unit 2 cents 650 and over. 2 1-4 cents 400 to 500; 2½ cents 300 to 400; 2 3-4 cents 200 to 300; 3 cents 100 to 200. Picking muscats, trays to unit. 2½ cents 500 and over. 2 3-4 cents 400 to 500. 3 cents 300 to 400. 3 1-4 cents 200 to 300. 3½ cents 100 to 200.

ARBITRATION ENDS ASSAULT CHARGES

CUTLER, July 29.—Charles Wileman of Cutler is suffering from injuries sustained in an alleged assault by Jennings Deshr made when Wileman and his mother-in-law, Mrs. K. E. Hare, went to inspect the Hare ranch east of here. It is said that Jennings Deshr struck Wileman with a shovel as the latter sat in his car, later dragging him out of the machine and administering further punishment. Deshr was arrested by Justice of the Peace E. C. Archer but obtained his release on $2000 bail. Following arbitration between Frank Deshr, brother of Jennings who had rented the ranch, and K. E. Hare, the matter is said to have been settled.

DRYING APRICOTS GIVE GROUND GOLDEN LOOK

SIMI, July 29.—The drying of apricots is the order of the day here now, as thousands of the drying trays are to be seen under the trees on ranches that border the highways and the lesser roads of travel. A large amount of the fruit also is being dried at Santa Susana, near here, and at Moorpark. So many of the drying trays are used in the groves of some of the larger ranches that the ground bears a golden yellow look. Hundreds of employees are being used to gather and get the fruit ready for the drying process. This year the apricot crop has been a splendid one and ranchers are expected to make a good profit from their yields.

FORD PLANE AT SAN DIEGO FIELD

Nearly Thousand Persons Meet Eastern Flyers

Plant Officials Make Trip from Los Angeles

Air Transport Line Dedicated During Afternoon

SAN DIEGO, July 29.—Several thousand persons were at the San Diego flying field on Barnett Mesa to greet W. B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Motor Company, and party of assisting officials, who dropped from the skies at 3:30 o'clock today in the huge all-metal Ford transport plane, in which they had flown across the country from Michigan. The party is visiting San Diego in the interests of the proposed passenger air line service between Paso, San Diego and San Francisco, sponsored by Jack Maddux of Los Angeles.

The plane, which took off from Rogers airport, Los Angeles, at 8:30 a.m. today, circled the field several times before landing. Much interest prevailed among the persons assembled at the field, as this is the first ship of its type to be on the Pacific Coast.

Within ten minutes after the arrival of visiting officials landed, were on their way to the Stetson hotel, where more than 600 persons were to attend a luncheon given in honor of the visiting officials. Among the Scioto and the Chamber of Commerce. Conferences between and his associates and local and aviation authorities were this afternoon regarding the air line. Maddux, who owns the plane, is sponsoring the proposed passenger air line.

Included in Mayo's party were A. Hamilton, Ford Airport, Dearborn; Vansandt, Detroit captain; Clarence G. Fritz, pilot; Harding, relief pilot; Jack W. Hunt, chanic; C. W. Nelson, Salt Lake and Charles McPherson, Ogden Press correspondent, in addition to Mayo and Maddux.

The plane was on display at Barnett Field during the afternoon.

Calexico Makes Luncheon Plans for Carl White

CALEXICO, July 29.—Business men in this city are planning a big luncheon on Thursday, August 4, in honor of Carl White, assistant secretary of the Department of Labor, who is scheduled to arrive by airplane in San Diego, with a party of other officials to inspect the land border entry.

According to Herbert Bailey, secretary of the Calexico chamber of commerce in charge of the arrangements, is to include Representative Milton W. Shreve, William P. Hall and Anthony J. Grimes and Harvin Jones of the Border Patrol.

A landing field is being prepared near Heber, where the Department of Labor planes which are to carry the party inland from San Diego will land.

According to the announcement today, the party will go from Calexico to Los Angeles, leaving at 2:30 Thursday afternoon.

First Thompson Seedless Shipments Start

VISALIA, July 29.—First shipments of Thompson seedless grapes made from Tulare county were to eastern markets. The first consignment went from the Sunkist packing-house on Tuesday, after testing 19 per cent sugar. Other Shipments are also being made from the Exeter district. Elberta peaches are also moving from Exeter and believed the first Malaga grapes to start from Exeter will be ready the grape season will be about a week. Grapes are progressing well as regards sugar content, according to Frank R. Brann, Tulare county horticultural commissioner. The crop is coming on fine and a good crop is coming on for the balance of part of next month. Reports indicate better prices than last year, due to activities of the California Vineyardists' Association, and the standardization law, providing for better quality, different packing methods.

MAN BROODING OVER FRIEND'S DEATH COMMITS SUICIDE

REDLANDS, July 29.—[illegible] 64 years of age, is missing from his home and cannot be found, according to the police here tonight. A description to all other cities in the state was a close friend of Will Rogers, well-known Redlands resident who committed suicide several months ago and has been brooding over the tragedy. He was heard to remark that he did not believe he could attend the funeral. The funeral was held this afternoon. Carmichael left his home last night at 7 o'clock and since that time has been found of him. He has not been seen for some time. He has not been well for several months and members of his family fear that he has wandered away. He married a daughter of [illegible]

KINSEY LOSES TO JAP STAR

Nipponese Netters Win First Two Matches From Mexico in Davis Cup Play

ST. LOUIS, July 29. (AP)—Players representing Japan won the first two matches from Mexico in the American zone Davis Cup tennis matches contest at the Triple A Club here today. Yoshiro Ohta of Japan defeated Robert Kinsey of Mexico in a five-set battle. The score was 2-6, 1-6, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2. Takeichi Harada added another point for Japan by defeating Alfonso Unda of Mexico in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

Three hours were needed to complete the match. Play was stopped for twenty-five minutes by rain in the third set.

SACS SPLIT PAIR WITH HOLLYWOOD

Sheiks Wallop Senators in First Game, But Drop Nightcap

SACRAMENTO, July 29. (AP)—Hollywood retained its two-game lead on the present series by dividing two games with Sacramento here today, the Stars winning the first, 15 to 2, and dropping the second, 5 to 4, in an extra-inning session, playing eight innings. The second game, replete with thrills, was climaxed by the chasing of Severeid from the game, leaving the Senators without a catcher. McGee, first baseman, caught the last inning. Scores:

KNIGHT TWIRLS TRIBE TRIUMPH

Indians Take Fourth in Row from Seraphs, 8-3

Angels Held to Six Hits by Seattle Slabster

Both Sides Make Five Boots in Loose Contests

BY BOB RAY

With Jack Knight allowing only two hits after the first inning, Marty Krug's sunken Seraphs never had a chance with the Seattle Indians yesterday at Wrigley Field, where they dropped their fourth straight to the Killefer tribe by an 8-to-3 score.

Although both sides were guilty of five boots, the contest couldn't be called a comedy of errors, which is a famous old wheeze, because there was nothing funny about it. Young Swede Norgren, the rookie shortstop, was guilty of four of the Seraph miscues and all of them figured in the Seattle scoring.

The quintet of Seattle errors didn't hurt so much, although two of them were turned into Angel runs, because Knight was pitching a brand of ball that wouldn't be denied.

PIERCY UNFORTUNATE

Bill Piercy started on the mound for the Cherubs and was unfortunate in that the first five runs scored off him were unearned, all coming as a result of errors by his mates. Finally, when Bill did allow an earned run in the seventh, Marty Krug must have thought he was weakening for he lifted Piercy for a pinch hitter. Hal Gardner, a recruit from the Timber League, hurled the last two rounds, striking out two in the eighth and being touched for a couple of runs in the ninth because of ragged support. Gardner made a hit with the fans and looks as though he might prove to be a help to the helpless Home Guards.

The Angels did their best bit of scoring in the first round when a couple of runs were gleaned out of Krug's double over Huffy's head, and singles by Jahn, Hood and Cox. Jahn scored from third when Brady, in attempting to make a force-play at second on Cox's slow infield hit, tossed wild to Ellsworth.

Seattle got one run back in the second when Sherlock singled and made it around the rest of the way when Ellsworth was hit by a pitched ball and Norgren threw wild to first in an attempt to complete a double play on Borreani's infield grounder.

TRIBE CONTINUES

The tribe continued its scoring tactics in the third, three runs being scored with the aid of a couple of Angel errors, Purdy skied out to

HELEN OF GREENWICH - - By Feg Murray

Tex Not Much on Radio but Made His Pile

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

CHICAGO, July 29.—It may be that when the representatives of big men of Chicago hear Mr. Tex Rickard remark that certain fellers haven't got no principles they will think that Mr. Rickard ain't very smart himself and certainly ain't no feller to be putting Chicago on the map in a big way with the second showing of the Tunney-Dempsey prize fight, or the Tunney-Dempsey convention,

A TOWN with the Indian name Massapequa, situated somewhere in Long Island, N. Y., now automatically becomes the Battling Beauty center of America, as the annual outdoor A.A.U. girls' swimming championships get under way today.

This four-day carnival has brought together the class of America's natatorial femininity, with the exception of those Three Graces of the aquatic world, Gertrude Ederle, Aileen Riggin and Helen Wainwright, who are all professionals and so ineligible to compete. This is probably the greatest meeting of women swimmers that will be held anywhere prior to the Olympic tryouts in 1928.

Among those present, and very much so indeed, is attractive Helen Meaney of Greenwich, Ct., who is known throughout the land as one of the most graceful and accomplished of Uncle Sam's troupe of diving girls. Helen competed for her Uncle at Antwerp in 1920, and at Paris in 1924, and to say that she will once more enjoy the pleasures and benefits derived from a free trip to Europe, in 1928, is not making any rash statement.

At the moment, Helen is busier thinking about the business at hand than she is about what may happen next year, for she has a title to defend, a title that various other young ladies, for divers' reasons, would like to take away from her.

For be it known that Helen Meaney, 22, of the Greenwich Meaneys (there are about a dozen of 'em, all good swimmers,) is the present National A.A.U. outdoor, ten-foot springboard diving champion. She also holds the indoor titles on the low board and the ten-foot, won at Buffalo last February. This graceful roermaid can be counted on to give her best, no matter whether the dive called for is the rhythmic swan, the difficult one-and-one-half, or the gymnastic

Bobby Jones Arrives Home From England

NEW YORK, July 29. (AP)—Bobby Jones, Atlanta, Ga., winner of the British open golf championship for two years in succession, arrived at 7 o'clock tonight on the Aquitania.

Bobby was accompanied by his father, Robert T. Jones, Sr.; Joe Kirkwood, southern professional who finished fourth in the open championship; Stewart Maiden, the champion's life-long golf tutor, and five puppies which he brought with him from England. One of the pups, a Scottish cairn, was given to Bobby by one of his British admirers.

BOBBY JONES

An enthusiastic delegation of Jones's fellow-townsmen met him as the ship docked, but instead of the proposed parade up Fifth avenue they tendered him an informal but none the less enthusiastic welcome in a private room near the end of the pier.

FAVORITES TOPPLED IN TIA JUANA RACE

TIA JUANA HOT SPRINGS, July 29. A day of long shots mraked the twenty-sixth day of greyhound racing here. Favorites were toppled in almost every event, including the feature. Jack Holt, a black dog owned by James Regan, copped the five-sixteenths California stakes, in 32 1-5.

First race, three-sixteenths—Salty, Irish Nancy, Fleet Fits. Time—20.

Second race, three-sixteenths — Rough House, Ontibloc and Sonoma Girl. Time—19 2-5.

Third, one-fourth—Miss Monnett, Steam Boat and Lady Chance. Time—27.

Fourth, futurity—Mission Melody, Helen Clark and Tan B. Time—29 2-5.

Fifth, three-sixteenths — Mac McGrath, Dan Sheehan and Self Starter. Time—19.

Sixth, five-sixteenths, California Stakes—Jack Holt, San Carlos Boy and Pat O'Brady. Time—32 2-5.

Seventh, futurity—Only Nora, Shuffling Bells and Rosie Wedgewood. Time—24 2-5.

Eighth, one-fourth, hurdles—Skipper, Rincon Hill and Johnnie Jumpup. Time—24 2-5.

MISS CALIFORNIA WINS BUFFALO RACE

BUFFALO (N. Y.) July 29. (AP)—Miss California, driven by Dick Loynes of Long Beach, Cal., won the five-mile race for 151 class hydroplanes at the regatta of the Buffalo Launch Club on the Niagara River today. The time of Miss Clara, six minutes, fifty-four seconds, or an average speed of 50.06 miles an hour, was said by officials of the American Power Boat Association to be an unofficial record for the class over a two-and-one-half-mile course.

"HELEN THE SECOND" IS BRILLIANT IN DEFEAT

English Tennis Queen Beats Fellow Berkeleyite With Steady Game; Also Wins Doubles Title

MANCHESTER (Mass.) July 29. (AP)—Miss Helen Wills, former national champion, continued her victorious way, begun recently at Wimbledon, when she won both singles and doubles finals today in the Essex Country Club third annual invitation tennis tournament here.

In the singles she defeated Miss Helen Jacobs, 18-year-old Berkeley (Cal.) player, 6-1, 6-2, and paired with Mrs. George W. Wightman in the doubles finals, conquered Mrs. William Endicott and Mrs. J. Dallas Cerbiere, 6-2, 6-3.

HELEN WILLS

It took the mistress of the British title only thirty-four minutes to vanquish Miss Jacobs, although the latter on Wednesday had eliminated the national champion, Mrs. Molla Mallory, 6-0, 10-8. This singles contest marked the first time that the two Helens of Berkeley have met on grass courts. Only once before—in 1925, when Miss Jacobs was yet a junior—had the two met, when Miss Wills won, 6-3, 6-1.

Miss Wills, finding herself able to handle with tolerable ease the redoubtable service of her opponent, contented herself with a sound game, as her total of 16 earned points showed in contrast to the 13 for Miss Jacobs. The long rallies which marked many games ended in a total of twenty-seven errors for the British champion as against the forty-five for Miss Jacobs. Occasionally though "Helen the First" showed sheer brilliance, as when in the third game of the match she served three aces.

Miss Jacobs strove to meet the more experienced player in a baseline duel until late in the second set, when the odds were strong against her. She then essayed the forecourt and it proved costly. Backers of Miss Jacobs as a Wightman Cup candidate and for a high national ranking in her first year in the women's division found little in the match to disappoint them. Once or twice the young girl faltered, but for the most part she bravely forced the struggle until beaten back by a superior force.

Miss Wills, by her victory, attained a second leg on the Essex bowl, com-

Tilden Meets Hennessey in Title Play-off

CHICAGO, July 29. (AP)—William T. Tilden II, of Philadelphia, and John Hennessey, Indianapolis, finalists in the national clay-court tennis championships last week, will meet again this time for the Illinois State singles title, Sunday at Skokie Country Club.

Hennessey went to the finals today by soundly trouncing Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., Ryannis, Mass., defending champion, 6-1, 6-4, 6-0. Tilden came from behind to defeat Wray Brown of St. Louis, 3-6, 6-4, 5-7, 6-0, 10-8.

Hennessey's defeat of Chapin, who ranks seventh in the country, was expected, but the decisiveness of the victory was startling. The Hoosier lad was on top of his game and excepting for a brief spurt in the second set when Chapin led, 4-2, the eastern star was never in the match.

Brown's steady chop strokes bothered Tilden considerably and the Mound City star played a cautious, accurate game that was not to Tilden's liking. Brown took the first and third sets and was trailing, 2-5, in the final set when he suddenly knotted the count at 5-5 and then forged ahead to lead, 6-5. Tilden, however, played carefully as only Tilden can, tied the count and then Brown tied it again at 7-7 and again at 8-8.

Tilden was bothered by Brown's carefully placed shots and accurate net game, but "Big Bill" had the final punch, winning at 10-8.

HUNTER TRIUMPHS

NEW YORK, July 29. (AP)—Francis T. Hunter, No. 12 in the national ranking, advanced to the finals round of the metropolitan clay court tennis championship when he defeated Gregory Mangin of Montclair, N. J. today, 7-5, 7-5, 6-4.

ADAMS WHIPS COTTRELL

Johnny Finishes Fast to Cop Verdict Over Rival in Hollywood Legion Main Event

Johnny Adams, the San Bernardino Mountain Lion, as his manager, Tom Jones, would have it, defeated Jimmy Cottrell, claimant of the welterweight title in the northwest, in ten slam-bang rounds of milling at the Hollywood Legion Stadium last night.

Adams wore Cottrell down with his mauling body attack and from the fifth round on piled up a margin that entitled him to Referee Harry Lee's decision.

JOHNNY ADAMS.

There was no knockdowns, but in the second round the rival welters became overly ambitious, or vicious, and wrestled each other to the floor. Lou Daro, the rasslin' promoter, said that neither secured a fall.

Adams's body pummeling, featured by stiff right to the shortribs, began to show on Cottrell in the fifth round and from then on the San Bernardino scrapper was out in front, although Jimmy was always punching away. Adams sent Cottrell to his corner in a woozy condition at the end of the last four rounds, but Jimmy wouldn't go down. Cottrell cut Adams's left eye with a hard right in the eighth, but Johnny opened up with a two-fisted attack that took the play away from Jimmy before he could follow up his advantage.

Bobby La Salle, the rough and tough 142-pounder from Culver City, was awarded a technical knockout victory over Georgie Gordon in the second round of the scheduled six-round semi-wind-up.

Gordon, a southpaw, dropped La Salle with a low blow in the first round but Bobby got up and weathered the session. La Salle opened up on Gordon in the second and soon had Georgie hanging on. A right to the chin floored Gordon for a count of nine, and near the close of the round La Salle had Georgie draped over the ropes in a helpless condition so the bout was stopped and awarded to the Culver City scrapper.

Mateo Magdalino was awarded a

JACK KEARNS ARRIVES---SAYS SHARKEY PROVED "QUITTER"

Labeling Jack Sharkey a "quitter" and Jack Dempsey as through Jack Kearns, erstwhile manager of the ex-champion, returned to this city yesterday and gave his version of the recent Dempsey-Sharkey muss in New York.

Jack Kearns

Kearns says Dempsey has nothing left but his fighting heart, and that the ex-title-holder's actions in the ring would shock his friends.

JACK SHARKEY

Kearns says he will continue to press his suits against Dempsey for money he alleges Dempsey owes him, and denies there will ever be any reconciliation.

Kearns hurried home from the East to be with his mother, who is ill at her Kingsley-street home.

Kearns's middleweight champion, Mickey Walker, tarried at his home in New Jersey, but may come to the Coast if the inducements are right for a fight here. Kearns says Baltimore promoters are talking about a Walker-Joe Dundee battle there this summer.

GIANTS NOSED OUT IN TENTH

Climbing Cards Make Clean Sweep Over Phillies

CHICAGO, July 29. (AP)—Chicago put over a thrilling tenth-inning rally today to subdue the Giants by 5 to 4 before 32,000 fans, the largest weekday crowd of the season. The attendance was boosted by the observance of "ladies' day."

The New Yorkers tied the score in the eighth and took a one-run lead in the tenth, only to have the enraged Bruins push over two tallies in the last half of the inning. Stephenson singled through Reese with the bases full to drive in the deciding run after Adams had dived headlong to the plate with the tying run. Adams bumped into Catcher Cummings so hard that Cummings got a bloody nose and dropped the ball. Cummings had to leave the game.

Stephenson also hit a home run and a double. The Giants used Benton, Henry and Barnes in the box while Root relieved Carlson in the tenth, and was credited with his seventeenth victory of the season. Capt. Grimm of the Cubs was banished from the game for disputing Umpire Quigley's decision on a strike in the ninth. Score:

WANERS SHINE

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) July 29. (AP)—The Pirates continued to hold undisputed sway in the National by staging a timely rally in the ninth today to down Brooklyn by 4 to 3. Trailing by two runs in the last frame, Lloyd Waner led off with a single and after Grantham was retired came home on a double by his brother Paul. On top of that came Traynor's triple, driving in the tying run and Flitt out of the box. Clark replaced Flitt and walked Cuyler and Harris to take a chance on Wright, who lined a hit off the right-field stands to decide the game.

Kremer was lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth and his successor, Dawson, was credited wi a the victory. Score:

CARDS COLLECT

ST. LOUIS, July 29. (AP)—The St. Louis Cards made a clean sweep of the series with Philadelphia, winning today's game, 6 to 3. The Cardinals took the lead in the third inning by scoring four tallies on two singles, a walk and two doubles, after two men were out. In the eighth Schulte tripled, scoring Southworth and Schulte for the other two counts. Haines held Philadelphia to four scattered hits and won his fifteenth victory of the season. Jim Bottomley, who suffered an attack of ptomaine poison yesterday, was back in the Cardinal line-up today. Score:

RABBIT PUNCHES

by PAUL LOWRY

RIGHT in the midst of all this home-town rejoicing about Jack Dempsey's comeback, the Biltmore reception, the Alexandria cup ceremonies, the Breakfast Club banquet and all the nice things said about Jack by Jim Woods, Jack Doyle, John Mott, O. O. McIntyre, Francis Patrick Shanley and other celebrities, comes a disturbing note from a fellow-citizen.

This citizen is not convinced by Dempsey's victory over Sharkey that the ex-champion is a cinch to regain the title he dropped to Tunney last year, and he even goes so far as to say that either Sharkey or George Godfrey would give Tunney a harder fight than the "revamped Manassa Mauler." Our citizen's name is Haig Timourian and he writes as follows:

1025 W. Washington street,
Los Angeles, Cal.
July 29, 1927.

Editor Rabbit Punches,
The Los Angeles Times.

Dear sir: Like Will Rogers, all I know is what I see in the papers. And I read plenty about the wonderful comeback" of Dempsey. Nof, if by Dempsey's "comeback" the sporting writers mean his great improvement in the Sharkey fight as against his off-form showing in Philadelphia last fall, I agree fully with them. But if they mean that this one somewhat shady victory over Sharkey alone establishes Dempsey's successful comeback, or that because of this win Dempsey is a "cinch" to regain the championship crown he lost so ingloriously to Tunney last year, then I certainly disagree with these boxing reviewers.

In line with many other readers of your esteemed sporting section, I believe that Dempsey's so-called comeback will stop short of the crown, and that either Sharkey or Godfrey would give a harder fight to Tunney than the revamped "Manassa Mauler."

Yours truly,
HAIG TIMOURAIN.

The first clash of the Helens on eastern tennis courts was comparatively easy for Helen Wills, but before the season is out there is likely to be a different story to tell. At the present time Helen Jacobs has neither the craft, skill nor experience that comes to one through participation in two national championships and two international championships at Wimbledon to cope with Helen Wills.

It was entirely too much to expect the Berkeley high school lass to defeat the Berkeley university girl at Manchester, Mass., and the fact that she won only two games in two sets is no reflection on her playing, but rather a tribute to the splendid quality of her opponent's game. Helen Jacobs's day is coming, and she will be queen of the courts just as sure as the roll of the breakers.

"If Frank Dennison is responsible for Abe Roth's resignation as a referee, why doesn't Commissioner Seth Strellinger of the Boxing Commission do the only sensible thing and fire him?" asks G. S. "The boxing game certainly needs a referee of Roth's type a whole lot more than it needs Dennison.

"Or, if Dennison was merely acting on Strellinger's orders, why doesn't the latter admit he bungled matters when he told Roth to work the Baker-Hudkins fight and then yanked him at the last minute because the gamblers were betting he would work. You can't stop the gamblers from betting. They'll bet their shirts it will rain tomorrow, even if the weather man predicts the hottest day of the year."

Yankees Get Most Hits But Lose, 6-4; Senators Nab Opener From Detroit in Eleventh, 5 to 4

NEW YORK, July 29. (AP)—Although outhit by the Yankees by 14 to 11, Cleveland defeated New York in the first game of a series here today by 6 to 4, breaking a six straight winning stride of the Hugmen.

Neither Ruth nor Gehrig hit homers though the Babe made three hits in as many trips. Grabowski, Yanks' catcher, split his finger on Luke Sewell's foul tip in the fifth inning and retired in favor of Collins. Hudlin was pounded hard but he tightened in the pinches. Score:

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP)—Washington took the series opener from Detroit today, 6 to 4, in eleven innings, after thrice wresting the lead from the Tigers. With the score tied at 2-2 the teams scored a run each in the tenth and Detroit repeated in the eleventh. The Senators, however, put over two markers after two were out with a walk to McNeily and singles by Tate, Harris and Speaker. Zachary, pitching his second game for the Senators, held Detroit to six hits, but was taken out in the final inning when the first man up tripled. Score:

LES KLAWITER WINS CLUB SQUASH TITLE

Les Klawiter is the new squash-handball singles champion of the Hollywood Athletic Club today as a result of his victory in the tournament finals yesterday. He defeated Sandy Wilson, 21-18, 21-14, in the finals, after winning from Dan Jones, junior national champion, in the semifinals, 13-21, 21-8, 21-11.

Klawiter succeeds to the honor recently relinquished by Bill Holman. It is his third straight tournament victory. He won the last two Wallace MacDonald trophy meets from a choice field.

OPENER TO SOX

PHILADELPHIA, July 29. (AP)—The Chicago White Sox took the opening game of a series with the Philadelphia Athletics today by a score of 6-4. Alphonse Thomas walked four men in the first inning but settled down and held the Athletics to seven scattered hits. The visitors drove Jing Johnson out of the box in the fourth when they scored three runs on a double, two singles and a hit batsman. Score:

RUFFING STARS

BOSTON, July 29. (AP)—Behind Ruffing's six-hit pitching, Boston today won its first game of the season from St. Louis. The score was 8 to 2. The Browns before today had won ten straight from the Red Sox. Ruffing's hitting was as spectacular as his pitching. In the seventh the Sox bunched hits off Crowder for six runs. The feature of the big inning was a triple steal headed by Rothrock. Score:

ROUND BANNER

CHICAGO, July 29. (AP)—Persistent reports out of the East that New York and not Chicago would get the Dempsey-Tunney fight for the world's heavyweight championship in September, kept bobbing up today while Tex Rickard hobnobbed with Chicago bankers and newspaper publishers.

Rickard sent the reports reeling to the ropes with verbal denials, but they kept bouncing back, leaving very much clouded the issue as to where the battle ground ultimately will be.

"It's Chicago's fight, if Chicago wants it," Rickard said.

PRO GOLF TILT AT HILLCREST

Charles Guest, local P.G.A. champ, trailing Harold Sampson, Burlingame professional, 2 down at the half-way mark in the challenge match for the West Coast big-gun title, is all set to head his slender up-State opponent during the final thirty-six holes, to be played at Hillcrest tomorrow. Guest defeated Sampson for the crown last year, and both hard-hitting mentors successfully defended their sectional P.G.A. titles last spring. Sampson clipped par to pick up a two-hole lead over the Castlewood (San Francisco) course last Sunday.

Tex Terrible on Links; Has Wicked Slice

as he has been calling it lately. But, as Mr. Rickard, himself, stated in his maiden speech on the radio the other evening, when he sat down before that there business and got so fuddled up that he forgot what he wanted to say, "he isn't no oration and he didn't come to Chicago to deliver no orator."

WILD MAN

When Mr. Rickard steps upon the business to hit a golf ball and starts to swing at it with the big wooden business, he reminds you of one of those stories that sometimes appear in the papers stating "Crazed farmhand slays wife, maims babe, ends life with scythe." He is a terrible man with a river.

Considering that Mr. Rickard has been written about as much as the long lost Charlie Ross, the Sinister Spell of the Hope Diamond and the man-eating pitcher plants of British East Oogli-Boogli, you may consider this a late time for a piece telling what sort of a man he is and for a fact it is. But these twice-told tales have a proven reliability. You can always find somebody to buy the inside story of the Gang Wars of Name Your City.

Mr. Rickard has told me that he was born in Kansas City and with an eye to the frugal manner in which he brushes his remaining hair over quite a lot of nude territory, I should judge that this occurred when drinking was not only legal but almost compulsory and shooting a social art in those parts. He has also told me that he was reared up, as they say, down in the Panhandle of Texas and left there knowin how to spell some, read some and figger, when his twentieth birthday was a subject for yearning, not sighing. He went up to Alaska and after sifting many tons of gravel through a dishpan with a lot of nail holes in the bottom, it occurred to him that it was much pleasanter and more profitable to be a gambler in one of the settlements than a prospector by the river's brim because the gamblers slept in beds and dined at tables and the prospectors brought the gold in to them anyway. I have read that Mr. Jack Kearns served as bartender in Mr. Rickard's cafe.

The other day on the way out from New York, Mr. Pickard, in reproaching the present tendency of some writers to examine motives and cast aspersions hither and yon, recollected that he was always known as a boosting feller. He said that during the trial of former Senator Lorimer, one of the lawyers did him the honor of describing his gambling place in Alaska, telling the jurors that it was the custom in Rickard's place for house men of boosters to wander around the room watching for tables where the play was lagging, to step in and boost business by playing the house's money against the house.

"I paid them fellers $7 a night just to boost business," he said. "I always believed in boosting."

GETS AHEAD

Inasmuch as Mr. Rickard was on his way to Alaska when he was still a boy and hadn't been inside a school for several years before that, and hasn't been inside a school since, you may wonder where he ever learned enough about finance and corporation affairs to become the organizer of a $7,000,000 business concern in New York and come through with something better than the title of second vice-president in charge of office boys. So do I, because he has never confessed to spending fifteen minutes a day improving his mind in any of those little handy compendiums of concentrated education and yet here he is today, actually convincing the big men of Chicago, men with enough L.L.D.'s and the like of that to spell the name of a Greek statesman, that he's doing a big thing for Chicago in bringing a pair of prize fighters out here to decide something that was decided quite conclusively a year ago. And, if they believe that, I'm nobody to say it isn't so.

One of Mr. Rickard's close friends tells me that he won't offer you a drink if he doesn't want to drink with you or a cigar if he doesn't want to smoke with you. He isn't quarrelsome but he can quarrel back at you and you may judge how well he can quarrel in various mediums of quarrelsome expression from the fact that between the Panhandle of Texas and the sidewalks of New York he has been quarreled with by experts in all styles of chicanery and is now not only the president but the boss of a $7,000,000 corporation.

All this notwithstanding that he flings his double negatives in the face of refinement and goes at a golf ball like an old-style fighter swinging a chair leg.

PIRRONE NITEHAWKS TRIM EAST WHITTIER

Joe Pirrone's Los Angeles Nitehawks won their fifth straight league game last night by downing the East Whittier nine, 10 to 2, in a night baseball struggle on the losers' lot. Dutch Sousa featured for the Nitehawks by hitting two homers and a single, one of the circuit clouts coming with two on. Score:

Nitehawks: Ten runs, fifteen hits, 2 errors.

East Whittier: Two runs 6 hits, 3 errors.

ISHERWOOD CUP TO COME SOUTH

Famous Trophy Will Appear at Santa Barbara

Sir Tom Defends Big Bowl Against Local R's

Plans Started for Hawaii Yacht Race in 1928

Southern California yachtsmen are going to have the opportunity of "lifting" the famous Isherwood Bowl, pride and joy of Pacific-Northwest Corinthians. Staff Commodore Albert Scilland of the Pacific Coast Yachting Association received word from the north yesterday that the trophy would be raced for at Santa Barbara when the Southern California Yachting Association holds its seventh annual regatta two weeks hence.

L. E. (Ted) Geary's Sir Tom of the Seattle Yacht Club holds the trophy at the present time. She has been entered in the regatta and will race against the fastest R-sloops on the western seaboard. The Isherwood Cup rounds out a brilliant list of trophies, which includes the San Diego Lipton trophy and association cups.

From the few glimpses local yachtsmen have had of Commodore Owen P. Churchill's new R-sloop Friendship, she is going to prove a formidable contender for the Isherwood Bowl. The sloop has hardly had time to get her sea legs yet, but her wholesome lines promise plenty of speed.

The local R skippers are going to make a healthy bid for the trophy, and the Sir Tom will have a tough time retaining her hold on the bowl. Sir Tom is strictly a light weather sloop, and much of her success will depend on the breezes.

While the coming regatta holds the limelight in Corinthian affairs, Admiral Soiland is already planning for the 1928 Honolulu race, which is being sponsored by the Newport Harbor Yacht Club. A working committee of three members has been organized with Admiral Soiland as chairman, Henry "Skip" Warren, and Ed Bosbyshell complete the committee. Each yacht club in the Southern California Yachting Association will have one representative.

Admiral Soiland leaves for Europe immediately after the regatta for a two-months' tour of English and Scandinavia yachting centers where deep-sea racing is given considerable attention. From twelve to fifteen entrants are expected in the 1928 race, which would make it the greatest deep-water race ever held.

TRIBE ANNEXES FOURTH IN ROW

open the frame but Brady walked. Hufft hit to Norgren and all hands were safe when the rookie fumbled. Eldred's sacrifice fly to Cox sent Brady to third. Sherlock delivered a single to center that scored Brady with the tying marker. Ellsworth punched a hit over Norgren's head, scoring Hufft, and Sherlock also came home and Ellsworth went to third when Krug let Jahn's throw get by him. Kimmick walked but Ellsworth was run down between third and home on an attempted double steal so that ended the round.

The Angels got their last one in the fourth when Wally Hood reached first on Kimmick's boot and, after two were out, scored all the way from first on Hannah's Texas Leaguer to left center.

Seattle scored again the sixth and seventh and wound up the contest with two more in the ninth that completely put the Cherubs out of the running.

COLIMA MUST BEAT STRONG TO GET CHANCE AT WALKER

Bert Colima will have to defeat Jackie Strong next Tuesday night at the Olympic to get a return fight with Mickey Walker and Colima wants a Walker shot like coffee needs its sugar to be sweet.

The Mexican was the most pleased fighter in the Main-street gymnasium when he learned that promoters were waiting upon Jack Kearns for consideration of the match.

But Kearns isn't talking business for a few days. The Dapper Doctor arrived yesterday to see his mother who has been ill.

Colima predicted a few days ago he would knock out Strong in four rounds. After he heard about the Walker talk he moved the round up to the second or third. But Strong has never been knocked out. In thirty-six battles he himself has scored eighteen kayoes, won thirteen decisions, lost four nods and drew once. His record as a middleweight is as good as the next fellow's.

Billy Uvick is so confident that Strong will upset Colima that he has already asked Matchmaker Wad Wadhams to give him a contract with Leo Lomski, a young man for whom Wadhams is hunting an opponent.

Strong is already down to 158 pounds, although he looks like a big middleweight due to his height.

Herman Auerbach gave an exhibition in a workout yesterday that was worth seeing, too. He slugged with Young Bello for one round, losing a tooth in the encounter. Auerbach, who is a protege of Jack Dempsey, says he will stop Paul DeHate.

They meet in the second ten on the Colima-Strong card. The reason Auerbach wants to look his best is that Dempsey has promised to be at the ringside.

HELEN WILLS WINS

petition for which she had to forego last year because of her convalescence.

The Wills-Wightman combination in the doubles took the first three games in a row. Miss Wills contributed a placement and two aces to the winning of the fifth. Mrs. Wightman's service was broken once, while the victors broke through Mrs. Corbiere twice and Mrs. Endicott once in that set.

In the second set the laurels went with the service through the seventh game. Then the former champion smashed through Mrs. Endicott's service and Helen clinched the match on her own service in the downpour of a thunderstorm.

In the only mixed doubles match played today Miss Margaret Blake of Lenox and Lionel Ogden of Hollywood, Cal., defeated Mrs. F. H. Godfrey and Frank L. Luce of Boston, 6-4, 6-3.

MERMAID STARS SWIM AT ARROWHEAD TODAY

Adeline Whaling, the little San Diego girl who won the Silver Gate Swim in San Diego recently against a field of eighty-seven paddlers, will be among the best swimmers competing in the mile-hi championships at Lake Arrowhead today.

CALLOW IS STILL WITH WASHINGTON

Coach Has Not Received Official Release from Husky Institution

HAVANA, July 29. (AP)—Russell Callow, summer coach for the Havana Yacht Club, stated today that he had received no official communication from the University of Washington (Seattle) notifying him of being relieved of his position as crew coach there, as reported in dispatches from the United States.

"If the report is true," he said, "I will be out of a job and be at liberty to sign with any university that wants me."

He declared he had no plans and would wait official orders from Seattle before making a decision, but at any rate, he would finish the summer season with the Havana club.

SANGOR COMING WEST FOR ZORILLA BATTLE

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) July 29. (Exclusive)—Joey Sangor, accompanied by his brother, Lew Sangor, and Tommy Milton, a middleweight from New York, will leave here next week for Los Angeles, where Sangor fights Santiago Zorilla, August 16.

Sangor came out of his match with Eddie Shea in tip-top shape, and is fighting much better than when he was last in Los Angeles. After the Zorilla match Sangor is anxious to meet Doc Snell again or Bud Taylor, whom he defeated decisively here last November.

ANNUAL "PARADE OF LIGHTS" ON AT NEWPORT TONIGHT

Arrangements have been completed for a three-day boat regatta and water carnival, which starts today in connection with the eighth annual Tournament of Lights to be held on Newport Bay.

The program for the tournament will start this afternoon with the first clash of the interclub star-boat sailing series, and will close Monday with events by the Balboa Island Yacht Club, an organization of junior sailors.

The big parade of lights, which is attracting the attention of the entire Southland, will have an entry list of more than 150 brilliantly lighted boats. The feature annually attracts thousands of spectators to Newport Harbor.

The light parade is scheduled to start at 8 p.m. Staff Commodore J. A. Beek, chairman of the tournament of lights committee of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, has announced the formation of the parade in the turning basin opposite the pavilion at Balboa. From this point the parade of lighted ships will proceed to the Southland Sailing Club at the southern end of Balboa Island, where it will turn and follow the shore of Balboa Island to Collins Island, from which point it will move to the Newport Harbor Yacht Club and return to the starting point.

Tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock the outboard motor-boat racing pilots of the newly organized Newport Harbor Outboard Motor Boat Association will compete over a three-mile course in the Southern California championship series. In the line-up will be Ross McPhee, who won the recent Catalina-to-Newport Beach outboard motor-boat contest; Lieut. Jack Deuel, in Smith Brothers' Coff Drop III, victor in the four-horsepower class, and twenty or more other drivers from various sections of Southern California.

Sunday afternoon will be marked by sailing races. The second clash of the interclub series will bring together twenty-five or more skippers from San Diego, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, Catalina Island, Newport and Balboa.

SEALS COLLECT GAME FROM PORTLAND TEAM

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (AP)—Scoring five runs in the first inning, four in the second and three more in the third, the Seals piled up a commanding total today to carry them through to a 12-to-5 victory over Portland. Ping Bodie, veteran Seal first baseman, had a perfect day at bat with four out of four, while both Jolley and Suhr hit home runs. Score:

"I certainly agree with Nazimova"

Nazimova, brilliant actress, writes:

"The Russian lady—ah, how she delights in the puff of a fragrant cigarette! As a Russian I have tried them all—the cigarettes of Cairo, Paris, London, Madrid—but here in my adopted country, America, I have found my favorite cigarette 'The Lucky Strike.' In addition to its lovely fragrance and wonderful flavor it has no bad effect upon my voice—so even when I go abroad I carry with me my little trunk of Luckies—and enjoy a puff from America."

BARNSDALL OIL PROFITS LOWER

Net Decreases $1,511,135 in Six Months Over 1926

Stockholders Part Off From $2.77 to $1.43 a Share

Effect of Low Prices Shown Despite Output Gain

Net earnings of the Barnsdall Corporation for the six months ended June 30, last, after all charges, including depletion, depreciation and Federal taxes, amounted to $1,647,-982.99, equivalent to $1.43 a share on the 1,148,536 shares of class A and class B stocks outstanding, it was announced yesterday by R. A. Broomfield, vice-president and general manager of the company in Los Angeles.

This is compared with net earnings, after similar charges, in the first six months of 1926 aggregating $3,158,-317.44, and equal to $2.77 a share on the 1,137,561 shares of the two classes of stocks outstanding a year ago. Mr. Broomfield pointed out that the decline in net profits was due to the sharp reduction in the price of crude oil and the greater write-off for depletion and depreciation in the first half of this year.

Gross earnings of the corporation for the six months just passed amounted to $13,716,485.79, as compared with $15,038,311.36 in the corresponding period of last year, a decline of $2,321,275.97. Operating expenses were also reduced from $9,192,-938.42 in the period last year to $7,797,516.98 in the first half of this year.

WRITE-OFF UP

The corporation's write-off for depletion and depreciation was increased by $644,988 from $1,896,-859.27 in the first half of 1926 to $2,541,828.24 in the period of this year. Of this increase approximately $600,000 was in depletion charge-off. The company received $30,491.20 in other income during the first half of this year, as against $62,280.90 in the first half of 1926.

During the six months ended June 30, last, the company produced a total of 4,174,947.5 barrels of crude oil, as against 2,953,236.7 barrels in the first six months of 1926, an increase of 1,221,810.8 barrels. Gas production amounted to 9,482,918,000 cubic feet in the period this year as against 3,486,208,000 cubic feet in the same half of last year. The company also produced 3,004,004,000 gallons of casinghead gasoline in the six months of this year as compared with 4,721,004,000 gallons in the first half of 1926.

OUTPUT HEAVY

Production of the company is now running at about 50,000 barrels daily. Of this, 35,000 barrels represents Seminole area output, 4000 barrels California production and the balance from scattered territory. According to Mr. Broomfield, the company's production in the Seminole area will be increased by approximately 42,000 barrels by August 15, as a large number of new wells, being drilled to meet lease requirements and as offset drilling, will be in by that time.

Barnsdall recently acquired leases on 1500 acres of potential oil lands in the new Goleta field near Santa Barbara. One well on this acreage is now in the sand and is expected in within ten days, Mr. Broomfield stated. Two prospective producers are being held back in the Rosecrans field under an agreement with the lessor.

The company is now operating a total of 2978 producing wells, 105 of which are located in California fields, and holds 74,000 acres of operated leases and 189,000 acres of unoperated leases. New acreage acquired under lease in the first half of this years amounted to 42,910 acres, as against 80,828 acres acquired under lease in the first half of 1926.

Total crude oil storage of the Barnsdall Corporation, as of June 30, last, other than that in transportation and in pipe lines, amounted to 2,360,000 barrels. On June 30, 1926, the company had practically no oil in storage.

Total assets of the corporation on June 30, last, amounted to $71,800,-894.03, as against current liabilities of $3,373,315.29.

Stockholders of the company will meet next month to approve a proposition recently passed by the board of directors to combine the class "A" and class "B" shares of the corporation.

EARNINGS SHADE OFF

NEW YORK, July 29. (AP)—General Railway Signal Company earned $5.26 a share on the common stock in the first half of 1927, after preferred dividends, compared with $5.78 a share in the first half of 1926. Net income declined to $1,789,171, from $1,936,846.

AUTO TRADE RISE AMAZING

Growth of Industry, Showing Investment Greater Than That of Railroads, Marvel of Quarter-Century

BY CARL P. MILLER

Although but a quarter-century in development, the automotive industry has grown to such proportions that the total investment in the industry and its products is now almost equal to the total investment in railroads and their equipment, and if there is included the public investment in hard-surfaced roads, the total investment in highway transportation is considerably in excess of the total railroad investment.

The magnitude of the motor vehicle industry and the extent of its recent growth are graphically shown in a comprehensive study of the relationships now developing between highway and rail transport just completed by the commission on commerce and marine of the American Bankers' Association.

The investment of motor vehicle owners in the 22,336,000 vehicles registered last year is estimated at more than $20,000,000,000, and the investment of railroad locomotives and cars is placed at about $7,000,000,-000. Out of the 3,002,000 miles of public highways in the United States approximately 560,000, or 19 per cent, are now hard-surfaced. This additional public investment of about $9,000,000,000 is almost entirely in the interest of motor vehicles. The investment of railroads in their permanent way, structures, terminals and the like, is now about $17,000,000,-000.

Confining the comparison to equipment and ways, the total investment of the automotive industry is approximately $29,000,000,000, as compared with $24,000,000,000 for the railroad industry. This comparison does not take into account nearly $2,000,-000,000 invested in motor vehicle manufacturing plants nor the large investment in plants devoted to the manufacture of tires and accessories, as the railroad investment does not include the value of plants devoted to the construction of locomotives, cars and other equipment and supplies for railroad purposes.

While the earlier attitude of railroads toward highway competition was antagonistic and obstructive, that attitude has now changed and the leaders in railroad policies are counseling co-ordination instead of conflict. Short-haul freight, notably in small shipments, is rapidly being relinquished to the motor truck. Better service for freight outside the short-haul zone is being instituted, and major roads are inaugurating truck service at terminals and for door-to-door collection and delivery. Motor coaches are also being used as supplementary to passenger trains in well-settled territories or as substitutes for passenger trains on branch lines in rural districts. These processes of co-ordination have just begun.

PROBLEM CONFRONTED

Practically every railroad operating report shows a decreasing number of passengers carried. This decrease is due to the number of local passengers being diverted from railroads to highways. Because the long-distance travelers are not increasing sufficiently in number to offset the deficiency in local service, railroads are confronted with a serious problem, as a minimum passenger service must be run to meet government regulations. The citizen who is not an automobile owner must be provided for.

The present attitude of the railroads is to refrain from pushing their program of abandonments and instead to "fight fire with fire." They are going into the motor coach business themselves, thereby furnishing the public with the new kind of service it seems to prefer, reclaiming a part of their lost traffic and reducing their operating expenses by substituting motor coaches on the highways for the almost empty passenger trains by rail.

As has been the case with railroads, steamship lines and other undertakings of the kind, there is likely to be with motor vehicles a tendency for the many independent operators to combine voluntarily or be forced into consolidated companies. Such a tendency is already in evidence as the number of companies and individuals is growing smaller while the number of vehicles in use is increasing.

BANCITALY AT RECORD HIGH MARK

Bank of Italy Advances 2 1-2 Points to Close at 175; Oil Shares Irregular

Advancing 1-2 of a point to a high and close at 90, equivalent to 126 on the old stock, a new record high for all time, Bancitaly Corporation new shares were again active on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday. Bank of Italy jumped abruptly in the afternoon, adding 2 1-2 points to 175. First National closed firm at 434 and Farmers' and Merchants' National was steady at 450.

Southern California Edison common added a fraction to 35 3-8, and the preferred issues were firm. Los Angeles Gas and Electric preferred again sold at 104, and Pacific Gas and Electric first preferred closed at 32 1-4. Los Angeles Investment lost 1-2 of a point to 2.85. Globe Grain new common was traded in for the first time, selling at 24 3-4.

Oil stocks continued to show weakness. Richfield closed off a fraction to 19 3-8 and Union Oil of California held firm at 42 1-4. Standard Oil of California added a fraction to 33 7-8 and California Petroleum lost 1-4 of a point to 24 1-4. Holly Development added a cent to 1.51.

Big Jim advanced a cent with a good volume to 25 and Boundary Cos-e held firm at 4 1-2. Western Apex declined 2 1-2 cents to 9 1-2 and closed 2 cents net lower at 10. United Eastern lost 1-8 of a point to 42 1-2.

Taxable Values of Kern County Mount Sharply

BAKERSFIELD, July 29.—Showing an increase over 1926 of $3,183,310, Kern county's assessed valuation for 1927 is $186,041,835, according to the rolls of County Assessor Tom Burke, which have just been completed. Kern's assessed valuation for 1926 was $184,858,525.

The increase of more than $3,000,-000 is shown despite a drop amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars in the assessed valuation of non-operative property. In operative property there is an increase over last year of $3,514,990, this year's total assessed valuation in that class being $19,030,560, as compared with $15,-515,570 in 1926.

In nonoperative classification, however, the valuation dropped from $166,842,955 in 1926 to $166,011,275 for 1927.

The County Assessor explains this decrease in numerous ways, however. The county's assessment roll was affected to the extent of millions when the Federal government took away the Doheny oil leases in the Elk Hills, making them nonassessable.

A considerable decrease in the amount of oil held in storage by the major oil companies in Kern county also caused a great portion of the decrease.

QUOTATIONS STABLE ON WOOL MART

Little Change Reported by Survey With Sellers in Strong Position

BOSTON, July 29. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

The wool market is progressing steadily with prices favoring the seller, although quotations are hardly changed for the week. Almost all descriptions are in demand. Western operations are now on a small scale.

The foreign markets are very buoyant and business can be done more readily at firm prices both in England and on the continent.

Interest in the goods market is centering on the opening of staple lightweights by the American Woolen Company on Monday. A slight advance in prices over a year ago is the logical expectation.

Mohair is slightly more active and very firm.

The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from January 1, 1927, to July 28, 1927, inclusive, were 113,564,000 pounds, against 110,914,-000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from January 1, 1927, to July 28, 1927, inclusive, were 236,948,026 pounds against 244,114,-647 pounds for the same period last year.

The Commercial Bulletin will publish the following quotations tomorrow:

Scoured basis—Texas: Fine twelve months selected,) 1.07 to 1.10; fine eight months, 90 to 92.

California: Northern, 1.00 to 1.05; middle county, 92 to 95; southern, 73 to 75.

Raw Materials Chief Item of June Imports

WASHINGTON, July 29. (AP)—Manufactured goods made up the largest item of American exports for June, while raw materials for use in manufacturing was by far the largest item of the country's import trade during the month, Commerce Department figures analyzing foreign trade disclosed today. The comparison between June foreign trade in various categories against the trade for June, 1926, follows:

Exports: Manufactured goods ready for consumption, $161,187,000, against $135,140,000; partly manufactured goods, $62,498,000, against $54,971,-000; foods ready for consumption, $36,358,000, against $34,227,000; raw foodstuffs, $25,207,000, against $21,-086,000; raw materials for use in manufacturing, $63,346,000, against $69,230,000.

Imports: Manufactured goods, $75,-219,000, against $70,847,000; partly manufactured goods, $60,392,000, against $64,679,000; foods ready for consumption, $42,171,000, against $36,025,000; raw foodstuffs, $39,-619,000 against $42,171,000; raw materials for use in manufacturing, $137,747,000, against $122,589,000.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 29. (Exclusive) Trading in cotton was on a considerably reduced scale today, with no particular feature, and fluctuations as a consequence were comparatively narrow. The market did not display any marked weakness at any time, but showed more of a tendency to ease in a gradual manner, with quotations around 2 o'clock disclosing net declines of 8 to 19 points from last night's closing.

Considerable liquidation was in evidence at times, mostly from Wall street and spot interests, and the trade was inclined to buy cotton on the scale down, which held any important declines in check up to the close. The trade was disposed to go somewhat slow in making new commitments, due to the uncertainty over the government's first crop condition report, and indicated yield on August 8, giving condition and probable crop as of August 1.

On the extreme advance October sold at 18.98 cents; December, 19.19; January, 19.27; March, 19.49, and May, 19.63. On the subsequent decline the market was carried to the basis of 18.76 cents for October, December, 19.20, and January 19.10; March, 19.30, and May, 19.48.

The official forecast was for generally showery weather all over the belt tonight and tomorrow, with some scattered rainfall reported overnight in sections of Texas. The weather in the eastern belt, however, was more favorable.

Southern spot markets yesterday were unchanged to 10 points higher. Liverpool futures closed with a net advance of 7 to 8 points on the day, against 8 1-2 to 10 due. Spinners' takings for the week were 274,068 bales, against 222,741 last week, and 215,295 last year on the New York Cotton Exchange figures.

RESERVE BANK SURVEY OUT

July Bulletin of New York District Institution Moderately Optimistic on Trade Trend

BY PAUL WILLARD GARRETT

[Copyright, 1927, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, July 29. (Exclusive)—The flow of retail trade during June continued at a high level, according to the monthly service of the Federal Reserve Bank at New York published today.

Substantial increases in New York and vicinity lifted the total sales of department stores nearly 8 per cent above those for the year previous, although a majority of the reporting stores outside of the metropolitan area did poorer than in July, 1926. An increase of roughly 2 1-2 per cent is shown for the first half of 1927 over the first half of 1926.

Both in the retail reports for June, 1927, and for the first six months of the year increased sales of apparel stores is the outstanding point of interest. Reporting department stores in the first half of 1927 swelled their sales into 2 1-2 per cent above the year before, for example, apparel stores showed a 5 per cent gain.

It is in line with previous reports on inventories that "the value of merchandise stocks carried in several localities has been reduced considerably during the past year, and in all cases the rate of stock turnover was higher in June than a year previous." But it must be remembered that the drop in prices during the past year explains the apparent shrinkage in stocks.

The bank finds that the rate of collections on charge accounts "has been increasing this year and in recent months has been higher than a year ago," although during 1926 the stores were not as successful relatively in making collections as in 1925. Here is an indication of improvement upon which the bank itself does not comment, but on which business prophets will be drawing their own conclusions.

After two years and more of bright reports from the chain stores it is not surprising that this business during June showed further improvement. A 17 per cent increase in chain-store sales is reported for June, 1927, over June, 1926. That represents a spectacular growth, but is not much more than the relative increase shown by chain stores now for a long time. As formerly, the largest increases continued to appear in grocery and variety stores, but substantial gains are recorded for the ten cent and drug stores.

Instead of a 5 per cent gain as shown in the sales of department stores the wholesale houses, according to the bank, showed a 3 per cent decline from the same month last year. Substantial declines were again reported in women's apparel, stationery, diamonds and machine tools.

Buried in the bank's bulletin is the statement that the cotton goods stocks held by jobbers showed a considerable increase, following the heavy mill shipments of recent months. Coming at a time when the flow of cotton goods in the consumption had been considered excellent, the statement is certain to provoke thought.

Altogether it appears that the July bulletin of the Federal Reserve Bank at New York will continue to reflect excellent business conditions and a continuation of the principal forces at work in the present prosperity era.

Espee Launches New Steamer to Augment Fleet

The "Dixie," latest addition to the fleet of the Southern Pacific Steamship lines (Morgan lines,) was launched yesterday at Kearny, N. J., Mrs. Lewis J. Spence, wife of the executive officer of the Southern Pacific Company, acted as sponsor.

The "Dixie" is to be an oil-burning passenger and freight carrier and was designed for Atlantic coastwise service between New York and New Orleans, where connection is made with the Southern Pacific Sunset Route to and from Los Angeles.

When completed the "Dixie" will be one of the most modern and up-to-date types for Atlantic coastwise service and will be capable of making sixteen knots per hour. She will be 445 feet long and of 12,000 tons displacement.

It is expected that the vessel will be ready for service in the coming fall. Her cost is approximately $2,-400,000. The "Dixie" will be commanded by Capt. Charles P. Maxon, at present commander of the "Momus."

Idaho Utility Group Added to Foshay String

Physical properties of Canyon Light and Water Company of Burke, Idaho, and Mullan Light Company of Mullan, Idaho, and the capital stock of the Northwest Light and Water Company of Wallace, Idaho, have been contracted for by W. B. Foshay Company, a Minneapolis organization which manages and controls public utilities through the Public Utilities Consolidated Corporation.

Contracts for the Canyon properties were signed by W. R. Miller and Ellis L. Hale, both of Wallace, and officers of the company. While L. C. Wilson, president, and Ellis L. Hale, secretary, of Mullan Light Company acted for that company. Robert E. Strahorn of Spokane, Wash., signed contract for Northwest Light and Water Company.

Transfer of the properties will be concluded in August of this year, at which time they will be consolidated with the Public Utilities Consolidated Corporation.

Fresno United Oil Files Plea in Bankruptcy

Fresno United Oil Company, with offices in Los Angeles but operating in Fresno county, yesterday filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court here. No schedule of assets and liabilities was filed, but the petition declared that the company is "wholly without money" and so unable to pay the fees of the clerk, referee or trustee. There are some assets, the petition continues, but these cannot readily be sold to pay the fees.

The voluntary petition was filed, it says, pursuant to a resolution of the board of directors voted at a meeting Thursday.

Officers of the company are given as Charles Rudeen, president, H. H. Harriman, secretary, and James E. Veino, J. L. Walter and F. W. Tomlin, directors. The company has ten days in which to file its schedules.

Utility Stock Listings Gain

Confidence of the investing public in the future of public-utility corporations of California is shown by the following figures released by the Los Angeles Stock Exchange.

In 1920 the number of utility issues listed totaled four, having a market value of $33,496,872 on stock outstanding, while on June 30, 1927, this had been increased to nineteen issues with a market value of $997,-[illegible],876.

The number of shares traded in annually increased from 10,979 during 1920, to 617,276 for the first six months of 1927, or at the rate of over 1,200,000 shares for the year. The market value of these shares jumped from $995,121 in 1920 to $13,-116,35[illegible] during the first six months of 1927, which is on a basis of $24,-000,000 for the entire year.

LONDON, July 30. (By Wireless)—The money market was easier today though Lombard street was not generally disposed to attach too much significance to the decline of the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City.

The markets were generally cheerful as a result of the easier money [illegible] yesterday's railway dividends, with hopes of further good reports today.

Oil shares were distinctly better, with London still refusing to believe a big oil war is on the way.

STOCK MARKET PLODS FORWARD

Advance in Call-Money Rate Stimulates Rise

Rally Featured by High-Grade Industrial Issues

Pools Pay Little Attention to Gain in Broker Loans

NEW YORK, July 29. (AP)—Overcoming the resistance created by heavy week-end realizing and aided for both accounts inspired by the marking up of call money rates by the Federal Trade Commission to investigate the money purchase of a large block of United States Steel common stock by Detroit interests, the stock market pushed forward again today under the leadership of the high-grade industrials and rails. Dupont soared more than 10 points to a new record top at 281½, and closed near the top, while dozens of other issues showed net gains of 1 to 7 points.

Pools paid little attention to the increase of $3,319,000 in broker loans, making the total the second largest on record, but found encouragement in the decrease from 6 to 5½ per cent. In the rediscount rate of the Kansas City Federal Reserve Bank there was a sharp division of opinion in Wall street as to whether similar action would be taken by the New York bank in the near future, conservative bankers holding to the theory that no immediate change was likely because of the danger that it would be followed by a further inflation in securities prices.

Call money renewed at 5½ per cent, and then advanced to 6 on loans called about $25,000,000 in order to prepare for the heavy month-end demand for funds. There was no change in time money and commercial paper rates, but bankers' acceptances eased slightly.

United States Steel common was again the leader of the market, running up more than 3 points to 277½, the highest price since the distribution of the stock dividend, and then sold down to 189 3-8. Early buying, associated with a report that the Mellon interests of Pittsburgh had acquired a large block of stock, today's sales in this issue run well over 250,000 shares. Bethlehem also reflected speculative enthusiasm over the failure of the directors to resume dividends, but met with support around 56, closing at the figure for a net loss of 1¼ points. American Steel Foundry touched a new top at 55, up 3½.

Allied Chemical, which also is a large owner of steel common, moved up more than 7 points to a new top at 161. General Motors touched to a new peak, but encountered some offering around that figure and sold down to 136 1-4, up 3-8 net.

Waves of selling swept through the market at intervals, much of it was doubtedly inspired by repeated commission-house suggestions to take profits, on the theory that a substantial reaction was warranted after the recent sharp advance, but this was generally well absorbed. The general mercantile reviews were strictly optimistic. Dun's stated that trade was closing with "more activity in some quarters and with more buoyancy

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, July 29. (AP)—Bonds today commanded slightly higher prices in a somewhat more active market. A stiffening tendency in the call money rate was regarded as natural, in view of month-end requirement for funds, and further easing of acceptance rates had a greater influence on the market's trend. Lowering of the Kansas City Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate revived hope in some quarters that a similar action might follow here, but the impression was more general that no downward revision of the New York rate was likely because of the danger of causing inflation of security and commodity prices.

The investment demand displayed an improved tone, centering chiefly in high-grade rail liens, such as the Chesapeake 5s, Erie refunding 5s and Illinois Central refunding 4s. At the same time there was a revival of interest in semispeculative bonds, especially Erie D 4s, which gained nearly 2 points and sold only a fraction below their low record price. Delaware and Hudson 6 1-2s also were buoyant.

Third-avenue adjustment 5s again featured the utility group, advancing briskly in further reflection of expectation that action will soon be taken regarding interest payments. Brooklyn Union Gas 5 1-2s, which are convertible into common, followed the rise of the stock and touched a new peak of 206.

Among the industrials, Colorado Fuel 5s reflected the favorable outlook in the steel industry by crossing 103 to a new peak.

Bonds of rubber companies were freely offered, but Goodyear 8s were well absorbed. North American Cement 6 1-2s broke a point to a new low for the year.

Trading in the foreign department was well distributed, but prices were rather irregular. Firmness was displayed by French and Italian securities, and Mexican bonds moved forward on announcement that cash warrants are to be paid shortly.

Federal government obligations were quiet, but prices showed a slight tendency upward. Liberty second 4 1-4s changed hands in fair volume with little effect on the price.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite transaction, sales in dollar units are so low, and both low and close unless sales is high.

STOCK MARKET PLODS FORWARD

in commodity prices than appeared when the month opened." Bradstreet's attributes the improvement to "the continuance of warm weather, a slightly improved crop outlook, better buying of cotton goods, and a moderate expansion in steel orders and mill operations."

The steady accumulation of such high-grade carriers as Atchison, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific, all of which reached new peak prices, attracted the most attention in the railroad group. There were signs of further liquidation in the low-priced carriers.

With the exception of slightly higher coffee prices, the principal commodity markets were reactionary. Wheat futures sold down 1 to nearly 3½ cents a bushel on reports of more favorable weather from the Northwest. Cotton options closed 15 to 17 points net lower, with selling inspired more by technical conditions than by weather reports, which appeared to be largely bullish. Raw sugar futures eased slightly on realizing.

Trading in the foreign exchanges was enlivened somewhat by a 15-point jump in Japanese yen to 47.15. Other rates moved within narrow and irregular limits, demand sterling ruling around $4.85 1-4 and French francs just below 3.91½ cents.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—Offerings yesterday consisted mainly of plain cows, common and medium kinds, including quite a few from near-by dairy sections. The steer supply consisted of only odd head of common kinds. Sales made were generally around the steady mark. A few common steers sold from $.60@7.00. Late Thursday a load of medium 1021-pound steers went over for $.15.

The price spread of $.25@6.00 took in the majority of the stock, the latter price taking two loads of medium 965-pound cows held over from Thursday. Odd head and small lots of cows and heifers sold up to 6.50 and better. Cutters turned largely from $.75@4.50, with low cutters from $.50@5.25. The small supply of bulls, mostly medium kinds, cashed from $.50@4.00.

CALVES—A fairly active trade developed for the moderate supply and a good clearance was made at about steady prices, although some weakness developed on the plain kinds of calves on the late trading. A load of 352-pound Californias cashed for $7.75, while odd lots of choice vealers sold around 7.50. Two loads of 347 and 374-pound Arizona calves cashed for 10.00 and 10.40, while plain Arizonas and kinds weighing up to 400 pounds turned for $.75@8.25.

HOGS—Yesterday's supply was cleaned up readily at strong prices. Offerings consisted of four loads of 190 to 200-pound Central Californias butchers at 10.50 and a small lot of 190-pound trucked-in butchers. Odd head of packing sows made 9.00, with a small lot of rough 343-pound Californias at 8.40.

SHEEP—Offerings consisted of about three decks of mixed spad and yearling bucks from the inland, all shorn, that arrived late Thursday. About two decks of bucks and wethers out of the same shipment sold late Thursday. The yearling wethers averaging 80 pounds realized 8.00, with the spad wethers averaging 105 pounds at 7.00 and the bucks averaging 105 pounds at 3.00. Yesterday's sales included half a deck of 92-pound bucks at 3.75. No other sales were made up to a late hour. Medium to choice lambs were quoted from 11.00@13.00, with medium to choice wooled ewes from 5.25@6.75.

Grain Futures Point Down on Bearish Ma

CHICAGO, July 29. Slumping and lower prices were in order in the Chicago grain pits today, the buying support fair at times but not rather low in other deals. A feeling developed and the finish was at the lowest of the day, and also of the season. The present downturn is by no means the first in wheat of 1926-27, with the season in Liverpool was off 6 cents. wheat markets were weak, with July 2½ lower, July basis 1½ and Kansas City 1½@1½ lower. deliveries of 1,545,000 bushels of the July contract in Chicago, which, on delivery on the four previous days, conditions of bearishness and depressed it 1.30@1.30½, with the finish at 1.30 At the close July had only 1c premium the September. Domestic demand of 1.40½.

Cash demand for wheat was by most receipts no larger for a fair amount of it. Primarists were in terms of a small sale, and there was a limited demand for portions, with reports of sales at Minneapolis smallest premium of the season. Australian shipments were liberal and exports only 4,768,000 bushels for the week.

Black rust reports were to the effect that some territory as of late, and with rust been a little damage, the trade is of opinion that it has been sufficient notice of Minnesota, where it is slight. Black rust is a market factor, and it will help early buying orders, rendering it rather bullish later.

Canadian weather conditions were favorable and advices from that country were optimistic as regards crops.

There were good rains over the winter belt States, which helped the crops. Trade, combined with realizing and hedge sales, as well as the weakness in stocks, overcoming influences, the corn market giving a better support at first part of the wheat. Long July and September contracts freely. Commission house liquidation, buyers of late and sold September and December, and early in the day new December. The spread between these two early was 1½ and later 1¾. July sold freely and closed at 1.31½, or 1½c under conditions of bearishness and depressed 1.30@1.30½, with the finish at 1.30 At the close July had only 1c premium the September. Domestic futures of 1.40¾.

HIGHLAND ASSESSMENT AREA FIXED

Map Approved Dividing Estimated $1,427,000 Cost for Widening Avenue

The widening of Highland avenue to 100 feet from Cahuenga avenue to Santa Monica Boulevard, was advanced yesterday when the City Council's Street Opening and Widening Committee approved of the map of the district to be assessed for the improvement. It is estimated that the widening will cost $1,427,000. It was recommended in the Major Traffic Street Plan adopted by the voters.

The committee recommended that because of the general public benefit resulting from the widening of this street which handled Cahuenga Pass traffic, the city should pay 15 per cent of the cost of the improvement from Major Traffic general funds.

The recommendation was also made that the county be asked for a contribution toward the improvement.

Obsequies for H.F. Arnold, Jr., Set for Monday

Services for the late Harry F. Arnold Jr., who died Thursday morning, are to be conducted from the chapel of Reed Brothers, Inc., 721 West Washington street, at 10:30 a.m. Monday. Interment is to be in Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Mr. Arnold had been associated with Earle C. Anthony, Inc., for some time, coming here from Denver, Colo. He was born in Paris, Tex., in 1892. His parents still reside in Texas. A brother, Eugene Arnold of Denver, the wife and son, Harry, 9, also survive.

FRIEDLANDER FINED

Commissioner Says He Forgot And Smoked in National Forest

SAN BERNARDINO, July 29. (Exclusive)—J. M. Friedlander, State Corporation Commissioner, was fined $50 here yesterday by Justice George W. Holbrook for violation of the anti-smoking law prohibiting smoking in a national forest. Friedlander was stopped on the Arrowhead Road at Waterman Canyon by Jack Moore, forest guard, and arrested.

Mr. Friedlander said last night that it was just a case of forgetfulness on his part. He said he had been smoking a cigar on his way up to visit his boy at camp and had not noticed his entrance into the National Forest.

THE INVESTOR

Expert Gives Lists, Tests for Investor to Apply in Buying Securities.

BY WILLIAM RUSSELL WHITE

(Copyright, 1927, by New York Evening Post, Inc.)

NEW YORK, July 29.—What are the principal tests applied by experts in examining securities submitted to them for purchase? A study of the important questions asked by a banker may assist the inexperienced investor in forming a basis for judgment of offerings.

Joseph R. Nutt, president of the Union Trust Company, Cleveland, has formulated a list of questions an expert analyst would want answered before reaching a decision. In an article for the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce he described the changes that have taken place in investment procedure, and says:

"It is a matter of amazement that investors of the last decade did not meet with even more severe financial disasters than proved to be the case. If any profited by their investments, it was largely because the general trend of business has been in the direction of prosperity, and very little because of any exceptionally wise judgment upon the part of the investors themselves."

Capability of management and the outlook for earnings are emphasized in the expert's search, Mr. Nutt says, declaring that no other item is so important as that of management. His list of questions follow:

"What is the corporation's earning record?

"Have the earnings been analyzed? (The company may report bet earnings amounting to several times its interest charges, but investigation may show that insufficient allowance has been made for maintenance and depreciation.)

"What is the company's financial condition?

"How much of assets are inventory?

"Have the company's books been audited? (Failure to make adequate provision for doubtful accounts, accrued taxes, or inventory losses may make company appear more prosperous than it really is.)

"What is the character of the company's business? (This must be investigated from the standpoint of stability, competition and standing.)

"How well is the company managed? (No other item is of greater importance than this.)

"Have all necessary legal precautions been taken?

"Is there a guarantee of principal and interest? (You must be satisfied that the guarantee is really binding and enforceable.)

"What is the purpose of the issue? (If the borrowing is for unnecessary expansion, speculation or any other improper purpose, a bond issue should not be approved.)

"Will the borrowing purpose be fulfilled? (For example: If the bonds are for repaying current indebtedness, the amount should be sufficient to put the company in a comfortable cash position, so that there will be no necessity for immediately borrowing again.)

"Are future bond issues restricted?

"Can the company redeem its bonds before maturity?

"Is a sinking fund necessary?

"What are the bonds' provisions regarding taxation?

"Is the property free from liens?

"Is the income return in keeping with general market conditions?"

Mr. Nutt's experience as a banker has led him to believe the average man now is an investor in securities of one kind or another.

Many years ago, he says, investors were classified in three groups — a small number of professional men of finance, a larger group who placed savings in enterprises in their own locality that they could personally watch and the general public, who invested little or nothing.

His list of questions, Mr. Nutt says, "gives some idea of the scope of investigation which the bank's investment expert would consider necessary before purchasing a bond for the bank. If this is necessary in the case of a bank, how much more necessary is it in the case of the ordinary investor? How is the average investor going to be able to make this investigation before making an investment? The answer is very simple. He cannot. Investing has become a profession, such as science, medicine or law. You should take your investment problem to an investment man — the Better Business Bureau, your investment house or your bank."

WALL STREET PARAGRAPHS

(Copyright, 1927, New York Evening Post, Inc.)

NEW YORK, July 29.—The action of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City in reducing its rediscount rate from 4 to 3½ per cent for duration of crop movements, and the gradual decline in money rates to the point where a spread of 5-8 of 1 per cent under the 4 per cent rediscount charge here has developed in ninety-day bills, have revived discussion of a possible cut in the New York rate at an early date. Bankers were disinclined to make predictions because they have failed in the past to forecast policies of the Federal Reserve bank officials. Some consideration unknown to the financial community, it was pointed out, may have influenced continuation of the 4 per cent rate in the face of a lowering of money rates. Wall street has believed, however, the chief reason for not acting was a fear of stimulating speculative excesses.

Steel Purchases Explained

Explanations of the purchase by E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co. of 114,000 shares of United States Steel common stock continued to reach the street today. The latest version, though failing to support the fanciful theory of a gigantic industrial alliance, gained credence in responsible quarters. This explanation was that the stock was bought only as an investment for surplus funds of the Du Pont company. Steel was selected as offering better than an ordinary return with good prospects of advancement. Representation on the board will not be sought for the time being, it was said, and the possibility Pierre S. Du Pont would succeed Elbert H. Gary as Steel's chairman was regarded as exceedingly remote.

New Issues Dwindle in July

One result of the glut of new bond offerings in anticipation of the 1st inst. reinvestment demand was the slackening in capital flotations this month. The volume of new issues for July was the smallest for any month since last August, according to a compilation made today. The week's total rose to above $65,000,000 from slightly more than $75,000,000 last week and was slightly below the total of about $80,000,000 for the corresponding week last year.

COMA VICTIM SITS UP

Mrs. Drummond at Turning Point, Says Doctor

Mrs. Clara Drummond, 21-year-old Fresno coma victim, reached a turning point in her "sleep," which has lasted for more than three months, when she sat up in a chair yesterday for nearly an hour, according to a report issued by Dr. William J. Peacock, chiropractor, who is treating her.

From now on, according to Dr. Peacock, his patient will sit up every day and the length of time will be gradually increased. He stated that her strength is returning, she is gaining weight, recognizes persons and her surroundings and eats three meals a day of fruits and cereals. She has not talked yet, he reported.

LYCEUM LIST PREPARED

The Museum Lyceum Bureau of the Los Angeles Museum has just compiled a list of resident artists available for the season of 1927-28. It is ready for distribution to clubs and other organizations interested in obtaining talent for programs during the coming season. The bureau was organized by the museum a year ago with the idea of providing competent lecturers on timely subjects of general and particular interest and well-known musical artists for all occasions.

MRS. M'PHERSON CALLS MEETING TO SPEED PLANS

May Keep Part Temple Control; Mrs. Kennedy Lays Trouble to Kidnaping Story Doubt

Aimee Semple McPherson last night called a special meeting of Angelus Temple members officially to announce them that she soon will vacate her position as pastor of the church and will take her work into the open evangelical field. Mrs. McPherson, at the same time, submitted a plan to the congregation whereby she will continue to interest herself in the temple work and lend a guiding hand to it from eastern and all world fields.

During the meeting Mrs. McPherson intimated that she will leave Los Angeles to do permanent field evangelistic work, as soon as she has completed arrangements for a group of Temple pastors, and ironed out certain difficulties.

Mrs. McPherson won't let me completely go, protested, insisting that I remain as Angelus Temple pastor, but they are reconciled to my going upon a work that is my real love," the evangelist said.

CROWDS ASKED

Before the meeting began it was announced that forty-two branch churches of the temple had sent a delegate to the meeting to demand a reconciliation between the evangelist and her mother over the present legal row raging at the temple doorsteps, however, failed to materialize and Mrs. McPherson in her letters that all differences between herself and her mother would be settled by themselves, the temple leaders' statement will not be aired in a court of law.

Mrs. McPherson will have agreed, she said, to the wishes of the evangelistic field, which expressed that she remain at the helm a promise she had made hundreds of Bible students yearly at the Institute.

"I promised my students I would go into the field and new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, as my age for them," she said, "but I must do. Also there is a demand for the word of God throughout America as there has never been before, and I am being called on all sides by our many times, that we cannot refuse to all corners of the earth."

Mrs. McPherson's statement at no time in her more than half an hour meeting was her mother by name, although her mother was easily interpreted. Many had come to talk with a prayer that they might be guided right in her decision. She then launched upon a discussion of the situation since the time she mysteriously kidnaped.

She stated that her story of abduction was true and declared she and her co-workers believed implicitly in the statement brought hearty applause from those assembled.

Finally, Mrs. McPherson announced that she still felt like facing the charges of kidnaping and perjury, and that her decision was definitely decided upon her part.

How she did she refer to her mother. She said:

"On its medicinal use. And for years Europeans and Americans have sent weekly parties to Mexico to drink Agamel. Results are historical.

Now a trip to Mexico is unnecessary. Agamel, delicious syrup concentrate of Maguey sap, has world-wide use. It does not spoil like fresh sap. It is concentrated with all vital elements found in sap, absolutely unchanged except for removal of water, without cooking or added. Non-alcoholic.

CHAMBER TO SEND ENVOY OVER WEST

Santa Barbaran Named Trade Commissioner to Advertise This County

As a part of its campaign to bring more business to Los Angeles county manufacturers and distributors, Secretary A. G. Arnoll of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday that E. F. MacDonough, secretary of the Santa Barbara Chamber of Commerce, had been appointed domestic trade commissioner.

E. F. MACDONOUGH

Under the direction of Seward C. Simons, manager of the domestic trade department, Mr. MacDonough will visit the eleven Western States acquainting the buyers there with the opportunities for doing business with Los Angeles county concerns and bringing back first-hand reports of conditions and trade opportunities.

Mr. MacDonough has an enviable record in chamber of commerce and business work. For the last five years he has been secretary at Santa Barbara where he has had an important part in the reconstruction period of that city and where largely through his efforts a chamber of commerce building has been built which is self-sustaining.

For the first month of his work here Mr. MacDonough will spend his time getting in touch with the situation in Los Angeles county.

Angeleno Gets Rail Promotion

L. R. Everett has been appointed assistant general passenger agent of the Santa Fe at San Francisco, succeeding J. F. Moses who resigned, according to an announcement yesterday by James R. Duffy, general passenger agent of the Coast lines. Everett will assume his new duties Monday.

L. R. EVERETT.

The new official is not a stranger in the San Francisco territory, having formerly held the position of city passenger agent there. He received his education in Los Angeles, entering the Santa Fe service in 1901 as rate clerk in the local freight offices. G. E. Harrison is to take over the office of freight and passenger agent at San Bernardino, left vacant by Everett.

HIGHER FLOOD DAM SEEN

Order Recheck of San Gabriel Project to Permit "Modifications"

The Board of Supervisors, facing two actions in court to compel them to build a "high dam" for flood control in the San Gabriel Canyon, are expected to at least a "higher dam," it was indicated yesterday when a motion under directing the flood control board of consulting engineers to submit the official "low dam" plans and to recommend "such changes as may seem necessary."

This, together with further instructions commanding the engineers to check all new cost estimates with extreme care, evidenced that the Supervisors have in mind to construct a dam as high as funds at their disposal will permit—that is to say, about $25,000,000.

Bids for the low-dam project showed that it could be built for $20,500,000, or thereabout, which would leave the board with a balance of $4,500,000 out of the $25,000,000 bonds voted for the dam by the electors in 1924. There is pending before the Superior Court a suit for an injunction forbidding the building of the low dam and before the Appellate Court an order to show cause why the Supervisors should not be ordered to build a high dam. Both proceedings are based largely on the contention that the low-dam bids prove the bond issue will cover the cost of a high dam.

Supervisor Graves alone stood out against the compromise tendency yesterday. He voted "no" on the resolutions. Supervisors Beaty and Bean, who recently have stood with Graves on the low-dam side, voted "yes" but said it did not mean they favored the high dam. Supervisors Wright and McClellan voted "yes" and said nothing.

STERLING QUALITIES CONTEST INNOVATION

Miss Mildred Hilkey

POPULARITY WINNER ON VISIT HERE

Bay City Girl Distinguished in Salvation Army Vote Lauded by Hotel Chief.

As the result of being chosen the most popular business girl at the Evangeline Hotel, managed by the Salvation Army in San Francisco, Miss Mildred Hilkey is enjoying a free vacation in Los Angeles as a guest at the local Evangeline Hotel.

Commandant Nungesser, in charge of the Evangeline here, as arranged trips to Catalina Island, Hollywood Bowl, Pilgrimage Play and sight-seeing tours to the beaches, and Miss Hilkey will go back to the northern city a good Los Angeles booster.

Miss Hilkey, selected by her own associates from 400 girls at the hotel in San Francisco as the most representative business girl for ability, personality and popularity, is a secretary in a large San Francisco law firm, and is taking an evening law course to become an attorney. "She is a fine type of modern young woman," says Commandant Nungesser, "standing for the highest standards in the business world, and believes it is every girl's duty to be a conscientious, valuable worker if she enters the business field. Attractive and thoroughly up-to-date, she is nevertheless serious minded and shows the determination to succeed in her chosen profession.

"The army hotels are by no means charitable institutions, but fine modern hotels, managed by the organization, for business girls, giving protection to girls alone in the world.

"There are 900 young business women at the local Evangeline Hotel, wholesome, clever girls, earning their way in the world and belying the much-harped-on theory that the younger generation has lost its balance.

"Miss Hilkey is indeed a credit to the youth of today and representative of the groups who live at the army hotels."

GASOLINE SELLS FOR CENT MORE

City Retail Price Rises to Twenty and One-half Cents Under Higher State Tax

Gasoline advanced 1 cent in price yesterday when the State tax increase from 2 to 3 cents went into effect, and now is retailing for 20 1-2 cents throughout the city. A similar increase was made throughout the State.

Among the oil companies whose gasoline now sells at the higher price are Standard Oil Company of California, Shell-Union, Union Oil Company of California, Richfield Oil Company, Associated Oil Company, California Petroleum Corporation of California, Pan American Petroleum Company and General Petroleum Corporation of California.

Based on sales figures for the first six months of 1927, when the six leading oil companies reported sales of 430,971,850 gallons of gasoline, the new increase will net the State more than $4,000,000 in taxes from these companies alone during the rest of the year if the same sales ratio continues.

STUDIO EMPLOYEES GIVE WIDOW PURSE

With the list headed by Jesse Lasky and many prominent film stars, employees of the Paramount-Famous-Lasky studio yesterday subscribed in the neighborhood of $800 for the mother and widow of Frank West, property man, who died Thursday from injuries he received in an automobile accident. West was returning from location at Big Pine on the Los Angeles Aqueduct when his car turned over. He was the sole support for his mother and widow.

BUILDING BEGUN FOR GOODRICH

Rubber Company's Plant Gets Under Way

Greater Los Angeles Seen as Result of Enterprise

Completion to Supply Jobs for 1500 Workers

A greater Los Angeles which some day will extend from Santa Barbara to the Mexican border if it maintains its present rate of development was predicted by Mayor Cryer, principal speaker at the breaking of ground yesterday afternoon for the new $4,000,000 Pacific plant of the Goodrich Rubber Company. Shortly afterward the Mayor climbed aboard a waiting steam shovel and pulled the lever which marked the first step toward actual construction of the new industry's home.

Daniel F. McGarry, president of the Chamber of Commerce, acted as master of ceremonies and delivered a brief address in which he welcomed officials of the rubber company to what he characterizes as the coming greatest city in the world. He pointed out that the decision of the company to establish a plant here is proof that native confidence in the future of Los Angeles is shared by the greatest industrial leaders of the United States.

OFFICIALS ATTEND

Officials of the Goodrich company who took part in the ceremonies were C. B. Raymond, vice-president; Sam B. Robertson, director of engineering, and F. L. Hockensmith, Los Angeles branch manager. All were introduced by McGarry and Robertson made a short talk, expressing unbounded faith in the industrial future of the city.

"Our company," he said, "wishes to become a part of industrial Los Angeles in the fullest sense of the word. To that end we are going to award every contract, so far as is possible, to Los Angeles firms for the construction of our new plant and we expect to employ men and women of this community when we are ready to begin operation. This, we believe will be about the first of March. Los Angeles is destined to become one of the greatest industrial centers of the United States, if not the whole world, and we certainly appreciate the welcome you have extended to us."

Other speakers on the program were R. B. Robertson, assistant traffic manager of the Union Pacific Railroad Company; Fred T. Beatty of the County Board of Supervisors; C. B. Raymond, vice-president of the Goodrich Company; W. T. Hasel, president of Belvedere Gardens Chamber of Commerce, and R. D. Saugster and A. G. Arnoll of the Los Angeles chamber.

The contract for the engineering work has been awarded to the Foundation Company of America, which was represented at the ground-breaking by W. M. Steele of New York, vice-president and general manager, Martin Schacht, West Coast manager; W. J. O'Neil, superintendent, and R. I. Holt, resident manager.

LOCAL FIRMS FAVORED

Robertson announced that the California McClintock-Marshall Company has been awarded the contract for the steel to be used in the building; that for the grading and excavating to the Los Angeles Excavating Company, and the track work to the Stranahan Company. Other contract awards will be announced within a week, he said.

The main building, according to Robertson, is to be of California Mission architecture, 900 by 240 feet in dimensions, and the surrounding grounds are to be artistically landscaped in such a manner as to present a very ornate appearance. The buildings and equipment, he estimated, will cost in excess of $3,000,000 which, added to the cost of the site, will bring the total close to the $4,000,000 mark.

Officials of the company said the plant will employ approximately 1500 persons when it starts operation on or about March 1, 1928.

APARTMENTS OPEN TONIGHT

Postponed from last week, formal opening of the new $275,000 Kenmore-Clinton Apartments has been set for tonight, according to announcement yesterday. The five-story structure, containing forty-eight apartments, is at Kenmore and Clinton avenues, in the Wilshire district. It is owned and will be operated by the Orange County Investment Corporation, which owns several other apartment buildings in Los Angeles.

RAIL CHIEF NOW HEALTH BOARD HEAD

D. W. Pontius to Succeed Creamer Who Resigns to Accept State Post

Election of D. W. Pontius, vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Electric Railway, to the presidency of the board of commissioners, City Health Department, took place at the meeting of the board last night. Mr. Pontius is to succeed Michael Creamer, former president, who has resigned to accept an important post with the State Board of Health. The local railway executive had previously served a two-year term as commissioner of the board.

D. W. PONTIUS.

One of the busiest of local corporation heads, Mr. Pontius has long been active in local development and civic affairs. Since the organization of the Los Angeles Traffic Commission he has been untiring in furthering projects of traffic relief and is now a director of that body. The Mission Playhouse was brought into being in no small part through the efforts of Mr. Pontius, who is now executive vice-president of the governoring body. Chairman of the transportation group on major disasters, Chamber of Commerce, is another civic activity of Mr. Pontius.

Belle Bennett's Son to be Wed This Morning

Theodore Bennett Macy had the foresight to procure his marriage license in time, so he and Ruth Donahue will be married at dawn this morning in the garden of the Hollywood hillside home of his mother, Miss Belle Bennett, actress.

David Upright, son of the authoress, will sing, "O, Promise Me," and Judge Carlos Hardy will perform the ceremony. The groom's best man will be Billy Bakewell, the boy who played the role of Miss Bennett's son in "Mother," the picture which followed her far-famed "Stella Dallas."

Miss Bennett is Mrs. Fred Windermere in private life, her husband being a motion-picture director. It was just prior to making the picture "Stella Dallas," that Miss Bennett's younger son died. The son whose wedding is being celebrated today was adopted when quite young.

STREET-CAR VICTIM SERIOUSLY INJURED

ROLLS-ROYCE GIFT TO BENNETT DISCLOSED

Tales of expensive birthday gifts bought for Jack Bennett, so-called "bright boy" in the manipulation of Julian Petroleum Corporation stock, and auditor's figures for huge bank accounts were detailed to the grand jury during its investigation of the stock debacle, according to the official transcript.

LEWIS REVEALS JULIAN COUPS

Six Million Profit for Two Concerns Asserted

Collaboration With Bennett in Deals Charged

Plans to Give Evidence to Receivers Announced

In an attempt to show that two of the city's leading brokerage houses profited to the extent of about $6,000,000 in the Julian Oil Corporation debacle through under-cover collaboration with Jack Bennett, S. C. Lewis, resigned and indicted head of the corporation, yesterday announced he would place evidence of same in the hands of the Julian receivers for action.

Brokers' confirmation blanks and other records definitely establishing the relation of the two brokerage concerns with Bennett in a wholesale plundering of the Julian corporation are in his possession, Lewis stated. The entire batch of records and documents, he said, is being sorted and classified and will be laid before Joseph Scott and H. L. Carnahan, receivers, for any action they may see fit to take.

The records show, he stated, that repeatedly, in periods of a relatively few days, the two brokerage concerns handled more stock than the entire authorized issue in Julian Petroleum and that not a cent of the proceeds ever reached the coffers of the corporation.

HUGE PROFIT ASSERTED

Out of their operations, Lewis declared, the two houses netted some $6,000,000 before the final crash of the corporation. The remainder of the huge sums realized went to Bennett for use in his pool loans.

The stock was bought by the two houses under the market, Lewis added, and was usually bought in the names of employees of the two concerns. It was sold directly on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange or to individual customers, he asserted.

Their operations, he said, extended over some eight or nine months and on three different occasions the two concerns, acting in collusion with Bennett, sold more than the authorized issue of Julian stock.

As the latest peep into the frenzied operations which brought about the Julian crash was being offered by Lewis, the two receivers yesterday announced that the usury suits against three of the chief pool operators would be held in abeyance for the time being.

They disclosed that the men named in the suits have come forward and opened negotiations looking toward a settlement of the cases without a court trial. The actions are prepared and ready for filing, it was stated by A. G. Ritter, one of the attorneys for the receivers, but they will be withheld pending the outcome of the negotiations. The suits contemplated are for a total of nearly $4,000,000.

LICKLEY COMPLAINTS

Physical difficulties in the work of preparing the large number of complaints also prevented City Prosecutor Lickley yesterday from filing his fifteen misdemeanor usury complaints against the smaller fry, who are asserted to have accepted usurious interest on their loans. These complaints, Dr. Lickley said, probably will be filed today or Monday, as soon as they are completed.

In the meantime, the District Attorney's office was seeking further verification of the report that Bennett is in New York, and announced that it will move to extradite him immediately he is apprehended.

A. Swanson, indicted fugitive secretary of the Julian outfit, and key man for Lewis in the East, also was reported to be in New York and prepared to surrender himself to the proper authorities. Definite word was being awaited by the District Attorney's office from New York before moving toward extradition of these two key men in the Julian collapse.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

NO ONE need worry about Aimee McPherson.

All that she needs to dread is boredom. As a matter of fact, this kick-up among her followers is probably due more to the reaction following their six months of melodrama than anything else.

Aimee is like the ancient Norse chieftains. She rules only as long as she can wield the sword.

STAMP-COLLECTING KINGS

Lucky the rulers who do not really have to rule.

For instance, the King of England and the grand and illustrious high cockaloruns of Egypt, who have been entertaining each other in London.

Like two little boys, they gave each other a good feed and then compared stamp collections.

Meanwhile their two hard-worked premiers got together behind the barn and fixed up the political problems.

WEAK KNEES

Intellectual cowardice never was shown more plainly than in the backwash of this Dempsey prize fight.

Everybody hedged.

"As it seemed to me . . ."

"As I saw it . . ."

Even the doctor who examined Sharkey after the fight said he might have been fouled—and then he might not.

This savant must be a blood brother of the local scientist who examined Tommy O'Brien before a fight and didn't discover that he was suffering from ptomaine poisoning.

A BOLD PROPHET

A gentleman after my own heart was a baseball writer named Hugh Fullerton.

At the beginning of each season he made bold predictions in which he named the winner of each league and the number of hits that each pitcher would suffer when it came to the world series. He usually was wrong, but anyhow he didn't sit on the fence.

SAFE! BUH!

Gen. Summerall must be kidding us a little, or maybe it is the summer heat—always severe in Washington at this time of year.

Of course these airplane flights do not make the defenses of Hawaii secure. In spite of the "great flights of aircraft from the Pacific Coast" that he talks about.

In the event of war on the Pacific aircraft will have a certain part to play; and it is comforting to know that they can get there when wanted. But they will not make Hawaii safe. Nothing will.

CHAMPION BAL COOK

I have heard of bad cooks, but the one on the schooner Kingsway, of melodramatic fame, eclipses all previous records.

His cooking was so bad that the crew mutinied and insisted upon the murderer in irons being turned loose again in the galley. They preferred possible death from his deadly razor to any more amateur coffee.

A WOMAN HOODOO

Incidentally, the old traditions of the sea seem to have survived the advent of steamers, radios and wire ropes. A woman on board a sailing ship still seems to be a hoodoo, as the one on the Kingsway showed.

MANY IN BATHING CONTEST

More than 200 girls will participate in the Rose Room Bathing Beauty Contest next Thursday and Friday evenings at the Rose Room, Eighth and Spring streets. The preliminary contest will be conducted Thursday evening with the finals on Friday.

GIRLS EXPOSED TO EDUCATION HIDE SKIN FROM OBSERVATION

Stockingless days are over for the girls attending summer session at Hollywood High School, according to an edict just issued by Louis J. Foley, principal of the summer session.

During the recent hot weather and in fact ever since the summer school opened, girls imbibing education during the vacation period have reveled in the coolness and comfort of stockingless legs. Mothers have not all approved but have submitted gracefully because told that "all of the girls are going without stockings." Besides the fad is certainly a money saver.

So much do legs without stockings resemble legs clad in sheer hose that none of the teachers noticed the uncovered extremities until one of the instructors happened to walk back of a girl who complacently wore her own legs very much in evidence.

Immediately the matter was taken up at a faculty meeting and argued pro and con. Some of the instructors saw no difference between exhibiting arms and legs but those against the stockingless legs outnumbered the "fers," so the edict went forth not only that stockings must be worn but that any girl appearing on the campus without hose would lose all credits made so far and be refused the right to finish the summer course.

Fortunately one of the young ladies learned of the ultimatum and started a telephone campaign that kept many wires sizzling to "spread the alarm" so that Hollywood girls would come to no harm. The result was that the next morning when school opened all of the young ladies were clothed from top to toe. They took the order pleasantly for Mr. Foley is a favorite with both girls and boys at Hollywood High as evidenced by the fact that the 1927 issue of the Poinsettia, the school annual, was dedicated to him with the following tribute:

"To Mr. Louis F. Foley:

"A man whose courageous squareness and powerful effort have been a mighty factor in every forward movement at Hollywood High."

So the girls have taken their medicine, even though it is a bit bitter and have again swathed their legs in silk. Even high school girls never wear cotton or lisle, which were popular with their mothers in their girlhood.

"Theirs not to reason why,
Theirs but to do and 'sigh.'"

After school hours stockings are discarded in record time when the students reach home, and on the boulevards and in the theaters one sees uncled legs by the hundred, society girls and motion-picture actresses having adopted the fad which means more comfort and less expense.

JAIL CLOSED TO BONDSMEN

Police Commission Joins Cappers and Fixers War; Three More Under Arrest

While scores of complaints from persons declaring they have been victimized by bail bond "cappers" and "fixers" were pouring into the District Attorney's office and were being placed under investigation, the Police Commission yesterday joined in the war on the brokers by refusing professional bondsmen entry to the City Jail, except "on the specific and uninfluenced request of person under arrest."

As the investigation moved forward rapidly in the District Attorney's office and in the Municipal Courts, with more than a promise of startling disclosures when the grand jury resumes its investigation of the scandal, three new arrests of bail bondsmen and asserted "cappers" for attorneys on charges of vagrancy were made yesterday at the Hall of Justice.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Murray announced he will be ready Monday to go before the grand jury again with further and more complete evidence in the bail bond and capper scandal with the intention of obtaining indictments against ten or more men.

HIGHER-UPS SOUGHT

The complaints which have reached Mr. Murray since the investigation opened involve several semiprominent attorneys, some of the so-called "higher-ups" or "backers" in the bail-bond business and three or four law-enforcement officers who have openly bilked defendants with whom they have had contact.

"This investigation certainly will not stop with the indictment of a few of the smaller fry. I intend to offer all available evidence to the grand jury and ask for felony indictments. I wish that all persons who have had dealings with cappers and fixers, or who have been bilked or bunkoed in any manner pertaining to our courts, would communicate in person with the District Attorney's office. We intend to go to the bottom of this affair," Mr. Murray said.

While a flood of complaints were presented to Mr. Murray, Municipal Judge Turney also was in receipt of a mass of evidence pertaining to the activities of the cappers and fixers on the seventh floor of the Hall of Justice where the Municipal courts are located. Judge Turney opened the campaign against the court hangers-on and announced that all evidence turned over to him will receive immediate attention in being transferred to the grand jury or other investigators.

With the Police Commission taking an active hand in the war and barring the brokers from the jail except on the request of those under

Witness Says Rum Flowed at Park Picnic Held by Orange County Peace Officers

ORANGE COUNTY POLICE TESTIFY

Ex-Motorcycle Men Narrate Jail Conditions

Sale of Liquor-Raid Sugar and Tires Related

Drinking at Barbecues Told by Witnesses

SANTA ANA, July 29. (Exclusive) Testimony by two former motorcycle officers as to asserted misconduct by their superiors and by Sheriff's office and jail officials was the feature today of the grand jury's investigation of Sheriff Jernigan and jail conditions. It was reported at the Courthouse. These officers were L. R. Heffner, formerly of the Orange motorcycle speed force, and R. W. Osmun, who once served Anaheim in a similar capacity.

Heffner is said to have declared that picnics of county officials and employees at Orange County Park and barbecues given to officials, peace officers and the like were occasions for flowing liquor and official winking at violations of law; that sugar confiscated in liquor raids was sold to jail prisoners; that seized liquor was dispensed to officers, county employees and others; that one traffic officer maintained a clearing-house for the sale of liquor and tires given him by motorists to evade speed tags, and that he frequently had seen county officials intoxicated. He also is said to have related asserted instances of brutality to prisoners by jailers.

Osmun declared, it was said, he had been dismissed by the Anaheim Chief of Police for arresting a sister of a member of the Orange county motorcycle squad. The ostensible reason for his discharge, Osmun is said to have claimed, was that he was out of his jurisdiction and that he fired his revolver.

Osmun is said to have quoted the woman as telling him she was looking for trouble and did not care if she found it because she was a friend of the chief criminal deputy sheriff.

Other witnesses were E. R. Rudy, former Fullerton motorcycle officer, who is said to have testified that Jailer Monnier and Claud Williams, a Federal prisoner, visited a woman at Fullerton; Joe Irvine, deputy jailer; James Smith, former deputy sheriff, and T. W. Turner, former prisoner in the jail.

After hearing this testimony the jurors inspected the jail and adjourned till 9 a.m. Monday.

FIXERS BANNED FROM CITY JAIL

street, the firing line lengthened and City Prosecutor Lickley was expected to take a hand in the matter momentarily.

The commission's instructions included in a resolution which directed Chief Davis to issue iron-clad orders that when persons are placed under arrest they shall immediately be given the privilege of communicating with an attorney, friends or others with a view of obtaining bail in cases where bail is acceptable.

Chief Davis also was instructed to order that police officers must in no case recommend any professional bondsman and the penalty for violation of the order to be summary dismissal.

On orders from Mr. Murray, Dep. Dist.-Atty. Dave Clarke yesterday issued a complaint charging grand theft against I. Rotes, who is said to have claimed connections with a prominent bonding company. Rotes is charged in the complaint with having obtained $500 from Mrs. Felipe Martin, 618½ New High street, to fix a liquor case which was never filed. Rotes was arraigned before Municipal Judge Westover and bail fixed at $1000 pending preliminary examination set for August 2, next.

CONFERENCE HELD

Late yesterday afternoon Municipal Judge Turney, in charge of the liquor division of the Municipal Court, went into conference with Detective Lieutenant Lucas and Ben Cohn, in charge of the investigators of the District Attorney's office. The conference later was said to have considered only the general situation and to have laid plans for a meeting next Tuesday between the same three officials, together with Mr Murray, City Prosecutor Lickley, Rodney Webster, president of the Police Commission, and John Shand, in charge of the jail division of the police department. It was indicated yesterday that a thorough investigation will be made into the police department on orders of Chief of Police Davis and any officers found to have engaged in fixing activities, will be summarily dismissed.

Late yesterday Dep. Dist.-Atty. Thoms filed a felony complaint against Charles Malaby, charging him with two counts of grand theft centering about the case of Henry Abbott, convicted bootlegger who charged in open court he had paid Malaby $625 to fix a liquor case for him. Prosecutor Thoms said that bail of $20,000 will be asked when Malaby is arraigned this morning. Malaby is represented by Attorney Tom O'Brien.

At the same time additional information pertaining to the stories of Max and Fred Ayers and Harry Blanch, convicted bootleggers, that they had paid Attorney A. H. Mauer $750 to keep them out of jail on their liquor charges, was taken to Judge Turney by Miss Betty Lackey, 820 West First street.

Miss Lackey, who said she is the fiance of Max Ayres, conferred with Judge Turney in chambers and said that she saw receipts given her sweetheart by Mauer. She also said she was present at a conversation where Mauer told the three men that "he would get their prices and hand them to them" and that they might not even have to appear in court.

APPEL VINDICATED

Brought immediately to trial before Municipal Judge Bush on a vagrancy complaint following his arrest in the morning, A. W. Appel, an employee of the F. L. James Bonding Company, was speedily vindicated of the charges, Judge Bush dismissed the charges on motion of Defense Attorneys M. H. Phillips and S. W. Thompson after the State's case had been presented.

Henry Pico, 115 North Olive street, who was arrested by Detectives Johnson, Fogarty and Ashburn who had watched him for several days about the courts, was given a ninety-day suspended sentence when he pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy. Pico, according to the officers, had a large number of business cards of attorneys and bail bond companies in his pockets when arrested.

Gordon Wellington, 25 years of age, of Burbank, who was arrested Thursday by the same officers and Deputy Sheriffs Stensland and Hutchison, was sentenced to thirty days in jail by Judge Bush on his plea of guilty to a similar charge. He is said to have been hanging around the courts and to have had a list of liquor sour defendants in his possession. Wellington said he was doing private investigation.

George Brown, colored bail bond broker, who was also arrested Thursday, was arraigned before Judge Bush and on his plea of not guilty and demand for a jury trial, the case was transferred to the court of Municipal Judge Blake for setting today.

A third arrest yesterday by the police vagrancy squad netted Nathan Widman on a vagrancy charge. Widman, who police said had more than 100 bonding companies and attorney's cards in his pocket, pleaded not guilty before Judge Bush and his trial was set for August 2, next.

Judge Turney yesterday was considering the story of Luciano Regalado, a shoemaker of Watts, that his wife had paid an attorney there $300 to get the husband freed after he had been sentenced to ninety days in jail on a liquor-possession charge.

Attorney was called before Judge Turney and is said to have agreed to refund part of the money today. Regalado served his entire term, Judge Turney said, without the lawyer attempting to help him.

BEVERLY'S MAYOR EMERITUS

Title Cushions Fall of Official

Will Rogers and Richard Wallace

IT WAS a sad blow to a man just out of a hospital but the citizens of Beverly Hills found it their duty yesterday to tell Will Rogers that he isn't going to be Mayor any more.

"Sorry, but you are automatically ousted as Mayor of our fair city, the same to take effect next Monday," said the spokesman of the sad news committee.

"I bet it's a frame-up," asserted Will, "just what a man could expect that had to lay defenseless on his back for a month."

AUTOMATIC OUSTER

"Nope," retorted the committeemen, "you see, Beverly Hills having kept on growing even if her Mayor was in a hospital, becomes a city of the sixth class next Monday and Bill Spaulding, president of the Board of Trustees, automatically becomes Mayor."

"Well," roared Will in his most official voice, "what does that make me?"

A slight quiver was seen to pass through the committee. They swelled their chests and the spokesman was seen to swallow hard.

"That makes you—" Here the speakers paused for the purpose of emphasis, then:

"Mayor Emeritus!" they declaimed in unison.

"None other or what," finished the spokesman. "As far as we can find out you're the first Mayor Emeritus on record. All you got to do is accept the nomination."

MAYOR MOLLIFIED

"By golly," said Will, "it don't sound so bad as that. Maybe I will. Will Rogers, Mayor Emeritus of Beverly Hills. If you put enough emphasis on the "E" it ain't bad at all."

Somewhat mollified by his new title, Rogers then introduced the party to Richard Wallace, who, he explained, is soon to direct him in a picture called "The Texas Steer." The cowboy wisecracker declared that he is rapidly recovering from his illness and would leave next month for Washington, as "The Texas Steer" is based on the activities of our Congressmen.

"No, I'm not going to expose anyone," said Rogers. "This is going to show the funny side of life."

COUNT ASKS CLUB HEAD TO BERLIN

Friendship Ambassador from Germany Honored by Local Organization

Count Felix von Luckner, Germany's friendship ambassador, who was an honor guest yesterday morning at the Breakfast Club, declared that he intended launching such a club in Berlin immediately upon his return and extended an urgent invitation to President DeMond to go there and inaugurate the first German Breakfast Club.

In relating some of his experiences, Count von Luckner also told of running away when a boy and traveling 25,000 miles to see America and his boyhood hero, Buffalo Bill, only to learn when he arrived in Denver that his idol was on a tour of Germany.

The Count was made an honorary member of the Breakfast Club and was initiated in a special ceremony. He was accompanied by Countess Ingeborg von Luckner, Capt. Julius Lauterbach, another sea raider of cruiser Emden fame, and Leon A. Kutner, a San Francisco capitalist.

Other guests at the Breakfast Club were W. B. Mayo, chief engineer of the Ford Motor Company, J. Parker Van Zandt, general manager of Scenic Airways, Inc., Jack Maddux, local Lincoln-Ford airplane dealer, Mary Pickford's fourteen best girls from thirteen American cities, Congressman Crail, Congressman Evans, Capt. Robert A. Lyre, German Consul William A. Monten and Swedish Consul Mason Mitchell.

At 1 o'clock the Von Luckner party were guests at a luncheon at Universal City tendered by Sigmund Moos, to which fifty members of the executive staff, directors and writers were invited.

A quiet day is forecast for the party today and tomorrow with a program of entertainment to begin on Monday.

Scenario Pair to Become One at Noon Today

Beatrice Van and James Gruen, scenario writers, are to join forces at noon today at Beverly Hills.

BEATRICE VAN

"After working side by side for the past two years, during which time we solved the love affairs of innumerable celluloid couples, we just decided to solve our own," explained Miss Van yesterday.

"Sure, we're going to be married Saturday. Why not," was the way the bridegroom-elect answered queries.

No honeymoon is in prospect for the writers until the completion of their present assignments, it was learned. Gruen is working on an adaptation of the stage play, "Give and Take," while Miss Van is completing the script of "Thanks for the Buggy Ride."

Oklahoma Negro Slayer Suspect Captured Here

Frank Wilkerson, 24-year-old negro wanted by Oklahoma authorities on a murder charge, was arrested by detectives last night, but he informed them that he would rather go back to Oklahoma and face the murder trial there than remain here and face a Wright Act charge.

The suspect was found tending a still at 1533 East Fifty-fifth street, according to Detective Lieutenants Hickey, Condaffer, Miller and Stevens. He admitted, they said, the murder of John Jackson, another negro, in Bristow, Okla., about eight months ago in a quarrel over a poker game.

Stage Player Gets Chance to Rear Children

Joseph Haggerty, stock company leading man, thinks he knows more about rearing children than his former wife, Isabelle Haggerty, actress. Judge Lamberti, on hearing this declaration yesterday in alimony court, offered to give him a chance to prove it.

ISABELLE HAGGERTY

Haggerty was there under an order from Presiding Judge Burnell to explain why he thought he should stop paying alimony. The question of support of the children came up.

"I'll take care of them," Haggerty offered. "I can do it better than their mother is doing."

His attorney, William Bronsten, asked that he be given a chance. Judge Lambert made an order that if Haggerty takes proper care of the children he need not pay any more alimony.

denly left California a few days before the stock was barred from the Stock Exchange, he left a trail of high finance written in $67,000,000 worth of bank deposits and withdrawals, according to testimony of F. F. Hahn, auditor for the grand jury.

A birthday gift to Bennett was detailed to the grand jury by E. H. Rosenberg, a broker, who said that September in 1926 "various clients by popular subscriptions" bought Bennett a Rolls-Royce automobile. Rosenberg was a close associate of Bennett in the days of the stock pools and huge loans. He had a desk close to the "bright boy's" in the Pershing Square Building.

SELECTION OF GIFT

"In September, 1926, Jack Bennett told me that his birthday was coming and I asked him what kind of a birthday gift he would like, and he said a Rolls-Royce car. There were two or three people present at the time," Rosenberg testified.

"I think Mr. Hackel and Mr. Gutterman were present and one or the other said, 'All right, we will give you the car.' And then a popular subscription was taken up, in which my various clients and various brokers of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange each contributed, and we took Bennett's car and gave that in as partial payment and paid for his Rolls-Royce car.

Q.: How much money did you raise?

A.: In the neighborhood of $13,000.

H. L. Stanley, testifying before the grand jury, was asked if he knew Fred Packard, a transfer clerk of the corporation, and if he had any conversation with him on May 9, the day Jack Bennett left Los Angeles. He said he had and was asked to relate the conversation.

CONVERSATION RELATED

A.: He said to me: "If somebody owed you $8000 and beat you out of it and somebody else offered to give you that $8000 to help you out, what would you do?" I told him: "Well that is a tough spot to put me in. I couldn't give you any advice on it."

Q.: What time of day was that?

A.: That was about 5:30 or 6 o'clock in the evening.

Q.: And as far as you know what time did Jack Bennett leave town that day?

A.: Three o'clock.

Q.: How did you find that out.

A.: He left the office at 3. I don't know what time he left town. His brother told me it was on "The Chief."

Q.: That is a Santa Fe train?

A.: Yes.

Q.: Did you ever hear Packard say whether Bennett owed him money at any time?

A.: Yes sir, he had been telling me that weeks before.

Q.: Did he say how much Bennett owed him?

A.: Around $12,000.

Q.: Did he ever say Bennett had paid him any part of that money?

A.: Yes, $2500, $1500 and $1300.

Q.: Did he say how Bennett came to owe him that $12,000?

DEBT EXPLAINED

A.: On guarantees of stock, the same as he would me; he wouldn't let Packard sell.

Q.: Did you ever talk to Packard, previous to the time that Bennett left, about Bennett leaving?

A.: Yes, sir.

Q.: What did you and he say about that?

A.: Well, we were just waiting for him to leave daily.

Q.: In other words, you would talk about it daily?

A.: Yes, sir.

Q.: Guessing between yourselves when he would leave?

A.: When he would leave, yes, sir. Of course, he already had sent his wife to New York two or three months before he left himself.

Q.: Did you and Packard ever talk about the situation getting so hot or involved you thought Bennett was liable to leave any day?

A.: No, sir.

Q.: Was it simply on account of his wife going that you thought he would leave?

A.: Mainly, yes.

Q.: The other had something to do with it, didn't it?

A.: Well, to a certain extent, yes. He had a lot of guarantees out among us boys. We were all waiting to collect and we thought he was going to try and get away and not pay us.

FORGERY TESTIMONY

William C. Kottemann, certified accountant, offered testimony before the grand jury to the effect that the name of T. P. Conroy, secretary of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, was forged to numerous stock certificates. Shown a certificate with a questionable signature upon it, he was questioned as to its irregularity.

"In my opinion the signature of the secretary, T P. Conroy, is not a genuine signature of T. P. Conroy."

"Who is it countersigned by?"

"There is a rubber-stamp impression of the vice-president, H. J. Campbell." Mr. Campbell, according to the transcript, said that a rubber stamp of his signature was used when he refused to sign further certificates.

Kottemann testified he called the attention of Ted Harris, transfer clerk of the corporation, to the asserted irregular signature shortly before the final crash came.

"What did he say at that time?"

"I called his attention to the fact that, in my opinion, certain of the signatures on the certificates were forged signatures, that they were not the genuine signatures of T. P. Conroy, and asked him if he had any idea who forged the signatures, and he said that he knew. I asked him if he would tell me and he said he would not."

Kottemann said he repeated his statements to S. C. Lewis, former president of the concern, and that executive "passed no comment relative to a knowledge that there were any or as to whether or not he knew who was guilty of such a forgery."

BAY CITY DEPUTY TO CONFER WITH KEYES

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (Exclusive)—Dist.-Atty. Brady announced today that Joseph O'Connor, deputy in charge of grand-jury cases, will leave for Los Angeles Monday night to confer there with Dist.-Atty. Keyes with a view to ascertaining the exact connection of San Francisco stock pools with the overissue of Julian Petroleum securities. To date, Brady said, there has been nothing to indicate irregularity in the handling of stocks in this city, but he wishes to settle the matter definitely.

If Deputy O'Connor's investigation reveals a situation calling for investigation by the San Francisco grand jury, the proper steps will be taken, Brady declared.

MRS. M'PHERSON EXPLAINS STAND

Evangelist Tells Reasons for Plan to Leave

Says Open Field Needs Her; Meeting Applauds

over the country from a central headquarters.

Her family troubles, she averred, were perhaps no worse than any one else's "only yours don't get in the newspapers." She stated she believed she could handle them alone and asked that that privilege be granted her.

Without naming her mother, she spoke of a long trip for someone, stipulating that a return-trip ticket would be furnished.

CONFIDENCE SHOWN

Throughout the meeting, the applause from the congregation indicated that Mrs. McPherson had the full confidence of the large majority of those present. If a dissenting voice was raised it could not be heard.

During the entire course of her address to the church members, Mrs. McPherson did not deny her statement of yesterday morning that she intended to leave Los Angeles. In fact, during her discussion she notified her congregation that she intended to leave the city "to keep her word" to graduates of the Bible school.

Last night's meeting was called following Mrs. McPherson's announcement that she plans to retire from active work as pastor of the temple, which was made public in an exclusive interview printed in The Times yesterday morning.

KIDNAPING UP AGAIN

Yesterday evening's meeting with members of the church followed a hectic day at Angelus Temple during which desert shacks and kidnaping stories continued to creep into the proceedings.

The kidnaping revival was attributed chiefly to Mrs. Kennedy, who said that it is "part of the congregation's doubt of Mrs. McPherson's kidnaping story that is driving us both from Angelus Temple."

However, in the next breath Mrs. Kennedy declared:

"There is no reason to be alarmed over the possibility of Mrs. McPherson resigning. This is at least the sixth time she has said she would resign."

Mrs. McPherson called last night's meeting with members of the congregation following a veritable siege of the evangelist's home on South Manhattan street, following publication in The Times of her plan to continue her work in the evangelical field.

REITERATES PLAN

Mrs. McPherson yesterday reiterated her decision to quit the local temple, in so far as holding a permanent pastorate is concerned, as soon as she is able to find suitable evangelists and business men who can assume full charge of the $1,000,000 institution built by herself and her mother several years ago.

At the same time, announcements were forthcoming from Mrs. McPherson's camp that Marshall B. Craig of Des Moines, Iowa, will not be named to fill her place. Mr. Craig and Rev. John Goben, an Iowa evangelist, who has assisted Mrs. McPherson on both her tours this year, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday.

From early yesterday morning until late last night Mrs. McPherson was besieged by members of the temple seeking information on her announced plan to quit the temple.

Unable to meet and personally talk to each one of her visitors, Mrs. McPherson issued a short written statement, in which she reiterated that she again will enter the evangelical field, this time permanently, pointing out, however, that it will take a little time to get her affairs and those of the temple arranged so that she can leave Los Angeles.

WORK TO BE DONE

"There is considerable work to be done in clearing up the situation at present, which newspapers picture as a "war" with my mother, but which in reality is a desire on the part of the church as a whole for my mother to vacate management of the institution," she said.

Mrs. McPherson indefinitely fixed the time necessary for her to complete this work at about three weeks. Finding of capable and satisfactory associate pastors to occupy the pulpit also will have to be done before her departure, she said.

To statements attributed to her mother that the unrest over Mrs. McPherson's kidnaping story is the real reason behind the proposed departure, Mrs. McPherson declared that that, if at all, is the slightest of all reasons for her planning to enter the evangelistic field again.

"I have more call to bring our work into various parts of the country than I can answer in ten ordinary lifetimes," the evangelist said. "Only by leaving behind me at each place capable and willing hands, who in turn will train and send workers into the field, can I hope to accomplish a hundredth part of what I really would like to do."

The second conference to effect a business agreement between Mrs. McPherson and Mrs. Kennedy, which was scheduled for yesterday afternoon, failed to take place, and Mrs. Kennedy went away for an extended day's automobile ride with students of the temple Bible school, attaches reported.

Before her departure, however, Mrs. Kennedy hurled new charges at her daughter, declaring that an agreement made at Thursday afternoon's conference between the two principals and their respective attorneys, to refrain from issuing further public statements, had been violated by the evangelist.

Mrs. Kennedy then proceeded to unload what she described as "the burden of her heart, the diabolical plot hatched during the kidnaping episode to rout both me and my daughter from the temple."

Mrs. McPherson, on the other hand, remained discreetly quiet, and except for her frank announcement that she will leave the temple had nothing to say.

In so far as the conference was concerned, said to have been marked by extreme cordiality between mother and daughter, who met in an effort to finally dispose of the temple's future, Mrs. McPherson had nothing to say.

HOLDS TWO WOMEN AS CAPTIVES

'Lord's Message' Quoted as Explanation

Miss Dorothy Cochrane

DECLARING that she had received a message from the Lord naming two women, both fellow-employees in a downtown department store, who must accompany her at all times in working for the Lord Miss Dorothy Cochrane held the women prisoners for two days and two nights in her apartment next to the Boyle Heights Police Station.

The women were freed yesterday after two sleepless days and nights when they prevailed on Miss Cochrane to carry their difficulties to the police station. Capt. H. R. Cross ordered her sent to the psychopathic ward of the General Hospital for observation.

According to statements made to officers L. E. Sanderson and Vicent Wintermute, who investigated the case, Miss Cochrane had no trouble in getting her room-mate, Miss Bernice Wilson, to stay with her, but when she attempted to persuade the third woman, Miss Madeline Koch, who lives in Sierra Madre, to remain she met with opposition.

Last Wednesday Miss Cochrane already had moved her belongings into the office of Miss Koch to be with her while working, and when quitting time came Miss Cochrane accompanied her to her automobile and refused to leave the machine. Miss Koch stated she finally went with the girl to her apartment to satisfy her, believing she would leave sometime in the night. This she was unable to do because Miss Cochrane did not sleep and refused to allow her to leave.

FAREWELL CHURCH SERVICE

Olivet Congregation Will Have New Edifice This Fall; Rites for Tomorrow Announced

Farewell services at the old Olivet Community Congregational Church at Washington street and Magnolia avenue, which for the last forty years has been one of the landmarks of Los Angeles, will be conducted tomorrow. Next week will mark the beginning of the demolition of the old building, to make room for a beautiful new Spanish-type church.

Eighty feet of the old structure fronting on the street will be wrecked and on the site will be erected the first unit of the new temple which will cost $35,000 and which will be completed by November. The Sunday-school quarters in the rear will be left standing to house the congregation until the first unit shall have been finished.

The morning service tomorrow will be featured by a children's processional, led by Roberta Rickert, and a sermon by Rev. W. H. Hopkins, who will preach on "Olivet, An Ideal Church," the same subject he used in his first sermon at the old church. In the evening, members of the Armenian Church will meet with the 165 members of the Olivet congregation. The combined choirs will furnish music and addresses will be made by Dr. George P. Kenngott, Rev. H. H. Ashjian and Mr. Hopkins. A feature of the new church will be the Field Memorial Tower, to be erected in honor of the late Rev. F. A. Field, founder and first pastor of Olivet.

CHURCH SHOWS GROWTH

Sixty-seven new members have joined the Highland Park Baptist Church since the pastorate was taken over last October by Rev. Edgar A. Wollam. The membership now is 488, with a Sunday-school enrollment exceeding 400. The value of the church plant, at 6317 Monte Vista street, is estimated at $100,000 and a new educational unit is being built at a cost of $25,000. Mr. Wollam will preach tomorrow evening on "The World's Cross-Roads," a sermon on Palestine, the material for which he gathered on his recent trip to the Holy Land.

REV. EDGAR A. WOLLAM

"QUESTIONS OF JESUS"

That women wrote various parts of the Bible, probably one entire book of the New Testament, is the opinion of Dr. Henry C. Culbertson, who will discuss "Women Writers of the Bible" in his sermon tomorrow evening at the Plymouth Congregational Church. At the morning hour Dr. Culbertson will preach on "The Questions of Jesus."

"EVERLASTING SNEER"

Dr. David J. Evans, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Kansas City, will preach at the First Baptist Church tomorrow morning on "Laborers Are Few" and in the evening on "The Everlasting Sneer." Dedication of the new organ will be conducted at 8 p.m. next Monday, when a recital will be given by John Goans, organist of the Church of the Incarnation of New York, assisted by Mildred Ware, contralto.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Love" is the subject of the lesson-sermon tomorrow at 11 a.m. at all Churches of Christ, Scientist, in Los Angeles. The golden text is I John iv, 7, "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and everyone that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God." The services are repeated Sunday evening at 8 p.m. at many of the churches. Wednesday evening meetings, which include testimonies of Christian Science healing, are conducted by all the churches.

"WHO IS A CHRISTIAN"

Dr. Arthur Braden, president of the California Christian College, will be the preacher at the Wilshire Boulevard Christian Church tomorrow morning when he will discuss the much-debated question, "Who is a Christian?" The evening service will be in charge of the young people of the high school Christian Endeavor.

NOTED PREACHER HERE

Dr. Lynn Harold Hough of Detroit, who, according to Dr. E. E. Helms, "carries more degrees, has written more books and is a member of more learned foreign societies than any other living American," will be the preacher tomorrow at the First Methodist Church. The sermon subjects for morning and evening are, respectively, "Who is Responsible?" and "When Iron Swims." Soloists for tomorrow will include Evelyn Snow and John Ganton.

TEETH-TOSSING TALE NOT TOLD

Judge Holds it Irrelevant in Irvine Divorce Case

But Court Hears of Many Gay Goings On

Almost Everyone Described as Drinking or Drunk

It must have been an entertaining episode, but the world probably will never hear the details of it, because Judge Guerin, after weighty consideration, concluded that it was irrelevant, incompetent and immaterial as far as the Irvine divorce case is concerned.

So, although Attorney Louis Pink, counsel for Mrs. Madaline Irvine, fought gently, but persistently, at various times to get into the record an account of how Mrs. M. Powell, Irvine housekeeper, optimized her teeth out at the last party at Guyuma, nothing came of his efforts except his own instructions.

Mrs. Powell had testified that without doubt Mrs. Irvine was under the influence." She told a story of gay carryings-on and intimate indulgences in which her former employer was starred. Counselor Pink listened courteously until she had finished.

"And that was the time, wasn't it, Mrs. Powell, that you got in over yourself that you spit out your false teeth?" he inquired suavely.

PINK RULED OUT

At this point, scarcely waiting from the proceedings, Counsel for James Irvine, husband, defendant and cross-complainant, leaped to their feet and shot out objections. Mrs. Powell darted indignant glances at Pink. Pink argued his point. It was ruled out.

"Oh, well, I was just going to say that the witness was so drunk I don't know whether anyone else was drunk or not," he explained.

It was a small matter, for Buchanans more or less made little difference in a day like yesterday in the Irvine case. Practically everything mentioned in testimony was described as being more or less drunk at one time or another. Mrs. Powell said that while she had on occasion seen a drink or so, she had never been really drunk, citing as proof enough explanation of this statement the fact that some of the others to get drunk again, she declared.

MRS. IRVINE UNPERTURBED

Mrs. Irvine, sitting among the spectators in the courtroom, displayed no sign of anxiety or embarrassment as one witness after another related their accounts of various adventures in which they said they had observed her to be engaged.

Her complacence in the face of these remarks was explained by a statement by her attorney.

"Why should we be concerned about this?" demanded Counselor Pink. "It is to be expected in a case of this kind of a fight. We have been prepared for it. We will overthrow these charges and show their falsity when we put on our defense."

Trial of the action will be resumed before Judge Guerin today.

BRIDEGROOM DECLARED DRUNK ON HONEYMOON

Although Wallace Holmes would not declared he was having the time of his life on his honeymoon, it was an insult, Mrs. Anita Holmes told Judge Falk yesterday. "Why was that an insult?" Judge Falk wanted to know. "Because he was so drunk he did not know what he was saying," Mrs. Holmes testified. She was granted a divorce.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

LOS ANGELES BRANCH 1

The Christian Science Parent Church

THE CHURCH OF THE TRANSFORMING COVENANT

This Church, organized under the leadership of Annie C. Bill, has for its mission the introduction and establishment in world consciousness of the Science of organization as taught by Mary Baker Eddy. It advances true Christian Science; in no way disrupts it nor rejects a single fact in Mrs. Eddy's teachings, immeasurably increasing appreciation of her life work; never distracting from her achievements. It is demonstrating her discovery of the great system of mental power, the common consent of the governed to spiritual leadership, which will change the whole of human consciousness from a pathway of death unto a living unfoldment of Life.

GREAT HAZARDS

If Henry Ford begins backing motion-picture enterprises he may yet have to walk home.

STRIKINGLY

We thought Babe Ruth was absolutely unique in the matter of knocking home runs. But Lou Gehrig appears to be strikingly similar.

BEST THEY SAW

Now they say that the Swedes are making sugar out of sawdust. Let us hope that wood sugar won't prove as dangerous as wood alcohol.

LIGHTING UP

If any girl who is resolutely learning to smoke cigarettes fails to set the world on fire it won't be because she doesn't use up plenty of matches.

MANY ARE ROBBERS

A mixed trio held up a bank in Virginia the other day. Apparently some mixed trios are as bad off the vaudeville stage as they are on it.

FAIR SUMMER

Folks in the East are worrying over the many cases of summer complaint, but there is virtually no complaint at all about the summers we have here.

WOULD CRAMP THEIR STYLES

Not many fishermen envy the President these days. It would be mighty hard on their reports to have a squad of official scorers always checking up on them.

OUR WISEST

Folks generally look on members of the Supreme Court as exceptionally wise men—despite the fact that an ex-justice was married the other day at the age of 70.

PREPAREDNESS

Bud Stillman's marriage is very romantic. But all the hard-boiled telegraph editors will carefully label and "morgue" all the pictures, just in case of future rumpuses.

FARTHER BETTER

A supporter boasts that Sinclair Lewis has reached the point where he can write anything he wants to and get away with it. Well, we don't care—just so he gets far enough away with it.

THE UNPARDONABLE SIN

Now a prominent lawyer grieves over the loss of a wonderful stenographer. He explains it by the statement that the young woman caught him kissing his wife. Sometimes this is quite unforgiveable.

FAILURES

Most men who are failures imagine that if their wives were really efficient managers they would be well off. It's that in their dispositions which makes them so ready to fall back on an alibi which makes them failures.

WE'D RATHER NOT

An Oakland woman of 194 years attributes her long life to her practice of pulling weeds every day in a garden. Among the weeds in which other women manifest interest are widow's, broadleaf and a few of the garden variety.

NOT SO BAD

Georges Clemenceau says that he has been too busy and indifferent to deny the reports of his death—which is a very comfortable spirit in which an octogenarian may find himself. Any pallbearers who hang about his quarters are apt to get bumped.

HEARING VOICES

The town crier at Provincetown, Mass., is retiring on account of a game leg and no successor will be named. It is held that this is the last example of this ancient office in America. But they are forgetting that we have a town Cryer here whom some of the people seem anxious to dispense with.

DIVORCE CONTRASTS

There was not a single divorce case in Alpine county last year, although there were over 4500 in Los Angeles county. This seems a curious contrast, but it is well to remember that Alpine has only forty autos and less than 100 regular voters. Massed population makes for divorces as well as other human incidents.

KNEW HIS ONIONS

Perhaps George Washington could not have scored 100 per cent on one of these trick quizzes, but he would never be picked up as being dull. Patrick Henry, who was a rather bright party himself, sat with George in the Virginia House of Burgesses and it pleased him to say that of all that company, when solid information and sound judgment were demanded, Washington was by far the greatest man in the assembly. There is no warrant for picking on the nation's daddy at this or any other time.

OUR AMBASSADOR TO MEXICO

Thanks of the nation are due to Ambassador James R. Sheffield as he retires from his post at Mexico City. He has done a difficult task well and, if he has not succeeded in all that he hoped to do, it was due to circumstances beyond his control. He took the post at a considerable personal sacrifice and he has devoted his time unsparingly in the nation's interest. He has not permitted the nation's dignity to suffer nor has he compromised any of the administration's policies. On the whole, his labors have resulted in an increase of good feeling and of understanding between the two nations, and he has laid a foundation upon which his successors may build to the joint advantage of both Mexicans and Americans.

It was not to be expected that a man of Ambassador Sheffield's northern training should be able to gain a completely sympathetic understanding of the Latin-American temperament and viewpoint, so different from our own, in time to put them to much use in the very involved and difficult controversies which confronted him when he took office. It was necessary at times that he act quickly and without the delicate indirection demanded of most successful Latin diplomacy. On occasion his statements were characterized by a certain forthrightness and approach to brusqueness which puzzled the Mexicans and which they were somewhat disposed to criticise.

Obviously, this was no personal fault of Ambassador Sheffield, and the Mexicans came to recognize the fact before his departure. He leaves Mexico City with the cordial good will of Mexican officialdom.

In the selection of his successor the President has a delicate task, but one which can be accomplished if he looks in the right direction. There are men in the United States who combine the diverse characteristics of the ideal ambassador to the Mexican people. Such a man must unite in himself an uncompromising Americanism with a knowledge of the language, customs, habits and psychology of the people to the south of the border and with liking for them and desire to be of aid in working out their peculiar problems. He must know and employ the Latin school of diplomacy by indirection rather than the blunt, direct methods of the Anglo-Saxon. He must know how to deal with pride and with a racial sensitiveness that seems to us, at times, perhaps too easily wounded. Such a man will be careful in small things, calm always, punctilious to quixotism, willing to make haste slowly, not critical toward ideas and ideals different from those of his own civilization, broad and tolerant.

It goes without saying that these characteristics are most apt to be found in some American of long experience with Mexicans and Mexican affairs. Such a man will do an enormous service to both countries by establishing the cordial relations which must precede the development of international trade and the entry of American capital into Mexico.

AMERICA STANDS PAT

In spite of all the proposals of Britain that a naval agreement be reached whereby the number of small cruisers to be maintained by each nation represented at the Geneva conference shall be unlimited, America stands pat on its original position that such a limit be fixed and that the treaty shall not annul its right to build the size of cruisers it needs and to arm them with guns of more than six-inch caliber.

It certainly would seem that if it was good policy and good logic to establish parity in capital ships, as was done at Washington in 1922, it is equally desirable now to establish parity in cruisers. But the British view, prejudiced by the fact England has more, and more closely placed, naval bases than America, stands in the way of cruiser parity. Britain does not want more large cruisers, but she does want many small ones, while our requirements are of a directly reverse or opposite nature. British representatives consider the limitation formula recently adopted by our administration as inapplicable to certain classes of auxiliary ships. American representatives can see in this position only a desire on the part of the British to let down the bars of naval construction and keep them down, which is precisely what President Coolidge, who is for naval limitation on a basis of true parity, which would save the nations enormous expenditure and better assure world peace, opposes.

Virtually speaking, Britain asks us to accept inequality, but we will not accept it. If this disparity of views is to result in a race for sea supremacy Britain is bound to get the worst of it. If forced to do so, we can build more and better war vessels than can be turned out by the British shipyards. This may sound like jingoism, but it is the truth.

THE ALIMONY REBELS

The Alimony Rebels are organizing in a number of the big cities. They are made up of ex-husbands who object to paying double alimony or who refuse to pay big money to a former wife who has married again. They do not object to the alimony idea when it is intended to provide for children or for a needy woman, but they make their protest against matrimonial gold diggers. There are some dames who have the alimony habit and marry with that altogether in mind. It has become evident that alimony is too big a factor in our various domestic embroilments.

CHINESE WALL

The Nationalists in China have the big idea in assuring the means for running the country. They have formulated a high tariff measure which will place most of the burden upon the importation of foreign goods. With a levy of about 70 per cent upon our cigarettes the human bonfires will contribute nobly to keep government alive. The orientals, however, should not make the customs barrier too lofty. These Chinese walls are obstacles in the path of progress.

SOUNDING BRASS

Gunpowder burns rather harmlessly when in the open. It is when confined that its explosive power is registered. That is one reason why the Britons permit so much oratorical freedom to the Communists and their ilk. They are suffered to talk themselves foolish—which doesn't take very long. The Socialists in London are permitted to use their lips and lungs to a greater extent than they are in the shadow of the Goddess of Liberty. They spoof themselves into idiocy and no harm is done.

THAT POOR SANDINO

There is a tendency in America to jump at conclusions, especially in criticism of the government. It should be remembered that there is certain to be information in the hands of government officials which is not available to the critics themselves at the moment of a signal event. When the so-called Gen. Sandino was bombed by some johnny-on-the-spot United States battle pilots the "general," with an overwhelming force, was hurling lead at thirty-nine United States marines. Many of Sandino's infantrymen were killed. Critics rushed into print to condemn the army, the Departmtent of State and everyone connected with the rescue of the thirty-nine marines.

Actually thousands of Americans seemed to be more sympathetic for Sandino and his fellow-bandits than for their countrymen, who for a time battled for their lives against impossible odds. When Secretary Kellogg showed that Sandino was a common outlaw many of the critics backed down and felt like apologizing, but others held to the opinion that a liberty-loving revolutionist might rise to arms in Nicaragua in 1927 as well as on American soil in 1776. This last stand in the name of liberty and justice has been routed by Admiral Latimer's report. The admiral knows his Sandino and he shows him up in his true light.

This "liberty-loving revolutionist," who attacked thirty-nine marines with a force of 500 soldiers, was in Mexico for twenty-two years and once was a loyal lieutenant of Pancho Villa. Villa's kind of liberty is the kind he loves—either in Mexico or Nicaragua. He never thought of being a Nicaraguan patriot until after the United States had intervened and then with a band of cut-throats like himself he crossed from Honduras and began fighting in Nicaragua anyone he thought he could whip. In picking thirty-nine American devil dogs he found he had another think coming.

THE JAZZ DRUMMER

Carroll Cooney, famous in Yale as football center and hammer thrower, is now conducting a jazz orchestra. His athletics serve him in good stead and put him in the pink of condition to gyrate and jiggle to music. Education is wonderful.

Possibly the jazz drummer has not received his place in literature that is his due. His value to society has been overlooked or held on suspicion. He spends his nights hammering away, twisting and contorting, screwing and unscrewing, to fit himself into the spirit of the age.

His rhythmic motion, as much as his clatter, chastens the scene. He jiggles about as if he had a nest of hornets in his pants or had hives all over his personality.

He leaps from drum to drum and then to cymbals, smites them aloft with emotion and expression, seizes the hammers and arouses the xylophone to action. Then he tolls a bell and blows a whistle and all the time he punctuates your peace with his drum sticks.

He plays an earnest part. As an institution the jazz orchestra fills the audience with good humor and the room with racket. When you make your exit your facial as well as all other muscles of your body are working violently out of sympathy.

Whatever we may think, the jazz orchestra has the middle of the stage and the wave length on the air. It has wiggled itself into favor. This is the athletic age—of music.

KEEPING FIT

The man who lives for the joy of doing and who works for the zest of achievement will find this life wholesome and interesting. He will also know this to be a world of wonders and of promise.

EASY

Painted pillows are the latest beach fad at Ocean Park. That ought to be easy—a lot of the girls can paint 'em with perfect profiles by merely resting their cheeks on 'em.

THE BLUNDERERS

The protest of Mayor Cryer that "good men cannot be procured to fill public offices" in Los Angeles is not especially to the credit of his administration, which has been so muddled by backstairs politics as to directly account for the condition of which the Mayor now complains. It is natural that citizens who value their self-respect should shy at being made political footballs for Boss Parrot.

But, at that, the Mayor did hit the nail on the head. Men of standing vitally are needed to carry on the affairs of Los Angeles. The very character of the city presents a problem demanding the best talent available. Its rapid growth and its unique advantages demand constant and able attention. Commercially, artistically and otherwise it can be made the modern wonder of the world. But with politics alone at the helm its course will be exceedingly erratic.

It is time for the political policies that keep "good men out of office" to be ended. If public-spirited men of affairs are willing to neglect their private business to further the progress of Los Angeles they should not be subjected to the petty harassments of peanut politicians. If the Parrot-Cryer combination has any tears to shed over the poor quality of its associated public servants it has only itself to thank.

There has been bungling and there have been blunders. Good men have been kept out of office as a long-suffering citizenry well knows. The Mayor, if he be really repentant, has it in his power to remedy the situation. It remains to be seen if he will do so. Mere railing at the "good men's" reluctance is futile. The blunderers are to blame.

THE HARD STUFF

The States of Maine and Kansas are both charged with attempting to corner the cider market of the country. As the original prohibition States of the Union they seem to know their applesauce.

THE EFFECT OF REPRESSION

By James J. Montague

Science has now discovered that electric waves are set in motion by human passions.

My parents reared me in a strict
And stern New England fashion,
From early childhood I was licked
For getting in a passion.
I grew as calm, serene and cold
As is the Polar Ocean,
And after I was eight years old
I never showed emotion.

The people of the acting stage,
When any situation
Demands a show of savage rage
Can foam with indignation;
The lawyer making an address
Before a stolid jury,
Can register acute distress—
Or roar with awful fury.

The person with a soul and heart
Through which wild thoughts are flowing,
I'm told by scientists, can start
Electric currents going.
Which zig zag swiftly here and there,
And fill with high elation
Or brooding sorrow and despair
The people of the nation.

I'd like to send out waves which might Arouse the sovereign voter,
Turn on the reading lamp at night
Or even start my motor;
But I cannot. Too late I see
That in my childhood's hour—
Stern discipline crushed out of me
The light and heat and power.

SEEING MEXICO

BY WILLIAM L. VAIL.

V

A great many thousand Mexicans and Americans who read these few lines will share my disgust because of the way crime is harped on and played up, when committed in Mexico, to the practical exclusion of publicity of a better sort.

Crime, gentle reader, is international in composition and exploitation. No particular country has a caveat on this article, and it isn't fair, nor sporty, to pin crime on the foreigner in great, flaring headlines and ignore the good things he does.

The other day I saw a great armored truck, in Los Angeles, artilleried sufficiently to withstand a short siege, conveying a quantity of masuma from one financial institution to another. I have seen the same evidence of war in other American cities and I note that pay rolls of even inconsiderable amounts are chaperoned with guards, sawed-off shotguns and sometimes rapid-fire apparatus.

You never see these sights in Mexico. Millions of pesos are sent daily from one place to another, on the backs of cargadores, in trucks and other open vehicles, sans guards, sans guns and sans excitement. And the sums arrive. Thousands of dollars weekly are sent out over mountain trails to mining camps and industrial plants with a clerk and a mozo—with no guards and no fear of interruption. Hold-ups of this sort are rarities and when they do occur many people die who are found responsible.

Standing up cashiers in drug saloons, cafes, filling stations and such is an unknown art in Mexico. Incidentally, if such a stunt were attempted every eyewitness, instead of getting under a table or behind a vase, would probably constitute himself or herself into a specially improvised police officer and the hue and cry would be short-lived.

I don't happen to be armed with statistics at the moment, but I will venture the suggestion that more major crimes are committed in any one of fifty larger cities of the United States each week than in the entire republic of Mexico in a year.

In the City of Mexico, which has a population of nearly 1,000,000 humans, honestly counted, life is much safer than in the average American city of like size. Street hold-ups are practically unknown and automobile thefts are a nine-day scandal.

These remarks are not intended to disparage the efficiency of our American police nor to magnify the depravity of some of our own citizens and foreign residents, but simply as statements of uncut and undoctored facts.

In more than thirty years' residence in Mexico I have never been stood up nor seen a man stood up in a Mexican city. What I have lost by way of handkerchiefs and watches through nimble fingers is another matter.

If you have time, please read what the Bible says on the subject of motes.

STRAIGHT SALARY ONLY

"I understand you served in the army, Mr. Cohen?" remarked the new drummer by way of becoming acquainted with the owner of "Cohen's Clothing Emporium."

"Yes, two years I wasted soldiering around."

"But, of course, you got a commission?"

"Commission? Say, min frent, forty dollars a month I got it and not one cent commission."—[Capper's Weekly.

LETTERS TO The Times

Antivivisection

LOS ANGELES, July 25.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Permit me to thank you for the recent letter in The Times from Mrs. Clinton Pinckney Farrell of New York, president of the International Conference for Investigation of Vivisection. This letter replied to the statement made by the health officer of Los Angeles "that vivisection had been a boon to mankind and that animals were anesthetized so that they did not suffer, etc., etc."

The periodic dispatches in the press of the world from the vivisectors and their allies regarding the discovery of a new serum or vaccine for certain diseases are beginning to disillusion the people.

Insulin, the so-called magic preventive and cure for diabetes, whose discovery electrified the medical world and won a Nobel prize, resulted in the torture of thousands of animals. Insulin has already begun to slump into the discard along with the Friedman turtle cure for consumption and the Flexner serum for spinal meningitis.

Referring to the great hopes held by many allopaths concerning insulin as a cure for diabetes, Marcel Labbe, M.D., in the Medical Journal and Record for June 15, 1927: "They were unfortunately soon enlightened, because to date not a single authentic cure has been recorded." One might go on down the list of itemized serums, vaccines and experiments that are the products and conclusions of the countless suffering animals of the laboratory. The so-called beneficent discoveries of today, largely exploited by commercialism, are the medical epitaphs of tomorrow."

Can a supposedly civilized world much longer condone this horrible thing called vivisection? What dispensation has been given to mankind to do evil that good may come—or that the strong may take advantage of the weak—the helpless, the voiceless creatures of the world in hopes of finding a cure for his own self-imposed physical sins?

There are schools of healing that are effecting marvelous cures that are not the result of vivisection or vivisectional medicine.

ROSEMONDE RAE WRIGHT.

Superfluous

SANTA MONICA, July 27.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In today's Times "Music Lover" severely criticises the patronizing and entirely superfluous little speeches to which the Bowl audiences are forced to listen every night. I think it speaks well for the people of Los Angeles that they do so quietly and without giving voice to their quite evident resentment in a loud manner. That the audiences regard these silly speeches as highly annoying must be evident to anyone and if the directors of the Bowl would, for one night, spread themselves among the audience and listen to the comments this last little bit of crass provincialism would probably be eliminated forthwith. The Bowl concerts would then automatically move at last into the "metropolitan" class. Anyway, the gist of these speeches is contained in the program and the daily press and no independent important announcement has as yet been made.

M. L. MEYERKORT.

Bored to Tears

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It's a fact that those "pretty lady" speeches in a symphony concert bore us to tears. That Chautauqua touch is so vastly out of place in connection with anything as magnificent as the Hollywood Bowl!

Can't we be saved? Who's behind such brutality? You should know—and do something!

LILLIAN STIDGER.

Register, Deport 'Em

SACRAMENTO, July 26.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Hyphenated Americans object to any registration. Yet all must register to drive an automobile. Even native-born citizens must register to vote.

Funds to deport alien criminals, insane, paupers would eventually cut taxes tremendously. It is cheaper to deport than to feed.

Statistics declare the average American pays $83 for each member of his family in direct or indirect taxes for crime only. Why not demand of Congress registration and deportation legislation?

DEATH

I start the car for home tonight,
So joyously, my thoughts so light,
For loving children wait me there,
My wife filled with maternal care.

But will some one careening by
Snap out the light—my time to die?
Or when I close these eyes tonight
Will I awake to see the light.

And when I go, where will I go,
The ancients say, but who doth know?
Beneath the earth—and then—I'm through,
Ah, death alone knows what I drew.

I say what's written down must be,
We cannot change an "I" or "t,"
But who knows when or why or how,
Tomorrow or next year or—now?

RIPPLING RHYMES by Walt Mason

HANDSOME FEET

Men often laugh at Johnson's feet, they are so large and flat and square, and when he goes along the street they block the traffic there and there. And strangers turn around to gaze at Johnson's feet as on he goes; "We've not," they say, "in all our days beheld a pair of hoofs like those." And Pete and Mike are jests from Mike and Pete and from the timbers village sports; Johnson tools his widespread feet along the alleys and the courts. But those who know this Johnson best, who know the course that he pursues, don't spring the cruel jest or quip or jest about the cushion of his shoes. For Johnson's feet are always found wherever human people dwell; where gritty human notions most abound, they bear him patiently and well. The man's feet fell and spoiled his luck; and Johnson turns his well-trained feet toward that stricken shack. The night is black and thick with rain, and Johnson knows that Gaffer Brown is writhing on a couch of pain away across the sleeping town. His feet are sore and fain would rest, they are not tired to walk or west; but Johnson turns them south by west and goes four miles to help a friend. The river rises in the night and people, roused from happy dreams, are homeless, in a kitty plight, upon an island in midstream. The poor man's humble dwelling burns; the smoke still floats from the ashes; and he, whichever way he turns, sees only ruin and disaster. Johnson's feet are always there to find the road to succor like that; to take the hungry Hayward some wholesome tripe and headcheese.

Years Realize Prophetic Vision of General Otis

S ANGELES FULFILLING DESTINY HE FORESAW

th Anniversary of Death of blisher Sees City Far Along Path He Helped to Blaze

TODAY is the tenth anniversary of the death of Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, chief owner, president and general manager of the Los Angeles Times from 1882 to 1917. Because his life and activities during that momentous period were so inseparably and importantly intertwined with the life of the community it is fitting that The Times should on this occasion review briefly some of the high lights of his extraordinary career—a career that wrought mightily for the community which he loved and in which he had implanted unwavering faith.

Even from this distance—a decade since his passing—the towering character of this stalwart Los Angeles pioneer stands forth more clearly and impressively. The perspective brings a more compelling recognition of the soundness of his vision for Los Angeles, the accuracy of his prophecy, the dauntless fortitude with which he waged battle after battle for the land of his choice the rights, the privileges and the destiny which he believed and declared to be the God-given heritage of Los Angeles and of the Southwest.

It is but natural. The world rarely appreciates a truly great man in full value during his lifetime. The truer perspective which time can give is necessary for an adequate appraisal of such a career. All history reinforces such an experience. The deeds of great men of past generations were but dimly seen by their contemporaries. It required time and the broader and more accurate appraisal afforded by time to enable subsequent historians to accurately and fully appreciate the magnitude of the lives and achievements of those whose names have been lifted up out of the ruck of mankind.

As the years pass and as Los Angeles continues to grow and to develop along the identical lines which Gen. Otis foresaw, the accuracy of his vision and the value of his accomplishments are driven home with cumulative force. Likewise there is more clearly revealed the greatness of the soul of the man who fought on, and on, and on, for high ideals and never wavered even in those times when he stood almost alone in the midst of wreckage and malign forces that seemed too formidable for any man to cope with. Time has proved that he was right. Events have demonstrated the accuracy of his prophecies. He was forced to combat tremendous odds because other men could not see and stand so clearly and because less stalwart souls wavered in the face of seemingly inevitable defeat.

With a background of distinguished military service Gen. Otis came to Los Angeles in the full flush of his manhood and of his powers. Los Angeles had a population of about 12,500 when in 1882 he took charge of the little daily Times and the weekly Mirror. The Times was not only small but it was rather sleepy and lacking in civic virility. Yet Gen. Otis's first declaration was this: "I enter upon my public duties in Los Angeles with profound faith in the future development and sure destiny of the city."

FAITH IN LOS ANGELES

His faith in Los Angeles became a deeply rooted part of the man. He reiterated it editorially year in and year out but in private conversations he was constantly reiterating and again and again his faith in the destiny of Los Angeles to become a metropolis such as the world had never seen. He based his faith in Los Angeles and voiced prediction of its coming greatness upon practically every business report he made to his associates in the organization of which he was the head. He acted upon that faith. He was determined to get it and thundered mightily on behalf of great underlying principles and of the policies that have become the foundation for our city's growth. He was not surprised when the city grew to a population of 100,000. When the 100,000 mark was reached he regarded it as a matter of course and continued to talk of the city in terms of millions of people and civic facilities and prowess in proportion. He lived to see Los Angeles grow to almost half a million. Today it is the belief of us that there are more than a million inhabitants here and we are well on the way to a second million, but that it would come forty years ago just as clear to him.

He fought for the principles of industrial freedom because he knew they were right and that Los Angeles must stand squarely upon them to achieve her destiny. Almost alone he saw then what all the world came to recognize now. He battled for eight years to secure the harbor at San Pedro and to bring about its development. He said in 1882 that Los Angeles must prepare to be a great world port to carry on stupendous trade with the nations of the world. He said it now but that was more than a quarter of a century ago.

HEROIC BATTLE FOR PRINCIPLE

He achieved national recognition largely because of the heroic battle he rose in his heroic and unwavering stand on industrial questions. Often misquoted, misunderstood and maligned in his position is still occasionally misunderstood by uninformed persons. Fortunately so, for his declarations of principle were ever the same and often repeated. It is of interest, therefore, again to quote from his fundamental utterances on the question:

"I support the vital principle of liberty under law. We believe in freedom of action and free conditions in the industries, within the limitations of right and reason. We are for the principle of opportunity, fair play and an even chance for all workers. We believe in the domain of labor everywhere—labor of every kind. We hold that they should not be subjected to coercion or outrage by its members, or persecuted independent workers by any organization. But we have opposed and will oppose with unflagging zeal law-abiding organized labor as an institution because it was organized. But we have opposed and will oppose with unflagging zeal law-abiding unorganized labor, whether organized or unorganized, wherever it has refused to be so or has tolerated within its ranks, or justified, crimes done by its members, or persecuted independent workers in the exercise of their indefeasible right to work freely, according to their individual choice, and to have the full protection of the government in the exercise of that right—a right constitutional, industrial and in its very nature.

FOR FREEDOM AND FAIRNESS

"We believe that labor of all sorts, whether independent or organized, unskilled or common, should be rewarded according to its just deserts, and that neither side should, even in times of strife, take advantage of the necessities of the other side. We believe in the industries, for peace, concord, loyalty and co-operation between workmen and their employers. We encourage loyalty and stand for right working conditions wherever and whenever they will result in free individual action, abundant employment and a wide demand for labor at fair and regular wages. We unqualifiedly declare that we doubt the wisdom of, and dispute the absolute necessity for, "organized" labor in the industries in the form which such organization has taken in recent years. As we have written in 1911.] We believe that better results are secured through direct and open relations between employer and employee in the adjustment of all questions of employment, wages, hours, conditions, rules, etc., in each establishment or employment, than working conditions cannot be the same under all circumstances and varying conditions. Yet, despite these considerations, we do not dispute, and never have disputed, the right of labor to organize in its own way, lawfully.

"Loyal, faithful and continuous obedience to law is the remedy for industrial warfare.

"It is, in brief, the platform on which Gen. Otis stood and against which the storm raged for years. Because of his stand The Times and their families were subjected to insult and injury. Gen. Otis and his associates were vilified and misrepresented. On October 1, 1910, labor-union leaders dynamited The Times building at First and Broadway, destroying the plant and murdering twenty innocent workmen. The arch-perpetrators of this crime were arrested and brought to trial and in the face of conclusive evidence of their guilt they confessed and were sentenced. It is significant that the confessed convictions of Gen. Otis and of his undying advocacy of the high principles which he espoused that, even after this diabolical attack, he reiterated his stand in the same temperate, but firm manner as before. The quotations given above were printed in The Times following the dynamiting outrage as well.

THE ULTIMATE TRIUMPH

He had faith in the ultimate triumph of the high principles which he espoused and reinforced him in his long fight, especially during the years when his enemies were rampant and his allies few. At times The Times was virtually the only newspaper in America which championed the cause of industrial freedom, where now many courageous journals have taken a similar stand.

In Los Angeles, although the timid sought the easier way and many prominent citizens who saw eye to eye with the General on the question also stood shoulder to shoulder with him in the struggle. These refused to bend the knee to Baal and to them Gen. Otis gave his unstinted admiration and commendation. The strength of Gen. Otis's position was magnified because the battle was for principle, for Americanism, for the community as well as for The Times.

Nor was he shaken at any time in his absolute confidence that adherence to the principle of "Liberty under Law" would redound to the profit of Los Angeles. When labor-union extremists caused to be broadcast throughout the United States the sneering charge that Los Angeles was a "scab" city because open-shop conditions prevailed here, Gen. Otis foresaw that this very effort to injure and malign Los Angeles would become the city's greatest asset. Again he was right. Skilled mechanics all over the land, instead of accepting the warning, began to flock here to enjoy the very condition described and to escape the criminal union domination under which they had long chafed. Manufacturers and other employers of labor read the denunciations and warnings and straightway chose Los Angeles as the location of their activities. The nation-wide advertising of the unions intended to keep both labor and capital away, brought them here, just as Gen. Otis foresaw and the city received an impetus which sent it far on its way to metropolitan greatness. Coincidentally The Times waxed strong and prospered until it became the largest newspaper in the world. During several years it has attained the proud position of being first among all the newspapers in the United States in the volume of advertising. Identical in principles and ideals, The Times and the community for nearly half a century have gone forward hand in hand and pace for pace. The ten years since Gen. Otis's death have seen realized not only his major prophecies for Los Angeles, but coincidentally and consequently a parallel growth of The Times itself.

PROPHECIES COME TRUE

The General's steadfast faith in the great future for Los Angeles, iterated and reiterated by him in spoken and written words, was itself a notable factor in the upbuilding of the city.

On June 14, 1883, he stated in a nutshell the goal of Los Angeles: In place of isolated ranches we want hundreds of intelligent and happy homes dotting our valleys and hillsides, and in place of importation we want our own manufactories, with all their accompanying helps to growth and a larger prosperity. To this end every legitimate means of advertising should be made use of.

Every week for a long period he wrote an editorial from a column to a column and a half long, depicting in beautiful English the charm of various districts about Los Angeles and reiterating his faith in their ultimate destiny. Hollywood as it is today, he visioned thus in an editorial of June 23, 1883:

One of the most attractive features is the mountains where the range is cut by the Cahuenga Pass. Some mighty Titan must have chiseled and carved the range into perfect symmetry. At its base are the vast grain fields that now in the harvest season look like a golden sea. A few years hence they will be covered with gardens, and the mountains will be a wall round about clusters of prosperous homes that will be planted there.

The power of Gen. Otis's faith lay in the fact that it was not merely for publication as a policy of the paper, but was so deep-seated and genuine that it permeated all of his private writings. Follow his confidential annual reports to his stockholders from year to year in the following excerpts:

1888—Los Angeles is destined to be a great city and The Times is here to help make it so. I am convinced that we are about to have an era of prosperity more sound and more permanent than any we have ever known.

1904—We have here an exceptional city, an exceptional community, living in a land signally blessed of heaven, and it is a proud and grateful task to be able to serve such a people and help build up such a land. . . . We are aiding to build the State as well as the resourceful Southwest, a vast region with great and varied resources which is surely destined to yet see the star of empire shining above it in glorious majesty.

1909—The general outlook for Los Angeles and the splendid region round about it is brighter than the outlook of any city or community on the continent.

1911—The Times has seen Los Angeles increase from 11,000 to 360,000 population. Great things have been accomplished; greater things will certainly be achieved. Los Angeles has secured the San Pedro Harbor. The building, commercial and manufacturing development of the city is unparalleled. Panama Canal is almost in sight. Owens River water will come by the time we are fairly ready to receive it. San Fernando Valley is being transformed from a grain field into an empire of highly cultivated farms. Countless other bodies of fertile land are destined to yield immeasurable riches.

1913—Los Angeles continues to make mighty strides in the direction of true greatness among the foremost cities of the world. Here she sits, calm, confident and imposing, gleaming in the ardent glances of the semitropic sun. She continues to march steadily forward without halt or back-step toward that illustrious goal which destiny has surely chosen for her. She fills the wide-open eyes of a wondering and admiring world; her future is assured.

GOOD ROADS, COUNTY AND TRANSCONTINENTAL

Long before the automobile was in general use, Gen. Otis realized the need for good roads. As far back as July 7, 1886, he prophesied:

Los Angeles is destined to be a city of "magnificent distances." But when these distances are filled with villa homes such as are springing up all about us, they will be magnificent in more than name.

On August 1, 1894, eight years later, he inaugurated a campaign for highways that he maintained persistently during the years that followed:

We have said it before and we say again that the cost of a system of good roads in Los Angeles county would be more than repaid within a few years in the advance value of property along their routes. This is an enterprise in which the county and city can certainly afford to join hands and work together, as the improvement is one which would be of the greatest value to every citizen of the county, whether he be a farmer or a merchant or merely an ordinary citizen, who once in awhile travels by buggy over the country roads.

On January 4, 1900, he wrote:

If properly constructed and maintained a transcontinental highway would be the greatest possible object lesson in furtherance of the good-roads movement. Every wheelman in the country could well afford to contribute something to the cause, for the sake of the moral effect it would have on the movement for good roads all over the United States. Besides the wheelman, the manufacturers and users of automobiles might be relied upon to lend to the enterprise both financial and moral aid.

At a time when Southern California was made up largely of huge ranches on which dry farming was practiced, Gen. Otis repeatedly reiterated the need for more intensive agriculture made possible by irrigation. In May, 1894, he stated in an editorial:

It is safe to predict that within a few years, land in California that does not possess irrigation facilities, will be little sought after. The coming decade is likely to witness a marvelous increase in the irrigation enterprises of the State.

COMMERCIAL EXPANSION

Nearly half a century ago, Gen. Otis had a vision of the commercial destiny of Los Angeles that is almost incredible in view of the fact that the city at that time had no harbor worth mentioning and scarcely more than 12,000 population. The following was written on November 11, 1882:

A glance at the map of the Pacific Coast will demonstrate the truth of the assertion that Los Angeles with its superb geographical location; its port of San Pedro; its possession of the most eligible pass, geographically, in the whole range of the Sierras; the shortest railroad line across the American Continent within the United States, and the certainty of securing in good time other connecting and tributary roads—must inevitably become a large and prosperous maritime and commercial metropolis . . . The commercial advantages of Los Angeles are legion, but with the constantly increasing advantages follows the necessity for hard and persistent work.

Indeed, the General was not one to satisfy himself with prophecies and theories, but was constantly striving for specific means toward the ends that he foresaw. He believed firmly in the necessity for organized advertising for Southern California and laid the foundations for what has been probably the greatest prolonged community campaign that has ever been carried on. As early as November 28, 1882, he said in the editorial columns:

The Times has steadily advocated the establishment of a Chamber of Commerce or Board of Trade that would efficiently foster and develop the resources of Los Angeles city and county. We learn that a number of members of the Produce Exchange have expressed their willingness to participate with outside business men in the transaction of Board of Trade business. The Times accordingly suggests that a meeting of business men and capitalists be held at an early date at the Produce Exchange rooms, at the close of Exchange business when a general interchange of views will doubtless develop some tangible plan of future action.

MEANS TO COMMERCIAL SUPREMACY

Once the Chamber of Commerce was established, Gen. Otis consistently played up its activities prominently upon the editorial page, and worked with it to the upbuilding of the city. With the chamber, Senator Stephen White and other prominent citizens, the General for eight years led the fight for a free deep-water harbor at San Pedro. As early as April 7, 1893, he wrote in the editorial columns:

We hold that if the government spends a large amount of money to establish the outer harbor at San Pedro, it will in no way lessen the commercial importance of Santa Monica, but will augment it. . . . We say it is the manifest duty of every well-wisher of Southern California to do all in his power to secure the government appropriation as recommended by the board of engineers. It is the duty and the best policy of Santa Monica people no less than of the rest. We must strike for San Pedro or we shall get nothing from the government.

On January 1, 1895, the General summarized the projects important to the commercial development and urged their passage:

There are four important improvements which cannot be much longer delayed, the completion of which will undoubtedly give the citizens of Los Angeles a chance to see what they can accomplish in the way of building up a great city.

These are:

First. The construction of a government deep-sea harbor at San Pedro—deep and capacious enough to accommodate the largest vessels that float. This will at once enable Los Angeles to become a successful rival of any port on the Pacific Coast.

Second. The Nicaragua Canal. The passage of a bill for the construction of this canal by the present Congress is quite probable. It is impossible in a few lines to even mention the great advantages which such a canal would confer upon this section. It is enough to say that the moment it is open to traffic, the value of every acre of land in California would be at least doubled.

Third. A railroad to Salt Lake City by way of Southern Nevada and Utah. This road will open up to Los Angeles vast deposits of rich coal and iron besides shortening the route to the East 300 miles.

Fourth. An independent railroad to the San Joaquin Valley, a project long since suggested and advocated by The Times. Such a railroad, the construction of which is now agitated, even in San Francisco, and Fresno, would open to the traffic of Los Angeles one of the richest valleys in the world, which is destined before long to be densely populated which by means of irrigation can be made to support a family to every ten acres.

All of these projects promoted by Gen. Otis persistently for nearly a decade have come to pass.

A granite tablet formerly imbedded in the wall of the old Times building and now in the south wall of the present Times building stands as a monument to the fight waged for the harbor. It says:

"This tablet placed here by the people of Los Angeles commemorates their appreciation of the effective services of the Los Angeles Times in the contest for a free harbor at San Pedro—April 27, 1899.

INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION

From the very beginning of his editorship, Gen. Otis hammered continually at the need for industry as a stabilizing force in the young community 1 per cent of its present size. On November 7, 1882, he urged in a leading editorial:

In order to provide against the temporary depression which must inevitably occur from time to time, steady employment must be furnished. In no way can this be accomplished so thoroughly as through the medium of manufactures—the "balance wheel of commerce," and no city in the United States can offer superior inducements to Los Angeles as a field for manufacturing enterprise.

At the time this was written all the factories of the city could be housed in any one of our big plants: today the industrial output of the city is over a billion and a quarter dollars a year.

Nor was this giant prophet of the Southwest satisfied with generalities. One after the other he took up specific industries showing their opportunities in Southwest. Upon a report of the standing timber in Oregon, he commented on June 10, 1883:

If the money expended on the Coast for the transportation from the East of our elegant furniture could be spent at home, and our cabinet shops could compete with those of Eastern States in the manufacture of costly furniture from our elegant woods, a business could be built up that might assume mammoth proportions, and add materially to the industrial wealth of the Coast.

That was over forty years ago: today the annual output of our furniture factories is over $115,000,000 and not long ago one of our plants competed with the world and won the contract for the hand-carved solid mahogany furniture for a great church in England.

THE PROPHET AND HIS PREDICTIONS

1882—No city in the United States can offer superior inducements to Los Angeles as a field for manufacturing enterprises.

1882—Los Angeles must inevitably become a large and prosperous maritime and commercial metropolis.

1883—A few years hence our fields and hillsides will be covered with gardens and the mountains will be a wall round about clusters of prosperous homes that will be planted there.

1886—The progress of Southern California cannot be hindered. Nature designed her for a great State, and such she will not fail to become.

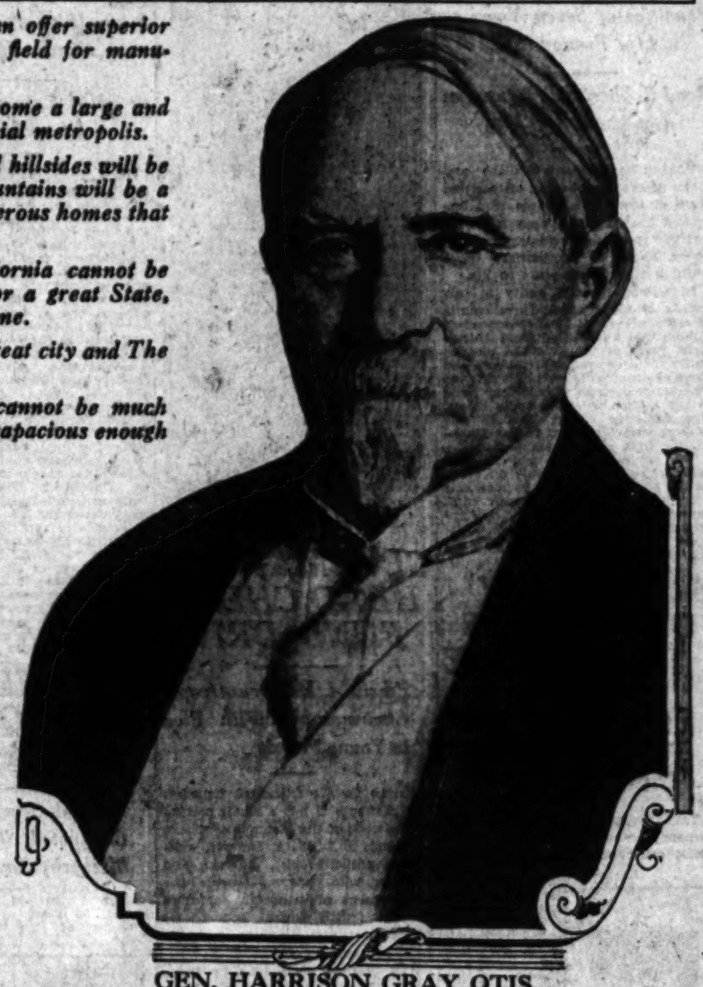
1888—Los Angeles is destined to be a great city and The Times is here to help make it so.

1895—Four important improvements cannot be much longer delayed, a deep sea harbor, capacious enough to hold the largest ships afloat, the Panama Canal, a railroad to Salt Lake City to cut off 300 miles in travel to the East, a railroad through the San Joaquin Valley.

1904—We are aiding to build the State as well as the resourceful Southwest, a vast region which is surely destined to see the star of empire shining above it in glorious majesty.

1909—The general outlook for Los Angeles and the splendid region round about it is brighter than the outlook of any city or community on the continent.

1890-1917—We stand for freedom in the industries, for peace, concord, loyalty and fair play between workmen and their employers. An honest, faithful and continuous obedience to law is the great remedy for industrial warfare.



GEN. HARRISON GRAY OTIS

LIFELONG BATTLE FOR A PRINCIPLE BEARS FRUIT

Los Angeles Grows to Metropolis on Foundation of Industrial Liberty Laid by General Otis

General Otis's Last Instructions

Near the end of his long service as editor of The Times, Gen. Otis addressed to his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chandler, to whom his controlling interest in The Times was transferred, a remarkable letter of instructions and suggestions as to the lines on which The Times should be conducted after his demise.

These instructions have been faithfully carried out; they form the foundation of broad policy upon which this journal has been and will be conducted: This letter was, in part, as follows:

Preserve and protect with steadfastness and determination the record, traditions and achievements of The Times, and continue its fixed and leading policies and methods; uphold its aims, purposes and aspirations in all large and essential particulars, and throughout the varying mutations of present-day journalism, perpetuate unimpaired its independent and unfettered course.

Constantly, consistently and loyally uphold and defend the Constitution and the flag, the Congress and the courts, the executive power within its prescribed and lawful limitations and cherish the Army and the Navy, those bulwarks and strong arms of the government.

Stand undeviatingly for Liberty under law, for industrial and all other forms of republican freedom, and for sound government as the surest safeguard of the nation, the State, the city and the home. Bravely face in their defense, whenever the need comes, the frenzied mob and the proscriptive madness of the hour.

Stand for honor, honesty and order in the State, the nation and the home, and for that private and public morality which are essential to the perpetuity of sound, human government. While courageously supporting these virtuous principles, at the same time oppose with all your might their opposites and whatever tends to the demoralization of human society or jeopardizes the safety of the land or the rights and liberties of its citizens. Antagonize unceasingly all allied private or semiprivate industrial combines which would unlawfully wrest from the free-born American citizen his guaranteed constitutional right to industrial, personal or political freedom and make him the slave of an arrogant and monopolistic trades despotism. While striking hard and deserved blows against these and other intolerable evils, keep in mind that better state where there shall be "peace upon earth and good will among men." Scourge as with a whip of scorpions dishonesty, pretense, hypocrisy, scoundrelism, treason to truth and the country and every form of evil that threatens with destruction the home, the community or the country, and at the same time encouraging every sound tendency and condition in human society that makes for its preservation, stability and endurance on high and right lines.

Stand for sound, rational and tested business methods and policies in the management of The Times newspaper, as well as in the conduct of commercial and public business, in order that this journal and all honest people may "live long and prosper," grow in grace and be happy. Hold up the hands and cheer the hearts of the lowly and deserving, no matter how humble they may be; quail not before the aggressions of unjust power, and live and die game and true. Fear God and do right.

Encourage all free, independent and honest labor, no matter how humble, so it be honestly conducted; at the same time not hesitating to support and defend powerful financial, commercial and industrial alliances, provided that they, too, operate honestly and legitimately, when organized to accomplish mighty and worthy tasks too formidable to be undertaken by single individuals; for true it is that it is not the size of the operation, but the integrity with which it is conducted, that determines its legitimacy. Always bear in mind the demonstrated truth that it is, after all, the same, brave, level-headed, self-restrained, right-hearted, honest men and women of the land upon whom rests, and will rest, the responsibility for holding the family, society, business, government and the country together.

Continue the upstanding and long-pursued policy of this journal in working, day in and day out, for the upbuilding on sound lines of the favored and favorite city and section wherein The Times and its makers have their homes; and continue also to aid and abet the unhalting advance of all California, the entire Pacific Coast and the "ultimate West."

Ever place patriotism, duty and honor, public and private morality and the true interests of the State and country before mere commercialism or material success in the conduct of The Times. Thus may this journal of ours be caused to grow in strength, usefulness and power, able to plough through the turbulent sea of journalism like a full-rigged man-of-war.

Concerning the all-important subject of the matter and scope of the general contents of the paper after it shall have come under your ownership, control and management, it is, of course, neither practicable nor proper for me to speak here except in a very general way. You know, and will always bear in mind, the paramount fact that this journal is, and must continue to be, first of all a newspaper—a vehicle for the dissemination of current news reports and information; a faithful recorder of contemporaneous history and affairs, of new knowledge, and of the tremendous daily happenings of the mighty present around all the globe, no matter what nature or complexion the occurrences may be, provided they possess human interest. Moreover, The Times, being a proper medium for thinkers, they will be given, as always in the past, impartial hearings in its broad columns whenever they are able to enlighten the world, or contribute to those transcendent problems of human life, human living and human government which, if they are to be wisely solved, will always require the best thought and effort of the best men and women upon earth. In the columns of The Times will be found, I doubt not, in the future as in the past, graphic accounts of the doings of the far-flung human race; absorbing narratives of adventure and achievement; of research and investigation; of travel and discovery; of progress in the arts, sciences and invention; of toil and triumph; of hardship, endurance and ultimate success; of everything, indeed, that is new to men and of living interest.

The press is a colossal surveyor of the world-wide news field, scanning the entire civilized globe, and faithfully purveying to an ever-waiting public the luminous record of daily and mighty happenings among men and nations. I am convinced that you will continue to make The Times do its full share in the strenuous work of the press in general, making it what it has long aimed to be—but even more so—a powerful, far-reaching daily news-field-glass, exposing to the public view the world's foremost events and occurrences, and proclaiming them widely to the sons of men at Sol's diurnal revolution; to make this newspaper, in brief,

"A map of the busy world,
Its fluctuations and its vast concerns."

So may we confidently hope for The Times an honorable, a foremost and a permanent place in the large field of American journalism, and that always those men and women who serve it faithfully may feel high and genuine pride in their personal alliances with "ours."

Accurate news gathering, correct reporting, skillful editing, graphic illustrating and good printing all go to make up a finished modern newspaper, which should, of course, be written in pure, forceful, unstilted and luminous English.

Finally, bearing in mind that truth is the greatest thing in all the world, and duty the first concern of good men and women, I enjoin the foregoing precepts, principles and practices upon you in the future conduct of the Los Angeles Times, because of my affections for you and for it; I enjoin you both to guard well your precious health, as well as the sacred trust now by me committed to your trusted and trustful hands and hearts.

With good aims and general purposes toward all concerned in this pregnant transaction, with unfeigned regards and my living blessing, to be followed, let us hope, by a blissful reunion in the mysterious Beyond, coupled with undying associations and imperishable recollections of our mutual campaigns upon earth,

I subscribe myself your steadfast and affectionate father,

[Signed]

Advertising Credited With Bringing Increase

Growing at a rate more than five times as fast as the general rate for the United States, the population of Los Angeles was 1,151,322 on the 1st inst. This number is 80,481 greater than on July 1, one year ago. The figures on population were compiled by a statistical agency of national reputation and were made public by the All-Year Club of Southern California.

In addition to the permanent population as given, the city now has a tourist population of 117,000. This is 14,000 in excess of the tourist population of one year ago.

AUTO TOURISTS INCREASE

Visitors by motor car are coming into the State at a greater rate than ever before. The influx to the end of June was 33 per cent greater than it was last year. If this same percentage of increase is followed through the year, the State, by the end of 1927, will have entertained nearly 500,000 motor visitors coming here in 160,000 cars.

The increase in permanent population in general and the increase in tourist population, specifically was ascribed to the advertising activity of the All-Year Club of Southern California.

ADVERTISING AIDS

The increase in tourist population coincides almost exactly with the increased advertising expenditure of the All-Year Club this year over last.

"The club," said former Senator Frank P. Flint, chairman of the board of directors, "spent approximately $500,000 during the past fiscal year. The tourist visitors it has brought here are expending money at the rate of $10,000,000 per month. They are enjoying California. Many will stay here. Our business men should fully realize that the tourist business is the greatest business in Southern California. It is a combination of all other businesses. Inasmuch as all benefit from the business, all should share the advertising expense."

Breakfast Club Plans Meeting at Palos Verdes

The first meeting of the Palos Verdes Breakfast Club, affiliated with the Los Angeles Breakfast Club through the Breakfast Club Internationals, is scheduled to take place tomorrow morning at 8:15 o'clock, at the Palos Verdes Golf clubhouse. Jay Lawyer will be host to the members. This new addition to social organizations of Los Angeles county was recently formed among prominent citizens of Los Angeles and Palos Verdes Estates.

Some of the members are W. J. Braunsthweiger, Warren Kinney, Elven Musick, Robert Farquhar, L. M. McDonald, Frederick Law Olmsted, Arthur Bard, Orra Monette, Myron Hunt, J. C. Low, Samuel Newman and W. W. Whitecotton.

The club owns a fine stable of horses and tomorrow's breakfast will be preceded by a canter through the hills at Palos Verdes Estates beginning at 7 o'clock. It plans a schedule of breakfasts on Sunday, Wednesday and Saturday of each week.

Young Woman Arraigned in Assault Case

Charged with assaulting another woman because of her broken love dream, Margaret Dalton, said by police to be Mrs. Albert Kieffe of 1018 Albany street, yesterday was arraigned before Municipal Judge Westover on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and possessing a blackjack.

The attack is said to have occurred at the home of Carl Scott, 1403 West Tenth Place, with Mrs. Olive Scott as the victim. The Dalton girl, whose husband recently left her, according to Detective Lieutenant Stevens, had gone to the Scott home to find where her husband could be found. She was captured by Scott, said to be a cafe proprietor.

Judge Westover fixed bail at $500 and set preliminary examination for August 12.

DECORATIONS ASKED FOR LABOR SESSIONS

The Central Labor Council yesterday asked the City Council for $2000 to be used in decorating the streets and entertaining the delegates during the national convention of the American Federation of Labor convention to be held here beginning October 2.

OHIO RALLY NEXT WEEK

Californians who once lived in Ohio are to meet at Bixby Park, Long Beach, for an all-day picnic reunion one week from today. President Harry B. George will preside over the program of music and speaking, which is to begin at 2 o'clock.

COFFEE TASTED SUSPICIOUS

Husband in Divorce Plea Says It Sickened Him; Blames Insurance

Because of his insurance policy, Ernest H. Lopnow could not take any pleasure in his coffee, he told Judge Falk yesterday.

"She said I was worth more dead than alive, and my coffee always made me sick," he testified. "It seemed mighty funny to me."

Lopnow was discussing his wife, Marguerite V. Lopnow. On the motion of Attorney H. Duncan, for Lopnow, he was granted a decree of divorce.

PUBLIC TO VIEW NEW STRUCTURE

Security Title Insurance Officials Will be Hosts at Building Monday

Arrangements have been completed by the Security Title Insurance and Guarantee Company for a public reception in its new building on the southeast corner of Sixth street and Grand avenue from 2 to 9 p.m. Monday. Preparations are being made to conduct several thousand people through the offices and plant of the company during the reception hours.

The company will open for business in the new building Monday morning, and will continue operations until the hour of the reception.

A musical program will be given by the Hollywood Trio, composed of members of the Philharmonic Orchestra, and refreshments will be served to visitors. A committee composed of officials of the company and members of the executive staff will escort visitors through the three floors of the building where the offices are located.

The committee in charge of the program is composed of R. G. Kemp, vice-president; R. L. Dunham, vice-president; James R. Ford, vice-president and manager of the Los Angeles office; Charles Buckley of the business development department; J. S. Loofbourow, assistant manager, and Harvey Humphrey, advertising manager.

ANIMALS' HOSPITAL ENDOWED

Defense League Raises Fund for Modern Plant; Will Build Shortly

Establishment of a foundation fund was effected by the American Animal Defense League yesterday at a meeting in its headquarters in the Transportation Building. The amount was not made public but it is said to run into six figures. A modern shelter and office building equipped with animal ambulances, hospital quarters and other requirements is to be erected and income from the fund is to be used for operating expenses.

Work is to begin on quarantine quarters and kennels as soon as a desirable location is found, officers of the league announced. During the reconstruction period the Alhambra Humane Society will respond to calls over a free telephone service which has been arranged through the Los Angeles Telephone Company.

Officers of the Animal Defense League are Mrs. Fannie Thompson Kessler, president; F. A. Linck, treasurer, and Carl Johnson and Gardner Griffith, directors.

Wedding at Sea Illegal, Wife's Divorce Plea

Even if she were legally married it was not a legal marriage, is the somewhat unusual contention raised by Frances Geidner Thornburg in a double-barreled suit for annulment she filed yesterday against Jack Wood Thornburg.

She relates that, telling her it was all regular and lawful, he took her out in a motor boat from San Diego July 20, 1925, and had the captain of the launch marry them, outside the three-mile line. There was no license, and this, therefore, was simply a mock marriage, she argues.

And anyway, she was only 16 years of age and did not have her parents' consent, she says. She asks for the custody of two children she bore before a separation last June 22, and a division of $40,000 worth of community property she alleges was accumulated during the time she lived with Thornburg.

Ex-County Dry Agent Sentenced to Prison Term

F. C. Garretson, former county prohibition agent, yesterday was sentenced to a term of a year and a day in Federal prison by United States District Judge Henning, following his conviction on a charge of impersonating a Federal prohibition officer. Garretson also was fined $500.

According to testimony introduced at Garretson's trial, the former county officer entered homes in Boyle Heights posing as a Federal agent. At the time of the offense, it was stated, Garretson was not connected with the county.

TITLER GOING EAST

Ralph Spence to Confer Regarding Staging His Latest Play

Ralph Spence, New York playwright who has been in Hollywood titling motion picture productions, will leave for the East next week to confer with Gotham producers regarding the staging in the early fall of his latest play, a comedy drama, as yet unnamed.

Spence has also written a musical show for Flo Ziegfeld which has been temporarily titled "What A Girl!" He will arrange with the beauty-show producer for the presentation of that offering as well while in the East.

Spence is best known as a playwright for "The Gorilla," a mock mystery melodrama, which will be made in film form by First National soon with Al Santell directing and Charles Murray and Fred Kelsey in the roles of the boneheaded detectives.

THEATER IN OAKLAND MAY BE PURCHASED

Pending negotiations for the purchase of the American Theater of Oakland were announced yesterday by H. B. Franklin, president of the West Coast Theaters Corporation, who said he had been approached by Rex Midgely, owner of the Oakland house, with an offer to sell. If the deal is closed, Franklin said, the American will be added to the West Coast chain on or about September 2, next. The consideration was not disclosed.

NEGRO OUTLAW TRIO SENTENCED

Members of Terrorist Band Given Prison Terms

Penalties of Seven Years to Life Pronounced

Road Robberies and Outrages Confessed by Three

Howard Hart, Francis Wallace and Major Moore, members of an asserted band of negro desperadoes who terrorized Los Angeles county highways last May, yesterday were sentenced by Judge Hardy to penitentiary terms running from seven years to life.

Hart, who pleaded guilty to six counts of robbery and three counts of criminal assault, was sentenced to Folsom for a term of from thirty-eight years to life; Wallace pleaded guilty to three counts of robbery and three of criminal assault and received a sentence of from twenty-four years to life in San Quentin, while Moore, who admitted taking part in one robbery was committed to San Quentin for from seven years to life.

The three men are said to have made a practice of holding up automobile parties, robbing the men and then subjecting their women companions to attacks. The trio was apprehended after an extensive manhunt conducted by the Sheriff's office and the police.

AUTHORITY ON INDIANS TO LECTURE

Walter McClintock Lived Among Blackfeet Twenty Years to Learn Secrets

Twenty years among the Blackfeet Indians and the accumulation of the finest collection of Indian photographs of any single tribe in the world have equipped Walter McClintock, new Research Fellow in Ethnology of the Southwest Museum, to interpret to interested Californians the old tribal life of the first Americans.

WALTER McCLINTOCK

Mr. McClintock was adopted in 1896 by Chief Mad Wolf of the Blackfeet as his son, under the Indian name of White-Weasel. Through his friendship with the older members of the Blackfeet, he obtained invaluable records of the legends, religious rites, and political organization of the Indians of the Glacier National Park region.

Mr. McClintock will bring his collection of 377 hand-colored photographs to the Southwest Museum in February, 1928, immediately after closing an exhibition at the Carnegie Institute at Pittsburgh. It is expected that he will visit the museum next October, however, to deliver the second of the series of Sunday afternoon addresses presented there throughout the winter months. Eventually he will live in Los Angeles permanently.

Mr. McClintock is spending the summer among his Blackfeet friends and preparing a lecture entitled "The Sun Dance of the Blackfeet Indians." In addition to his photographs, he further conveys the Indian atmosphere by singing the old songs of the warpath and of Indian courtship. He is a graduate of Yale University, from which he also holds the degree of M.A.

PSYCHOLOGIST TO LECTURE

Fenwicke L. Holmes, author, teacher, psychologist and claimant of discovery of the underlying law of mind, is to explain his doctrines in a series of free evening lectures at the Trinity Auditorium, August 4 to 16, next. His philosophy is founded on a law as concrete as the laws of chemistry, the lecturer contends, used by successful men unconsciously. He proposes to show how others may use it consciously.

LEADER OF ANNUAL CHARITY CAMPAIGN

Edwin A. Meserve

CLUBMAN TO HEAD CHEST FUND DRIVE

Edwin A. Meserve Accepts Chairmanship With Plea to Young People

Caring for the friendless, homeless and destitute is but a small portion of the work of the Community Chest, according to Edwin A. Meserve, well-known philanthropist, clubman and attorney, who yesterday accepted the appointment of campaign chairman for the fourth annual appeal for funds for the Community Chest to be made in late October.

The greatest good done by Community Chest agencies is among the social welfare organizations of the city where young people are helped to a better understanding of life and its responsibilities, he explained.

"If we can teach the young people of today their obligation to the future, if we can give the man, woman or child who needs assistance the understanding that, in turn, they must help lift the burden for some one else, we are bringing the world to a better understanding of right living and thinking," Mr. Meserve said.

"Every dollar invested in Community Chest is an investment in the future welfare of the city."

Council Sells Burbank Tract to Subdivider

The City Council yesterday sold to Clifford F. Reid, Inc., 621 South Western avenue, seventy acres of land owned by the city water department in West Burbank, for $427,500. The department acquired the land for its water rights, but is said to have no further use for the property.

The land adjoins the First National studios property and will be subdivided. The Reid bid was the only offer received for the property. The Board of Water and Power Commissioners had already accepted the bid.

POISON HELD DEATH CAUSE

According to reports from the Coroner's office, Kenneth Pickerel, 5-year-old son of E. L. Pickerel of 3004 Ashbury street, died at the General Hospital yesterday from the effects of what is thought to be arsenic poisoning. The little boy's body was removed to the County Morgue and an autopsy ordered by the Coroner.

INQUIRY FAILS TO FIND CRIME

Investigation of Inventor's Death Closed

Little Hope Entertained of Murder Hearing

Proof of Poison Blocked in Glendale Case

Without uncovering any evidence to prove murder, the investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death of John H. Carson, Glendale inventor, was virtually brought to a close last night.

Carson died on the 11th inst. after an illness of four days, having been taken ill one evening at his home after dining with his wife. Suspicions of Mrs. Mae Carson were aroused and at her request an autopsy was performed. Heart disease was given as the cause of death. Not satisfied with this, a second autopsy was performed, a chemical analysis showing the presence of arsenic in the vital organs. A Coroner's jury returned an open verdict.

Mr. Dennison and Investigator Wheeler visited Glendale yesterday and after interviewing several witnesses admitted that little hope was entertained that a murder case could be established. The fact that the body was embalmed twice before the final determination of the presence of arsenic in the vital organs, would constitute an almost insurmountable obstacle in establishing a poison murder case, in their opinion, even though arsenic is not used in the embalming processes. Another obstacle would be the fact that all the doctors on the case declared there were no symptoms of arsenic poisoning manifest by the patient.

F. W. HEIDEL OBSEQUIES ARRANGED

Funeral Services Will be Conducted Tuesday for Wetherby-Kayser Official

Funeral services for Frank W. Heidel, 60 years of age, secretary-treasurer of the Wetherby-Kayser Shoe Company, will be conducted Tuesday at the chapel of E. Clair Overholtzer. He died Thursday evening at his home, 211 East Avenue 40, after an illness of several years of heart disease.

FRANK W. HEIDEL

Mr. Heidel was born in Herkimer county, New York, and came to Los Angeles in 1890. In 1903 he became connected with the Wetherby-Kayser company, and in 1916 was made general manager, but withdrew from active work four years ago and spent most of his time on his ranch at Beaumont. He was deeply interested in Los Angeles civic affairs and was one of the organizers of the Retail Credit Men's Association.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Heidel, two brothers, Dr. L. . Heidel of Rutland, N. Y., and E. J. Heidel of Castile, N. Y., two sisters, Mrs. T. Holmes of Delmar, N. Y., and Mrs. Jessie Topper of Grant N. Y., a niece, Miss Margaret Booth of Utica, N. Y., and a nephew, Franklin Burlingame of Gr t, N. Y.

Parents Told Children May Grow Too Fast

Warnings to parents that they may in certain instances recognize ailments in their children by the rapidity with which the child attains growth, are to be given next week at the Progressive Chiropractic Association convention by Dr. John W. Koer, vice-president of the Los Angeles College of Chiropractic, where the convention sessions will be held, according to his statement yesterday.

Sudden height, unaccompanied by proportionate width or weight, Dr. Koer said, is a certain danger signal and a warning that a health examination is required.

The first meeting will be called to order Monday when Dr. Charles H. Wood, president of the school, gives the address of welcome. It is expected that an attendance from fourteen western States will be realized.

SITTER HAS RIVALS

Woman Thinks She Can Break Flagpole Endurance Record

While the mysterious steeplejack, seated on the flagpole at the Rose Room dance palace, Eighth and Spring streets, completed his eleventh day of continuous sitting at noon yesterday, a score of others have made application to Manager Joseph Lederer of the Rose Room to replace the man in case he fails to break the record or to attempt another record.

The most curious of these applications came from a woman, who voiced her confidence that she could stick it out nineteen or twenty days atop the pole. In a letter to Manager Lederer, she said she wants to go up the day the present sitter comes down and wants to stay up long enough to break his record.

CHILDREN URGED TO BE CAREFUL

Traffic Expert In HKJ Talk Cautions Boys and Girls to Avoid Dangers

A warning to children to be careful was given yesterday by Sergt. Johnson of the police safety bureau in the daily traffic talk from Radio KHJ.

He told them to cross streets only with the signal or as directed by an officer, not to run after moving vehicles, not to race across streets in front of vehicles, always to use safety lanes in crossing streets, to ride bicycles always near the curb, not to beg rides and not to loiter in the streets.

RAILROADS AID TO HEALTH

Dancers Pay New Tribute to Service

Transportation Given Credit

Helene Louise and Jean Douglas and some California green tonic.

MODERN transportation, as evidenced by Southern Pacific's handling of California's perishable crops, is proving a great aid to milady of the stage, as well as many others, in maintaining the youthful form.

This was verified yesterday by Jean Douglas and Helene Louise, dancers, who said that no matter where they are in summer or winter fresh greens from California may be had for healthful and balanced diet.

In fact the so-called spring tonics, such as bitters, sulphur and molasses, sassafras tea and others, are fading into obscurity and it's all because this improved railroad freight service makes it possible to ship green vegetables thousands of miles in perfect condition, added F. E. Scott, assistant freight traffic manager for the Southern Pacific Company.

"LOVE WITH LOVE"

"RUNNING WILD" DOES RUN WILD

Fields Personally Effective in Much of Comedy-Acrobatic Act Pleases

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

He is the poor downtrodden chap who is booted around by everybody—harmless, inefficient and with no ability to bluff. Later on he is hypnotized into thinking himself a lion, and a roaring one, and then he gets his revenge.

The "he" in this case is the principal personage in "Running Wild," showing this week at Loew's State Theater, whom W. C. Fields, as the star of this more or less comedy, makes interesting, if not entirely plausible.

"Running Wild" is at times an intolerably silly picture, heading a program that is hardly one of the top-notchers presented at the theater at Seventh and Broadway, though the stage act is enough of a novelty to please, perhaps, a majority. Said stage act presents the idea of "Jade," and mingles singing with acrobatics and a weird green-lighted setting that is likely, all told, to become a little monotonous before it is through. However, there is Gene Morgan to enliven with some jazz and patter, in which he is assisted by various members of his band. The acrobats are exceptionally good, and proffer a number of plastic poses, as well as feats of strength that are an attraction, and bring considerable applause. If it weren't all in the same mood, however, the act would be more effective.

I haven't seen Fields on the screen for a picture or so, and his sense of comedy when he has the opportunity is better from a film standpoint than heretofore. There are certain episodes in the picture that are rich in humor. There is one where he nods his head in unison with a toy donkey that is a very clever touch. The superstitious sequence when he is on the way to work is also very funny.

The make-up worn by Fields is still a little obvious—the nose and the mustache, but there is a quality in his personal work in this picture that reminds very much of Sydney Drew in the old days. The adult members of the audience will relish this particularly, I think.

"Running Wild" suggested possibilities as a comedy of the domestic sort. It deals with the situations of a second marriage, wherein both husband and wife have an offspring from their first venture. Both Fields's wife and her son are the bane of his life, not to speak of the son's dog which is his sworn enemy. Because of his lack of spirit his daughter endures also more or less grief. He himself is thoroughly henpecked. His business life is no more fortunate, for he hasn't had a rise in twenty years, and is on the verge of being fired besides.

All this is very well until the hypnotizing scene occurs, and then "Running Wild" does run wild and becomes hokum plus. Audiences may laugh at this portion of the picture, but they will probably not wax very enthusiastic over it after they leave the theater. That will be regrettable because Fields himself has a good sense of comedy and works zealously to make even those scenes where he goes on a ridiculous rampage, convincing. Gregory La Cava was both author and director of this picture, so he doubtless get's the blame for most of its faults. Mary Brian, Marie Shotwell, Barney Raskie play other principal parts.

McGlynn, Six Reillys, Cady Acts on Bill

The incoming bill at the Hill-street Sunday is one replete with many potentially entertaining features. Frank McGlynn, known for his portrayal of Abraham Lincoln in the play "Abraham Lincoln," will feature in that role in a sketch based on an actual incident, and is supported by his daughter, Grace McGlynn, and Burr Carruth. Lillian Fitzgerald, the musical comedy comedienne, will be featured in a song cycle of tunes and stories.

Fred Cady, swimming instructor of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, will present a novelty swimming act, featuring Duke Kahanamoku and a bevy of girls. Marguerite Torrey will present her new revue with "the pick of Hollywood in girls," and Judd Griffith.

Ford and Cunningham will offer their satire on married life, entitled "Even As You and I." The six Reillys, a group of tap dancers ranging in age from 7 to 18 years, will be seen in an act depicting the evolution of the dance and the use of several musical instruments by the youngsters.

Johnny Hines will be featured on the screen in a First National Picture, entitled "White Pants Willie," with Lelia Hyams and Walter Long in the cast. "White Pants Willie" is from the original story by Elmer Davis in the Liberty Magazine and is said to be the season's most delightful comedy. Another chapter of "The Wise-Crackers," a Pathe newsreel and Aesop's Fables will also be shown.

"Buck Privates," Director Mel Brown's recently completed Universal feature comedy dealing with the American Army of Occupation on the Rhine, has been officially adopted by the American Legion, and will have its premier showing in Santa Barbara on Sunday, simultaneously with the opening of the Legion State convention in that city.

The picture, the last scene of which was photographed just a week ago, is now undergoing the editing process. Director Brown and a corps of film cutters have been working day and night to get the picture ready for the opening tomorrow.

Cohan Hit Enters Second Week

Kay Hammond

Plays an English heiress in the comedy at the Morosco, the latest offering of the resident players there. Its title is "American Born."

Pilots to be Honor Guests at Playhouse

Monday afternoon six planes of the 447th Pursuit Squadron, a reserve flying unit of the United States Army, will fly in various battle formations over Hollywood, receiving their signals by means of a new device that will be tried out for the first time. The device will be located on the roof of the Hollywood Playhouse Theater and will be in charge of Lieut. Wilson, adjutant in charge of the squadron, the theater management stated.

In the reserve unit are ten cadets who were former students in the R.O.T.C. at Hollywood High School. They were "adopted" into the reserve unit as "aerial godsons" several months ago and received their first military flying instruction under the tutorship of Capt. James L. G. Griffin, commander of the 447 Pursuit Squadron.

Because the formal adoption took place on the stage of the Hollywood Playhouse in connection with a flying celebration, they will once more be feted by the theater on Monday night when the youthful pilots and the entire 447th Pursuit Squadron, as well as seventy-five aviators of Southern California, are expected to attend a performance of "If I Was Rich," the current attraction, as guests of the management.

Dance Numbers Set Pace for Speed, Claim

In the dozen or so dance numbers of the dedicatory attraction for the new Mayan Theater, there will be no dearth of speed, it is anticipated. Larry Ceballos, who is training the chorus of forty California girls, has been working day and night in order to perfect the intricate details, and with these now established he is speeding up the numbers for the opening, which will take place August 15.

Elsie Janis is starred by Gerhold O. Davis, who is producing in association with Homer Curran of San Francisco the Aarons and Freedley musical-comedy success, "Oh Kay," whose book comes from the combined efforts of P. G. Widehouse and Guy Bolton, both internationally noted for their comedies. The music is by George Gershwin, composer of "Rhapsody in Blue" and the music for "Lady Be Good."

White principals and chorus are working separately, workmen are putting the finishing touches upon the new Mayan Theater building, which is next door to the new Belasco. Decorators have virtually completed their work, and millwork is being installed. Seats and carpets will be installed within the next ten days.

GOING SWIMMINGLY

In the days when Richard Arlen was swimming champion at the University of Pennsylvania he did not realize that his prowess in the water would have an all important bearing on his future career. Arlen obtained his first bit in moving pictures because of his ability as a swimmer. Now as Esther Ralston's leading man in her latest starring picture for Paramount, "Heaven Help the Working Girl," Arlen again has to use his ability as a swimmer by saving the heroine from drowning.

NO BEDROOM SCENES

James Donlan, in "The Great Necker" at the Belasco Theater, finds his present engagement a diverting change. For years he played in Al Woods's bedroom farces as a comedian, and became accustomed to being in the wrong bedroom. In "The Great Necker" there are no bedroom scenes.

Spence Lauds Disciples as Film Titlers

History's greatest subtitle writers were Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, according to the declaration of Ralph Spence after he viewed Cecil De Mille's "The King of Kings."

One of the highest salaried cinema captionists today, Spence recently was Sid Grauman's personal guest at the Chinese Theater and left the show place highly enthusiastic over the manner in which quotations from the four best known books of the New Testament linked togeter the action of the De Mille biblical opus.

To Spence belongs the distinction of having been the first writer to devote himself exclusively to creating subtitles. Previous to the time he persuaded Winfield Sheehan, general manager of Fox, to have a department exclusively to build captions titles were everybody's job around the studio. The scenario writer wrote a set for the original script, the director made a few changes, and studio executives often suggested changes here and there.

Music Box Will Have Roof Show

Will Morrissey's "Exposures," now playing at Macloon's Music Box Theater, in its second week, is proving a popular summer show, and the gross receipts for the first week ran well into five figures, the management confides.

Morrissey announces that the night club on the theater roof garden will soon be opened, with appropriate ceremonies. The roof garden is now being transformed by Wittecamp, Berlin artist, to resemble a typical New York cabaret. After each performance of "Exposures" the theatergoers will be invited to dine, dance and watch the entertainment, which will be given by members of the company and chorus of "Exposures." It will not, however, include excerpts from the regular show.

"BIG PARADE" MUSIC LED BY JAN RUBINI

Jan Rubini, conductor of his Little Symphony Orchestra at the Criterion Theater, is so feelingly interpreting the musical score which accompanies "The Big Parade," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer postwar film, costarring Jack Gilbert and Renee Adoree, that favorable comments are the rule after the fadeout.

In arranging the music for the overture, Rubini has selected a medley of airs, some of which predicate the World War and others of which are actual war tunes, bringing back poignantly memories of the period of conflict.

RAH-RAH COLLEGE COMEDY IS SHOWN

Grant Withers

In the athletic support which is making life strenuous these days for Buster Keaton in "College," gracing the screen this week at the Metropolitan, appears Grant Withers, popular young juvenile. The long list of players in this United Artists release includes Ann Cornwall, Harold Goodwin, Buddy Mason, Snitz Edwards, Flora Bramley and Florence Turner.

BELASCO DRAMA IS THRILLING

"The Heart of Maryland," at Uptown, Good Screen Material

BY MARQUIS BUSBY

It has been thirty-two years now since Mrs. Leslie Carter first thrilled an older generation of theatergoers by hanging on to the curfew bell and swinging out over the audience in "The Heart of Maryland."

This, you can be assured, was not a form of calisthenics then in vogue, but a measure taken to still the bell in order that the alarm could not be sounded until her Yankee lover had escaped through the Confederate lines.

What proved thrilling in the gay nineties is not necessarily exciting in 1927, so when Belores Costello hangs grimly to the bell in the screen version of the old Belasco stage success at the Uptown Theater this week it is about as exciting as a strawberry soda at the corner drug store.

Don't get an impression by this that "The Heart of Maryland" is not a good picture.

It is one of the best releases on Warner Brothers 1927 program.

But, what proved the sensation of the play in 1895 and made theatrical history, is only a minor incident in the film version. Yet "The Heart of Maryland" is good screen material. When the play was written audiences demanded plots, and were not satisfied with alleged brilliant drawing-room repartee between Duchess Whozis and Lord Omigosh.

Divulging the plot of the play is like reciting the A, B, C's to those who went to the theater in the nineties, but there are many to whom "The Heart of Maryland" is just a name.

It is a story of Civil War days, laid in the neutral State of Maryland. Maryland Calvert, the heroine, is the mistress of the Lilacs, a plantation, and here most of the action transpires. She has given her allegiance to the South, while her lover is a Yankee major, and her brother a Union spy. The girl is sentenced to be shot for allowing her lover, who has been taken prisoner, to escape. There is a wild chase of the Union troops to her rescue.

Not since Erie von Strohelm in "Hearts of the World" has there been such a busy villain as Warner Richmond. He starts with a seduction, betrays the heroine's brother as a spy, plots against the hero, and when the heroine refuses to submit to his advances he sentences her to be shot. This is a good day's work for any villain. However, e "gets his'n," and the audience goes home happy.

There are a number of picturesque incidents in the picture—the Lincoln inaugural ball in Washington, the Potomac boat leading in the capital City, and the surrender of Lee to Grant at Appomattox Courthouse.

Dolores Costello would be lovely and convincing in a dramatization of the White House Cook Book. She should have been extremely beautiful in the crinolines and curls of the sixties, but she has been badly photographed. There are times when she is really unattractive. Her performance is effective, however.

Jason Robards is sincere as the Yankee sweetheart, Carrol Nye is appealing as the young brother of Maryland Calvert, and Warner Richmond plays the villain in a conventional "A-ha, me proud beauty" fashion.

Charles Edward Bull is a human Lincoln, while Walter Rodgers, as Grant, and James Welsh, as Lee, give startlingly accurate portrayals.

The picture could have been considerably enhanced by a better set of the plantation home of the Calverts. This one looks like a tenement.

Dave Good and his Revelers play the difficult "Rhapsody in Blue" to good effect, and then detract from its effectiveness by doing half the number at the beginning of the presentation, and the last half as a finale, with program numbers in between.

There is a Max Davidson comedy, "Don't Tell Everything," which is everything but funny.

BOWL PROGRAM OF OPERA AND BALLET

Monteux Conducts Dramatic Works; Gridley Receives Warm Welcome

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

Four opera numbers and a ballet were presented to some 10,000 Bowl fans by Pierre Monteux, conductor, and Dan Gridley, tenor, last night. It was an evening of musical drama.

The Gretry-Motul suite, which led the procession, was in a quaint and classical style and its three dance moods proved delightful.

The Bowl debut of the Los Angeles tenor, Dan Gridley, was a veritable triumph for him. This comparatively new singer has a naturally good voice, which was displayed to advantage in an aria from "Andrea Chenier," by Giordano and later in Gounod's tenor aria, "Lend Me Your Aid," from the "Queen of Sheba."

He managed to top his nervousness with some very pleasing tone-work and his intonation was impeccable. The audience received him warmly and he sang two light encores with the piano accompaniment of Will Reese, his coach. Mr. Monteux directed a sympathetic orchestral accompaniment for the operatic arias.

Wagner's "Forest Murmurs" were not successful in the Bowl. Many of the soft rustlings were lost on the breezes and even the birds were unduly muffled.

The closing ballet of the "Scheherazade," by Rimsky-Korsakoff, brought to mind the Diaghileff ballet which Monteux conducted on its first tour. It is interesting to know in that connection that Mme. Nijinsky, wife of the famous dancer who starred in that company, is now in Hollywood.

The final Monteux program tonight is all French and will be so designated by the management.

"ABIE" WILL DEPART AFTER SHOW TONIGHT

Tonight "Abie's Irish Rose" will bill farewell to Los Angeles.

Messrs. Curran and Wiswell endeavored to have the engagement prolonged, but the coming Australian tour caused the California contracts to be date dahead several weeks and it was impossible to keep "Abie's Irish Rose" here longer.

It is stated that Messrs. Curran and Wiswell will probably take another lease of the Playhouse in the early autumn. They have secured the coast rights to one of the leading New York successes and expect to present it here, they say.

CONSUL CORPS TO BROADCAST

Two Talks Each Wednesday at 8:30 P.M.

Twenty-seven Countries to Be Represented

Favorites Return for KHJ Frolic Tonight

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Commencing on the 8:30 radio period next Wednesday evening KHJ will program a fifteen-minute speaking broadcast at the same time each week, presenting various members of the Pan American Consular Corps, including active and honorary consuls and vice-consuls.

BOBBIE HORTON.

There will be two speakers on Wednesday nights for a series of fifteen-minute talk each in which they will briefly narrate some of the salient points of their own countries — commerce, schools, scenic beauty, location and so forth.

TWENTY-SEVEN COUNTRIES

The talks will continue until the twenty-seven countries in the corps have been represented, including Argentina, Belgium, Bolivia, Chile, Ecuador, Cuba, Brazil, Colombia, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Germany, Guatemala, Luxembourg, Latvia, Honduras, Mexico, Netherlands, Panama, Peru, Japan, Salvador, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and Uruguay.

The radio lectures have been arranged by L. S. De Bess, Peruvian Vice-Consul, who is also secretary of the Pan-American Consular Corps of Los Angeles.

The Collins Twins, Katherine and Ellen, gave some vocal duets on the child hour last night at KHJ. Then Betty Violet Hinkley, child reader; Henrietta Poland, "Forget-me-not;" Ruberta Bush, "Firefly;" Vivian Rogers, 14-year-old dramatic pupil of Holly Leah Vlasi, and Bobby Horton, flute pupil of Harry Knox, were all favored entertainers of Uncle John's radio hour for the children.

NEW ENTERTAINER

The children's hour also presented a brand new broadcaster in Harry Roth, pianist, with some clever tunes; June Star Carroll, in song and in dance, both of which broadcast well; Dorothy Cushman, young cornet soloist and pupil of Dr. E. M. Hiner; and John Birdwell, 10-year-old reader, who also made his radio debut over KHJ last night.

The 8 o'clock evening broadcast brought Jose Arias and his group of Mexican entertainers in song and dance; Chihi De Vere in selected readings and Frank Purnell, baritone, with several well-grouped numbers.

Olga Mitano and Roy Hellrigel, violinists, offered some violin duets accompanied by Virgie Dugas and each of the three young artists also entertained with solo selections. These young musicians were first heard via radio at KHJ two weeks ago. Miss Mitano leaves next week for a tour of Pantages circuit.

A novelty feature of the night's program was furnished by Tommy O'Grady of the entertainment staff of KYW, Chicago, who dropped into the studio informally with some piano medleys of old-time popular tunes.

FAVORITES BACK

Tonight's broadcast over The Times radio station will witness the return of several favorites. Mammy Lou is back from her vacation and will give some monologues while Les Roscoe, known as the "Rag Man" of KHJ, will strum out some piano tunes.

Charles Jahn in saxophone solos will be a newcomer to broadcast. Thelma Brown, blues singer, accompanied by Onita Floyd, will also give their initial broadcast tonight. The Misses Brown and Floyd, colored entertainers, make a rather good combination and I predict that the radio audience will vote the numbers as the best popular songs in radioland for many a day.

Vern and Larry Cannon, accompanied by Ted Haller, will give some harmony duets. The Cannons, who are well known in broadcast circles, have not been at the KHJ studio for six months or more. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Sears, old-time pianist and fiddler, will also help out with the Saturday-night frolic.

TWO MORE DRY AGENTS LOSE JOBS

Economy Ax Cuts Twelve Enforcement Officials Off Federal Pay Roll

Two more dry agents will be let out by Maj. Frank M. McReynolds, Federal prohibition administrator for Southern California and Arizona, on August 1. This brings the total number of agents to be taken off the pay roll because of cuts in the appropriation for this district to twelve.

The men slated for the ax are said to be Agents Stagg, Jackson, McKague, Webster, Chapman, Overpeck, Douglas, Osboon, Allen, Chenowith, Sterling and Anderson. Some of the agents to be let out here, however, will be transferred to posts back East, it was said.

Maj. McReynolds has recommended to Washington the abolishment of the position of assistant administrator in charge of enforcement, now held by Capt. Frank E. Benedict. Capt. Benedict, according to McReynolds, has voluntarily agreed to accept a lower salaried position as an inspector in order to comply with the economy program recently decided upon by Prohibition Commissioner Doran at Washington.

ALUMNI WILL HONOR GIRARD COLLEGE HEAD

Cheesman A. Herrick, PH.D., LL.D., president of Girard College of Philadelphia, is spending a short time in Los Angeles and Southern California and will be entertained by the Girard College alumni at a banquet at the Ambassador tonight.

HEAVY TRUCKING OPPOSED

The Board of Police Commissioners has recommended that the City Council prohibit heavy trucking on Mansfield avenue, from Country Club Drive to La Brea avenue.

FIELDS AND CONKLIN SET TO GO

Mary Brian as Leading Lady, Ralph Ceder as Director; Curtiz Chooses Warner Oland for Title Role; "Blonde's" Papa and Mama Here Soon

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

All at one pop Paramount yesterday announced the director, story title and leading lady for the first Chester Conklin-W. C. Fields co-starring comedy.

Mary Brian

B. P. Schulberg let us in on the fact that Mary Brian will be the actress who will supply what might be termed the beauty relief in the picture. Miss Brian is returning in a day or two from Sacramento, where she has been working opposite Richard Dix in "Shanghai Bound."

The director will be Ralph Ceder, who, like Malcolm St. Clair and a number of other directors, received his initiation as director by making two-reel comedies. Ceder is said to have been very successful in this field. He has also worked as a gag man.

The title of the story is "The Sideshow," although, of course, this is subject to possible change.

Anita Loos Here Soon

Anita Loos, author of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," and John Emerson, noted playwright and Miss Loos's co-worker, will arrive in Los Angeles on Monday morning on the Santa Fe, according to word just received from the Paramount studios.

The pair are bringing with them the scenario for the above named popular book, and they will have a large part of the say as to who will be selected to play the particular blend.

Larry Kent in It

When that charming young actress, Molly O'Day, goes to work for First National in "The Little Shepherd of the Hills," she will have as her leading man, according to present plans, no less capable a young actor than Larry Kent. Kent at present is appearing with Sally O'Neil and Molly O'Day in a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

Warner Oland in It

Called by Darryl Zanuck the most dramatic character part of the season, Warner Oland was assigned yesterday to portray the title role in the Warner Brothers' picture, "Good - Time Charley."

WARNER OLAND

Michael Curtiz is directing, and he declares that in "Good - Time Charley" Oland will have a human characterization of which much can be made. He will play the role of an actor, an idol whom the passing of years breaks in body and spirit, and, incidentally, Curtiz himself will have the opportunity for the direction of character development on the screen, a phase of picture making for which he is peculiarly talented.

Norma Talmadge Sails

If Norma Talmadge is not already in New York, on her way home, she will be within a few days, as it became known yesterday that she has sailed from Europe on the Majestic, New York bound.

New Film Team

The rage for film comedy teams goes on and on. A new one was formed yesterday, when Fred Kelsey was signed for the role of Mulligan, the detective, in "The Gorilla," which Edward Small is making. Charlie Murray is the opposite half of the team. Murray will play Garrity, the other comic detective in the play.

FRENCH MUSIC TONIGHT

Four of the most notable of the French masters will be represented on tonight's program at the Hollywood Bowl—Lalo, Delibes, Chabrier and Charpentier—with two distinct novelties to be directed by Pierre Monteux, conductor of the evening. This is Monteux's farewell.

HANDLING MEGAPHONES

Directors now shooting at Fox Films West Coast studios include John Ford, Howard Hawks, Albert Ray, John G. Blystone, David Butler, Ray Flynn, Zion Myers, Robert Ray, Alfred E. Green and others.

Acreage planted to cotton in the United States increased from 30,000,000 in 1921 to 47,000,000 in 1926.

Flames Fed by Grease Destroy Luncheon Plant

Grease and cooking compounds, ignited by an overheated oven, are believed to have started a fire which gutted the plant of the Reliable Food Company at 614 Mateo street, shortly after 6 p.m. yesterday.

Five companies responded to the alarm and when they arrived the whole building was a veritable furnace. The place was operated by Ralph Frank for the manufacture of box lunches and the damage was estimated at approximately $10,000, partly covered by insurance.

CARELESSNESS MAKES LUXURY OF KINDLING

Forest fires caused by carelessness may make kindling wood a luxury 100 years from now, according to T. H. Williams, assistant general manager for Southern Pacific.

Last year Class I railroads expended $186,291,000 for the direct purchase of about 15 per cent of the total timber cut in the United States. Indirect purchases brought the railroads' 1926 consumption of forest products up to approximately 25 per cent of the country's entire output.

"Because of these huge expenditures, the railroads regard fire prevention as of utmost importance," Williams said. "But the average citizen should be no less concerned, for if forest fires continue on the present scale wood eventually will become so scarce as to render almost prohibitive many commonplace articles now regarded as necessities."

YOUR BABY and MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

Cod Liver Oil Needed When There Is Undernourishment

Mrs. J. M. writes: "My friend's baby is not up to par. He weighs less than he should, is pale, and the soft spot is still wide open. I want her to give him cod liver oil, but she says he doesn't need it, especially in summer. I think otherwise. Who is right? Does cod liver oil cause a rash all over a baby's body?"

Answer: When a baby is underweight, when he is pale and anemic and the soft spot has not begun to close up (it should be much smaller at one year) there is need for cod liver oil no matter what season it is. Cod liver oil contains valuable vitamins and also helps the body to use the lime and phosphorus of other foods to better advantage. In addition to cod liver oil this child undoubtedly needs some alteration of his general diet. I doubt if small amounts of the oil would cause a general body rash.

Mrs. C. H. H. writes: "My baby is 3 months of age and there are a few things I want to know about him. Is it correct when undressing him for the night to take off his hose?

"When is it proper to prop up a baby in his buggy? Is 3 months a good age at which to begin training to the stool?

"He weighs fifteen pounds and is happy and healthy. The formula I am using seems all right for him."

A.: All a baby needs at night is a knitted band, diaper and nightgown.

Some mothers have started training their babies at 3 months and have been successful. I think 3 months is early enough for this. It depends on the development of the child. Your baby is such a large weight that he is as large as a 6 months old baby now.

It is unnecessary and wrong to prop a baby up and force him to sit when his back is not strong enough to support him. When a child is ready to sit up plank won't hold him down, and then when he sits erect his back supports him and when he is tired he flops back again. Give him an opportunity to raise himself in carriage or bed, but don't prop him up with pillows and force him to stay that way.

Be sure your baby has orange juice and cod liver oil with the formula you are using.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

by Dr Frank McCoy

author of "Ten Years Off to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy, who can be addressed in care of the Los Angeles Times. Inclose large stamped self-addressed envelope for reply.

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, the 31st inst.

SUNDAY

Breakfast: Coddled egg, small piece broiled ham, Melba toast, stewed prunes.

Lunch: Plain ice cream with fresh peaches.

MONDAY

Breakfast: Ground wholewheat mush, one coddled egg, two or three pieces of Melba toast.

Lunch: Watermelon as desired.

Dinner: Salisbury steak (ground with raw spinach,) cooked string beans, salad of raw asparagus tips, prune whip.

TUESDAY

Breakfast: Cantaloupe, as desired.

Lunch: Corn bread, cooked spinach, raw celery.

Dinner: Roast mutton, cooked asparagus and celery, salad of sliced tomatoes, baked pears.

WEDNESDAY

Breakfast: French omelet on toasted triscuit, applesauce.

Lunch: French apricots, as desired.

Dinner: Baked white fish, cooked spinach and parsley, McCoy salad (lettuce, tomatoes, cucumbers,) no dessert.

THURSDAY

Breakfast: Cottage cheese, Melba toast, fresh pineapple.

Lunch: Eight-ounce glass of buttermilk, five or six ripe figs.

Dinner: Broiled steak, cooked asparagus, celery and ripe olives, small dish of ice cream.

FRIDAY

Breakfast: Berries, as desired, with cream.

Lunch: Cooked carrots, cooked spinach, cooked celery.

Dinner: Broiled sea bass, string beans, sliced tomatoes on raw spinach leaves, stewed figs.

SATURDAY

Breakfast: Cantaloupe, as desired.

Lunch: Corn on cob, baked parsnips, raw celery.

Dinner: Salisbury steak, cooked spinach and celery, salad of cucumbers on shredded lettuce, baked pears.

Triscuit: Is of the same composition as shredded wheat biscuit, and is simply pressed flat. It should be toasted in the oven the same way as the Melba toast, and makes a very delicious toast. Packages of this triscuit may be taken on travels and camping trips, and retoasted just before being used. It has a different flavor than Melba toast on account of being made from shredded wholewheat, and will be relished by those who do not care particularly for the latter.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: L. H. G. writes: "I have tuberculosis in an advanced stage, but am thirty pounds overweight. Yet, I eat lightly. Do you think a fast would help me?"

Answer: As your assimilation is so good, you can no doubt be entirely cured by the proper dietary regime. Take a fruit fast until your weight is reduced to the normal and then live on a diet free from starches and sugars. Others who read this will see that those who are overweight can also develop tuberculosis. It is not so much a question of lack of weight as of enervation and a tendency to catarrhal mucus.

Q.: Mrs. W. H. L. asks: "Would the advertised remedy——be good for diabetes?"

A.: I do not advise "remedies" either through this column or in my private practice. Proper food is the only remedy you need to bring about a cure of diabetes. If you will send me your name and address I will be glad to forward general instructions for the cure of diabetes.

Q.: M. J. B. writes: "About four times a year I have spells when I 'see things' in front of my eyes. They look like little electric sparks. At these times I also have indigestion. Could this be the cause?"

A.: You have answered your own question as the disturbances coming from indigestion are no doubt responsible for the billousness you have at these times.

CHEF WYMAN'S Suggestions for TOMORROW'S MENU

Every Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southern California Manufacturers' Exhibit, 120 South Broadway.

Breakfast
Strawberries
Chipped Beef and Poached Eggs
Rusks Jam
Milk Coffee

Dinner
Watermelon Cocktail
Celery
Panned Chicken
Riced Potatoes String Beans
Grapefruit Salad
Frozen Custard
Iced Tea

Supper
Salmon Sandwiches
French Salad
Apricot Shortcake
Buttermilk

WATERMELON COCKTAIL

Two cupfuls of watermelon balls, fresh mint, powdered sugar, two tablespoonfuls lemon juice, (lemon juice and sugar may be omitted.)

With a vegetable cutter prepare small balls of bright pink watermelon. Sprinkle lightly with sugar and add lemon juice. Chill thoroughly. Fill glasses. Garnish with sprigs of fresh mint. A pretty fancy is to moisten the edge of each cocktail glass before filling. Invert the glass in finely chopped mint. This will leave a line of green adhering to the edge of the glass. The glass may be lined with sprigs of mint before the watermelon is put in.

FROZEN CUSTARD

One teaspoonful gelatine, one cupful milk, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, one egg, one tablespoonful of sherry wine.

Dissolve the gelatine in the milk. Add the sugar to the yolk of egg, beat until light, then pour in the milk slowly. Cook in a double boiler, stirring until it thickens. Remove from the fire and when cool fold in the stiffly beaten white of egg. When cold add the sherry wine and freeze.

SALMON SANDWICHES

Mince salmon very fine and season with salt and paprika. Mix into a paste with melted butter. Make a highly seasoned French dressing of vinegar, oil, pepper and salt and pour over cucumbers which have been peeled and sliced very thin. Set them on the ice until chilled. Spread thin slices of bread with salmon mixture and put a slice of cucumber between them. The bread may be spread with the salmon mixture a half hour before serving, but the cucumber slices should not be added until the last minute.

FRENCH SALAD

One pint of cold diced potatoes, a half cupful diced cucumbers, one-half cup diced radishes, one quarter cupful grated onion, one cupful of cream dressing, salt to taste, one cupful of celery.

Cook the potatoes in boiling salted water. When cold, cut into half-inch cubes. Peel the cucumber, cut into small cubes and throw into cold water until ready for use. Prepare the radishes in the same way. If the radishes are very tender, the skin may be left on to give a bit of color to the salad. Chop the celery quite fine, remove the vegetables from the water and dry upon clean towels. Add them to the potatoes. Add the grated onions (the onion may be omitted,) and mix all the ingredients with the cream dressing. Garnish with crisp, tender, lettuce and red radishes with the skin trimmed back from the root-end in such a way as to represent a blossom.

COUNCIL RAILS AT ITS CRITICS

Public Disapproval in Meline Case Stirs Fire

Harbor Board Turns Guns on Legislators, Too

Date Set for New Hearing on Appointment

Notice was served on the public yesterday by the new City Council, which has been in office less than one month, that the acts of the Council must not be questioned nor reasons demanded for the Council's rejecting appointments, such as that of Frank Meline to the Board of Harbor Commissioners.

Councilman Randall declared that the Council had been "insulted" by a resolution from the Screen Players' Association protesting against Meline's rejection and respectfully asking for reconsideration.

Councilman Alber said that the Council is not required to give reasons for its actions, and that the "public should give the Council the benefit of the doubt." Councilman Colden, who led the battle for the rejection of the Meline appointment, joined in the outburst of indignation and said that it was the first time he could recall that the Council had been asked for its reasons for acting.

REPORT DRAWS FIRE

The Board of Harbor Commissioners, as a board, jumped on the Council yesterday for a harbor "policy" report adopted on the day the Meline appointment was rejected, but which was separate from the Meline rejection report. In this "policy" report from the harbor committee, of which Councilman Colden is chairman, and which was the same committee which turned down the Meline appointment, several back-handed slaps were taken at the harbor board, of which Colden once was a member.

President Bonelli and Councilman Colden admitted yesterday that the first intention was to put the Meline rejection and the harbor policy all in one report. President Bonelli said that he advised making separate reports, as the conclusion might be drawn that the attack on the board in the policy report constituted the reason for Meline's rejection.

"And I saw no reason why the Council should explain its rejection of the Meline appointment," President Bonelli said. "The Mayor is not required to give any reasons for appointing a man to a commission except that he is qualified and that it will be in the interest of good government. Then why should the Council give any reasons for refusing to confirm the appointment?"

INQUIRY DATE SET

The Council met next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock for starting investigation of itself in refusing to confirm the Meline appointment. Councilman Colden considers that grave charges have been made against him in resolutions of the Greater San Pedro Taxpayers' Association in connection with the turning down of the Meline appointment and asked for the inquiry. The association, however, also had asked for an investigation to determine if the Meline rejection had been engineered by Colden, "as the vindictive gratification of a personal grudge at the expense of the people and without regard to the general welfare."

Among the witnesses to be called at the Council investigation will be Commissioner Meline, former Councilman Barnes, Jacob C. Chain, candidate for the City Council in the harbor district at the May 3 primaries, Capt. Haverman, a harbor captain of a packing company boat, and President Peter Mulder and Secretary John Booth of the Greater San Pedro Taxpayers' Association.

RAIL UNIFICATION

In the Council Harbor Committee's "policy" report filed with the Council on the day that the Meline appointment was rejected, reference was made to the unification of rail facilities at the harbor. In its reply yesterday, the harbor board said unification of the facilities is necessary and that it can be carried out by one or two methods, viz, expansion of the municipal belt line so that it will reach all parts of the harbor, or by consolidation of all existing rail facilities into a single operating system under a single, independent management.

The harbor board set forth the investigation of the unification plans that has been under way for three years to determine the cost of each plan, pointed out that the expansion of the belt line would cost millions of dollars, and that if a consolidation of the existing lines and facilities on a reasonable basis could be carried out it would be desirable. The harbor board told of the engineering investigation under way and said:

"At the present time the entire unification matter is still in the hands of an unofficial joint committee, and the Board of Harbor Commissioners as well as each of the railroad companies will be afforded an opportunity officially to pass upon the proposal at its completion. It is therefore respectfully requested that the Council reserve its decision until a definite, final plan is produced."

NEW PROTESTS HEARD IN MELINE CASE

Protests registered yesterday against the City Council's rejection of the Mayor's reappointment of Frank Meline to the Board of Harbor Commissioners included a resolution from the Screen Players' Association and a strong editorial in the Los Angeles Athletic Club's publication, The Mercury.

The association in its resolution expressed confidence in Mr. Meline, declared that the Council had rejected his reappointment "without sufficient cause," and stated that the action does not represent the uninfluenced and independent judgment of the individual members of the Council. For these reasons the association "respectfully requests reconsideration" of the Meline matter.

MELINE PRAISED

The editorial in The Mercury declared that Mr. Meline's record on the harbor board was excellent, that he is a splendid type of successful business man "who is above graft."

The editorial then said:

"Mr. Meline says that Colden, some days ago, tried to give him the 'third degree' and to commit him on future policy. He also says that either Councilman Barnes called on him, ostensibly from Colden, and asked what the appointment was worth to him.

"Colden denies he sent Barnes to Meline. Barnes admits he went to Meline to discuss his confirmation.

"Colden says Meline is too busy a man for the Harbor Commission.

"Does he mean this as a warning to busy men not to accept the Mayor's appointments?)

GRUDGE DENIED

"Colden says he has no grudge against Meline. Meline admits he desired the honor of reappointment as a recognition of faithful service.

"The question the people want to know is: Why was Barnes opposed to Meline after he went to Meline's office to discuss his confirmation?' He evidently was friendly when he went there.

"There is another and bigger question, one that involves the pocketbook of every taxpayer in the city. When the Mayor appoints outstanding citizens on important business committees involving the financial welfare of the city, is some individual in the Council to play politics and withhold appointment to increase his own political importance?

"It is about time that a political vigilance committee is organized to recall any elective official who forgets that he is the paid servant of the people, entitled to support and respect only while he does his unselfish duty."

LEGISLATOR OBEYS OWN LAW

Wed-at-Leisure Bill Maker First Patron

Miss Lois W. Hegmann and George W. Rochester.

ANYWAY, no one can ever say George Rochester married in haste.

A few months ago he piloted through the Legislature the new law requiring applicants for marriage licenses to file notice of intention three days before issuance of the license.

The act went into effect yesterday. During the intervening months Rochester had been engaged to marry Miss Lois W. Hegmann, but they patiently waited the day when the Rochester bill should become the law of the State. Once it had become so they were patient no longer.

When the marriage license clerks came on the job yesterday morning Rochester and Miss Hegmann were waiting for them. They were the first couple to file "notice of intent" under the new dispensation.

Not until Tuesday can they obtain their license, for which they applied yesterday. By the same token, neither can anyone else obtain a license before Tuesday. Thus Cupid, harried and worn with the rush of June business, is enjoying a three-day rest, during which he may get all his old arrows back from the sharpener, and have the trusty bow restrung and attend to other neglected details of his business.

"It's a great law," declared Assemblyman Rochester, as he made out his application. "I am sure its operation will be reflected in fewer divorce and annulment suits. It certainly ought to reduce the number of 'gin marriages' which I am persuaded are the cause of a great deal of domestic unhappiness and litigation."

Miss Hegmann regarded her fiance with open admiration and said nothing. She gave her age as 24 and her address as South Los Robles avenue, Pasadena. Rochester is 27 and lives at 720 South Union avenue.

Whether it was the result of the new regulations or not, there was a great falling off in the number of applications for licenses yesterday. Only thirty-seven couples filed applications, as against 132 the preceding day.

PALO VERDE CUPID FACES PREDICAMENT

RIVERSIDE, July 29. (Exclusive) With the advent of the new marriage law abolishing the right of Justices of the Peace to issue marriage licenses and establishing the three-day notice procedure Blythe and the Palo Verde Valley have been placed in a predicament from which County Clerk Clayton sees no relief from within this State.

Under the new ruling couples from Blythe or that locality will be required to make two 400-mile trips or remain here for three days. This inconvenience was not suffered under the previous arrangement as deputy clerks could provide the necessary licenses in the distant communities. "There seems nothing left for the Palo Verde residents to do but cross the line to Arizona for licenses," Clayton declared.

SANTA ANA HAS LAST-MINUTE RUSH

SANTA ANA, July 29. (Exclusive)—Sixty marriage licenses issued here yesterday, the last day for marrying under the old law, and thus evading the three-day notice, smashed all records at the local bureau, it was announced by County Clerk Backs today and for the next two days no marriage licenses can be issued anywhere in California. Notices of intention will be filed instead.

The first notice of intention filed in Orange county under the new law was that of John Adot, 26 years of age, and Lewha Meadows, 24, both of Yorba Linda.
